At Hands of Licking Democracy at Greatest May Meeting Ever Held in the County

Judge John David Jones for Circuit Judge
---Noted Speakers Address Gathering.

The Annual May Meeting of the Licking County Democracy was held in Newark Saturday, at the Music Hall, and was by all odds the greatest, most enthusiastic and best in every respect that has ever been held in the county. While the weather was very inclement it did not prevent the farmers from attending the convention and the gathering of Democrats from the furthest parts of the county was brimful of Democratic enthusiasm, and savored of the old time Democratic times, and which brought from the city of Newark and the various townships of the county an old time host of enthusiastic Democrats. An old time Democrat expressed himself thusly: "I have plenty of work to do at home in the way of fixing up fences and other repairs, if I couldn't plow, but I just couldn't stay away from the meeting." This was the sentiment of many of the rock ribbed Democrats who were in attendance at the meeting. The secret of this unprecedented enthusiasm is that the Democrats of Ohio are thoroughly inspired with the hope of victory—county, state and national, this fall. In addition to this the fact that Hon. James E. Campbell, who is one of Licking county's prime favorites, was advertised to address the meeting, conspired to give interest to the meeting and increased attendance. The meeting throughout was not only large and enthusiastic but orderly and well conducted. The unusually large attendance of Democrats at the meeting, the good order and great enthusiasm they manifested, is indicative of the victory that is certain to perch on Democracy's banner this fall. The delegates began arriving early and by 10 o'clock the hall was packed. The various delegations from the county and the wards of the city were seated together in the parts of the hall assigned to them by the printed placards, according to the usual custom. Promptly at 10:30 o'clock Hon. Robert C. Howard, chairman of the County Central Committee, and ex-officio temporary chairman of the committee, called the meeting to order. Mr. O. C. Latason acted as secretary.

Mr. Howard, upon calling the meeting to order said that he was proud of the honor of once again calling the time honored May meeting of the Licking County Democracy to order. Under the call no provision having been made for Precinct E of the Fourth ward, which that ward was entitled to, Col. Chas. Rosebrough offered a resolution that the new born babe be christened, which was done, and the representatives of that precinct were given a vote in the convention.

Judge Brister moved that: Hon. W. A. Ashbrook, congressman from this district, be empowered to select his own delegates to the Congressional convention. Mr. J. A. Flory moved to amend the motion by empowering Judge John David Jones, Democratic candidate for Circuit Judge from Licking county, to select his own delegates, which was done. Upon motion the committee on State delegates was authorized to select delegates to the Senatorial convention. The convention then settled down to business and the Chairman called the rolls of townships and the precincts of the city for committeemen to represent the following committees: Committee on Permanent Organization. FATALLY

Afflicted With Cancer Ex-President
Said to be

PRONOUNCED HOPELESS

Physicians and Nurses in Constant Attendance
At All Times

There Will be No Operation, the Specialists Advising
Against it.

Lakewood, N. J., May 2.—When a card was sent to Mrs. Grover Cleveland this morning asking her the condition of the former President it was returned bearing this message: "Nothing to say." Every inquirer who called at Lakewood hotel today was met with a rebuff, and no one would discuss the illness of the former President. Because of this fact there is great apprehension as to the exact nature of the ailment. Dr. Joseph Bryant spent all night at the hotel and is still there. He will not discuss his patient's condition.

New York, May 2.—A report was circulated in Wall street Friday purporting to have emanated from the offices of the Equitable Life Assurance society, that former President Grover Cleveland is a sufferer from cancer of the stomach and that his case has been pronounced hopeless by specialists called into consultation by Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of this city, the family physician.

Dr. Bryant was seen yesterday in his home, and asked point blank if Mr. Cleveland is suffering from cancer of the stomach. The physician made this significant statement:

"That is not for me to say. I can not give an affirmative or negative answer to the question. As his physician it would not be proper for me to state whether or not there is anything at all the matter with him. Any statement as to the nature of his illness should come from his family."

"When did you see Mr. Cleveland last?" Dr. Bryant was asked.

"On Monday," he replied. "I am going to Lakewood to see him again this evening. The reports I have received of his condition since Monday have been very favorable."

Mr. Cleveland remains in the Lakewood hotel, at Lakewood, N. J., although the house closed for the season 10 days ago.

His wife and children are the only other guests. A physician and nurses are in constant attendance, and a small staff of servants has been retained to look after the Cleveland family.

Mr. Cleveland is one of the trustees of the stock of the Equitable Life Association society purchased from Jas. Hazen Hyde by Thomas F. Ryan. The other trustees are: Former Justice Morgan J. O'Brien and George Westinghouse. Previous to the October panic, Mr. Cleveland was quite diligent in the performance of the duties connected with his trusteeship.

Since the beginning of the year Mr. Cleveland has not been in the Equitable offices. Up to a few weeks ago he looked after special correspondence and attended to urgent work in his home in Princeton or in the Lakewood hotel. He has done no work whatever recently and messengers from the Equitable no longer visit him with documents requiring his personal signature.

Rumors concerning the precarious state of Mr. Cleveland's health have been in circulation in and about the Equitable offices for weeks. That cancer of the stomach is his ailment is now positively asserted.

An operation has been discussed but the surgeon specialists have advised against it.

Mr. Cleveland was 71 years old on March 18 last. It is extremely doubtful if he could survive the terrific shock of such an operation as the removal of a cancer of the stomach involves.

There is no attempt on the part of the New York friends of Mr. Cleveland to disguise their anxiety over his condition. Daily bulletins are forwarded from Lakewood to them.

A reporter who visited the Lakewood hotel today was told that Mr. Cleveland had passed a restful night and was quite comfortable. The two doctors in attendance serve on alternate days and are within call of the patient's room every minute of the 24 hours constituting their period of supervision. A section comprising the pleasantest rooms in the hotel has been given over to the Cleveland entourage.

Mrs. Cleveland this afternoon issued the following statement: "Mr. Cleveland is slowly but surely recovering from his recent attack of digestive trouble. Reports that a change for the worse has taken place in his condition are without warrant. We believe he will have recovered his former health very soon."

MINERS RATIFY
TOLEDO AGREEMENT

Indianapolis, May 2.—The tabulated vote as announced at the headquarters of the Mine Workers of America today on the adoption of the Toledo agreement will show a majority of ten to one in the affirmative. National tellers assert that the referendum vote is practically unanimous. The Toledo agreement was made between operators and miners, the contract to run two years at practically the present wage scale.

JEFF WAXES ELOQUENT

Jumps Onto the Trusts and Tears Them to Pieces Easily

Newspapers May Now Suspend as He Has Chewed Them Into a Pulpy Mass.

Washington, May 2.—Jeff Davis went through his great vaudeville stunt in the Senate again Friday, and what he did to the trusts and the plutocrats and to the press of Arkansas, which has been telling the truth about him, was a plenty. He showed Bosco, the snake-eating man, to be a piker as compared with himself, for with the utmost dexterity he reached out for octopuses after octopuses and chewed them up alive, tentacles and all. The Standard Oil went down with only one swallow and several railroad combinations followed without apparently irritating in the slightest degree his sensitive esophagus. The sublime intrepidity he manifested in tackling these devilfish of commercialism made some people wonder whether after all it was true that Jeff dropped a heavy walking stick and rushed into his office to get a blunderbuss to defend himself against a game prosecuting attorney who punched him in the jaw and applied epithets to him which would make a snail turn on and bite a bulloo. He was so entertaining that he had a constant audience of at least three senators, one of whom was his colleague, Mr. Clarke, who seemed to feel as though he had to sit throughout the performance as a matter of courtesy. But that did not seem to disturb the carnivorous statesman from the jungles of the Arkansas Valley for he had given out copies of his speech several days in advance and felt certain the public would read it anyway.

Senator Jeff Davis, Arkansas, moved to discharge the committee on the Judiciary from the further consideration of his bill "for the repression of trusts, pools and combinations in trade." He spoke about two hours, reading most of the time from a type written statement, which he said he had prepared in advance "that no inopportune language might escape his lips on this occasion," a thing which he said he had never done before.

During his speech he roughly denounced the trusts, commended the President's recent message outlining measures for relief, spoke of the removal of the motto, "In God We Trust" from the coins and declared that John D. Rockefeller, the Standard Oil company and J. Pierpont Morgan should be indicted for treason. He also paid his respects to the press. His remarks in that connection being: "Let scavengers of plutocracy howl! truth, God's living truth— (Continued on page 8, 1st col.)

KISSING

Record Held by a Wealthy Kansas
Osculatorist

SUED BY WORTHY HUBBY

Richards Claims Wife and Humes Are Original
Kissing Bugs

Evidence Gets So Warm Attorneys
Come to Blows in Open Court.

Kansas City, Mo., May 2.—There are more kisses in the testimony of Edward J. Richards than you can find at the dock when a ship comes in. Richards, who is president of the Ginger club, is suing J. C. Humes, president of a big crockery concern, for $100,000 on the charge of alienating his wife's affections. He filed the suit after his wife had sued him for divorce.

Richards had concluded his testimony yesterday telling how the couch was always reserved at parties for his wife and Hume, where they kissed and kissed and kissed, and then played Indian with rugs as tents, under which there was room for only two, his wife and Humes, and also played "odd man out," in which he was locked out while his wife and Humes were inside kissing. When asked if he had donned woman's clothing and danced the hootchie-coochie at their parties, he admitted donning woman's clothes, but didn't remember what he danced, as all the guests at the party were drunk. When asked where his wife was when he was drunk all this time, he said she was kissing Humes.

"A week ago Sunday I saw a copy of 'Three Weeks' in our home," Richards testified. "I asked our son where it came from, and he said Humes sent it over. I threw it in the fire and told my wife it had to end."

"I started out, taking my son, and my wife struck me. She broke my glasses. I pushed her backward, and, unfortunately, she fell over a chair."

"Isn't it a fact that you did 10 times more kissing than all the others combined?" asked Mrs. Richards' lawyer.

"No, sir," said Richards emphatically. "Humes and my wife hold all records for kissing. For more than a year they have been kissing each other in public."

"What happened at a picnic party in Clay county?"

"A lady was wading and got stuck in the mud. Hume's shipping clerk waded out, picked her up, brought her over his shoulder and carried her to land. Then another lady got stuck. I went in after her. That's all."

"Didn't Humes get in on that, too?"

"No; he stood on the shore and watched it."

The evidence here got so warm and the opposing attorneys so hot over objections to it that the lawyers finally came to blows.

It is often wondered who makes the fashions those "new styles" which semi-annually burst into view in the shop windows, and from thence to the persons of amiable women, who accept them with meekness not to say triumph. The majority of spring hat worshippers will adopt and adapt the towering crowned headgear and call it "lovely" if it were a hundred times more excessive than it is; therefore, let us bow our heads to the inevitable. At all events no more feather dusters will be worn.

The general tendency in business in manufacturing and everywhere is to reduce expenses. This calls for a reduction in living expenses as well. At the annual town meeting of Middleboro, Mass., a committee was appointed to investigate the town gas and electric plants and report on the advisability of selling them. In an editorial on the subject the Middleboro News intimates that in the electric plant there is a present value of only $50,000 or $60,000 to offset an investment of three times that amount.

There has been a great deal of complaint about the quality of the service although considerable sums have been expended "to put the plants in first class condition."

According to the Milwaukee Sentinel, the municipal gas plant of Sotona, Wis., is not a success. The dispatch says:

There is nothing, seemingly, that a young woman of the present day will not do in order to keep pace with Dame Fashion who trips along with many a backward glance to see what's doing along the trail.

There is a particularly pretty girl in town who wears a pompadour most wonderfully and artistically arranged, and beneath it, in place of the fuzzy "rat," guess what she has to make her hair assume this attitude—you can't. Neither could any one else, nor did any of her friends, until one day at school she "undid" her locks and removed the "rat."

It was a brown silk stocking filled with tissue paper?

Individuality is the dominant feature in fashionable footwear. Linehans give it to you, with many other good features in their new spring line of Goodyear Welts. They fit, especially the low cuts which are so hard to get to fit around the ankle. Good-year Welts always fit. Let Linehans demonstrate this to you.

A red oily nose should be bathed with borax water, and afterward unointed with champer water.

"Did you bake this bread, Mrs. Brown? It's fine."
"No it's 'Lora.' The family like it even better than mine and it saves me lots of hard work."

Are you letting yourself sag a bit at the shoulders? Don't, if you want to keep either young or well. There's nothing so futilely easy as to grow round shouldered. Keep a sharp watch on yourself to prevent it.

Have you seen those hammocks at Norton's Book Store? The prettiest ones ever brought to Newark. You'll soon want one, so drop in and look at them. The prices run from $1.25 to $7.00. A special line of beauties at $4.00.

It is often wondered who makes the fashions those "new styles" which semi-annually burst into view in the shop windows, and from thence to the persons of amiable women, who accept them with meekness not to say triumph. The majority of spring hat worshippers will adopt and adapt the towering crowned headgear and call it "lovely" if it were a hundred times more excessive than it is; therefore, let us bow our heads to the inevitable. At all events no more feather dusters will be worn.

The general tendency in business in manufacturing and everywhere is to reduce expenses. This calls for a reduction in living expenses as well. It is during such a time that it is eminently important to buy necessities from a dependable store where dependable qualities are sold. It is not always true that high priced goods only are good. The medium grades if ning by R. I. Francis at 35 West Church street. Three pieces go at 25 cents.

"John, do you love me?" "Yes."
"Do you adore me?" "I s'pose." Will you always love me?" "Ye—look here, woman, what have you been and gone and ordered sent home now?"

Neighborhood Favorites.
Mrs. E. D. Charles, of Harbor Maine, speaking of Electric Bitters says: "It is a neighborhood favorite here with us." It deserves to be a favorite everywhere. It gives quick relief in dyspepsia, liver complaint, kidney derangement, malnutrition, nervousness, weakness and general debility. Its action on the blood as a thorough purifier makes it especially useful as a spring medicine. This "rand alternative tonic" is sold under guarantee at F. D. Hall's drug store 70c.

TEMPORARY QUARTERS

Matter of Scouring Books and Funds Will Be Looked After at Next Meeting of Trustees.

The trustees of the Memorial building, Friday night voted that the large room on the north side of the second floor of the building, now occupied by Miss Wulfoop's dressmaking establishment, be given for library purposes. The room will be vacated by June 15, at which time the city library will take possession.

When the building was erected, the plans were originally prepared for the use of the north half of the second floor for library purposes.

The greater part of this section is now occupied by the Christian Scientists. For the past few years the Scientists have had under consideration the erection of an edifice. They state, however, that just at this time they are not prepared to announce their plans.

The present location for the library donated by the memorial trustees, is expected to serve temporary purposes nicely so that the nucleus of a library can be formed. Then, if more room is needed and the Christian Scientists vacate their present hall, the trustees will have sufficient room for the establishment of a large library.

The next matter to be taken up is the securing of books. Donations are earnestly desired by the trustees. Also, funds will have to be procured to pay a librarian and incidental expenses.

The location secured for the new library is a good one, being in the center of the city. The room is large and well lighted, and in a location where noise, dirt or smoke will not interfere.

Gloves for the spring are rather mannish in effect. The close fitting, daintily appearing glove of fine kid, is not worn except for very dressy occasions. Chamois gloves will be in the lead for summer wear.

An elegant chance for music lovers to secure late and popular sheet music is the special sale given Saturday evening.

SURPRISING HOW PROMPTLY
THEY RELIEVE INDIGESTION

Get a Case of Diapiesin and You'll Not Suffer from Indigestion or Stomach misery Five Minutes Later.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or is like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and Eructate sour undigested food or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in Mouth and Stomach headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapiesin contains enough 22-grain Triangles to usually relieve the worst case of Dyspepsia, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from Stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go and why they usually relieve a sour stomach or indigestion in five minutes. Get a case now and eat one Triangle after your next meal. They are harmless and taste like candy, though each contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood 3,000 grains of food, besides it makes you go to the table with a hearty appetite; but what will please you most is that you will feel that your Stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapiesin cranks, as some people call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach prescription, too, if you ever have Indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery, and eat just one Triangle.

The Italian wanted on a charge of cutting another of the same nationality during a row in the "Barracks" on Webb street, has not been apprehended. The man wanted is employed by the B. & O. is on the work train.

The man who filed the affidavit applied to a patrolman on the street, but the officer could not understand his lingo, and thought his request was to be locked up for the night. The man was accommodated and in police court the mistake was found out.

Would a business of your own interest you? One which is pleasant and very profitable? There is a fine opportunity for establishing such a business in your city right now.

THOUGHTS ON BUSINESS

BY
WALDO PONDRAY WARREN

THE MASTER'S EYE

THERE is an ancient proverb that "the master's eye does more work than both his hands." The modern version of the master's eye is a card catalogue system that keeps a record of the work of thousands of employees of a great industrial institution. In passing such a card file the other day I made inquiry about it, and the manager said:

"This is our system for keeping track of the mistakes made by employees. Nearly every mistake we discover in any part of the work is traced back to the employee who made it, and it is recorded here against his name."

"Do you point out each person's mistakes to him at the time?"

"Oh, yes. Especially when they amount to much. But we don't speak about every mistake. That would only confuse the employees and make them fearful and probably lead to making more errors."

"What do you find is the cause for most mistakes?"

"Carelessness—almost every time."

"How does your system affect that?"

"Well, he said, 'the mere fact that we keep such a record is a stimulus to employees to be careful. Even if we never looked up a card it would be worth while keeping up the system just for the general influence it has. But we refer to it often. And we know it works because the percentage of mistakes is lowered from year to year.'"

Condition Very Critical.

Mr. I. W. Bigelow, North First street, who sustained a stroke of paralysis about two weeks ago, is in a serious condition, and his death is thought to be a matter of but a few hours. Mr. Bigelow is known to almost every citizen of Newark and Licking county, and during his event-

W. A. Smith, 38 Pearl street, a carpenter, has reported to the police that last night when he entered his parlor he found an entire window sash had been removed. OPENING

Of Sparta Confectionary Store on West Park Place a Very Pleasing Event.

The opening today of the Sparta Confectionary store in its new home, just north of the City drug store, is an event of which the proprietors may well be proud.

The new quarters are exceedingly handsome and no detail is lacking to make this one of the finest stores of the kind in the state.

The large show window, with its array of candies most temptingly displayed, would delight the most exacting epicure. The interior is equally as inviting. The soda fountain is a splendid one of immense proportions, with all the late equipment, and is snowy white.

The most modern things in high show cases of all plate glass and marble, are filled with sweets of all kinds. One large case is devoted entirely to a display of Lowrey's famous candies in boxes of every size and size.

One of the most interesting places in the basement, which is fitted up for the manufacture of candies and ice cream. All the latest electric appliances, motors, etc., are here, the ice cream all being made by electricity.

KILL THE GERMS.

That's the Only Way to Cure Dandruff—and Parisian Sage is the Only Killer.

"Parisian Sage," said a New York barber, "will kill the destructive and persistent germs of dandruff and abolish the disease. There may be other remedies that will do the same, but I never heard of one."

And just read what one of the foremost barbers of Springfield, Mass., says of Parisian Sage:

"Dear Sirs: I used your Parisian Sage and found it better than any other. It is the best Hair Restorer I ever used and I have used them all. I find it a great Dandruff remover also. You should get it into all the Barber Shops and get the barbers to use it as it is great. I remain, Yours truly, Geo. A. Stiltz, 73 1-2 Main Street, Springfield, Mass."

Parisian Sage soaks into the scalp and when it reaches the roots of the hair it not only kills every dandruff germ, but it supplies the hair with just the right kind of nourishment to put vigor and strength into it and make it grow.

CARUSO CONCERT

Chorus Immense Audience at Columbus—Great Demonstration Accomplished—Singer—Newark People Present.

The Caruso concert in Memorial Hall, Columbus Friday evening, was perhaps the most perfectly successful concert in every respect ever given in that city. The name Caruso is like magic to the musical world, and his singing Friday evening was beyond criticism. When he was gracefully responding to the second encore, the audience went mad—waving handkerchiefs and shouting. Every number on the program was rendered in a finished and artistic manner, the soloists being worthy assistants to noted tenor, Master Kotla, the boy violinist played with the power and finish of mature years. And so it went.

The entire company consisted of Caruso, Mmes. Guina Allen, soprano; Margaret Keyes, contralto and Henri G. Scott, tenor; Master Kotla, violinist, at piano, Sig. Tello Vigora.

Among those from Newark attending the Caruso concert were, Mrs. Robbins Hunter, Mr. Hunter, Mrs. Lela, Mrs. C. H. Stinson and Mrs. A. Stael, Mrs. Anna Sheridan and Mrs. J. K. Hamill, Mr. Norris, Messrs. Sara and Mary Buckingham, Will Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thomas, Miss Louise Hunter, Misses Messenger, Miss Josephine Roche and Miss Lillian Garber.

At Cleveland Mayor Johnson is making a desperate attempt today to head off the strike of street car employees. He is trying to persuade the street car employees to arbitrate their demands.

RAISING THE LIMIT.

City Officials Are Trying to Get More Money to Lavish at the Expense of the Taxpayers.In several parts of the country movements are on foot to increase the debt limits of cities in order that they may go more deeply into municipal ownership. In the good old days, when in certain sections of the west there was no limit in poker games or to the debt of cities, there was at least one city from which all the inhabitants fled in despair, preferring to abandon their property rather than to pay the taxes.
Even in the older sections of the country there have been cities which have been forced into bankruptcy by like causes and whose property holders have sustained losses which beggared many of them.Where conservatism is not adhered to in such matters serious results almost inevitably follow, because a majority of the voters who are not directly taxed fail to realize that they may be indirect losers if the taxes become excessive and the business interests of the city are thereby hampered and curtailed. It is far easier for cities to spend money than to pay off bonds, and even conservative citizens are apt not to count the cost when it comes to city expenditures. The present laws in regard to debt limits are safeguards suggested by sad experience to protect cities against sudden attacks of spendthriftiness.It isn't what a man wants, but what he has, that makes him contented.When a fellow tells a girl he will love her always she is sometimes young enough to believe it.

METHODISTS SECURE FINE CHURCH SITE

Purchase Portion of Fulton Property at Fifth and Locust Street, for Consideration of $13,000

A New Church With a Seating Capacity of 2,000 Will be Built Soon—Old Church Will be Sold But Reserved for Worship.

Through a deal that was closed yesterday afternoon, the First Methodist Episcopal church of Newark secured the site for a new church home, the consideration being $13,000. The site secured is at the northeast corner of Fifth and Locust streets, the property being owned by W. N. Fulton. On Fifth street 145 feet were purchased, and on Locust the frontage will be 180 feet.

The decision that a new church was needed or that an enlargement of the old structure was necessary, was reached at a quarterly meeting about three months ago. A committee was appointed to consult with an architect and advise whether the present building could be remodeled and additional seating capacity secured, or whether a new building was advisable.

The committee met with an architect and after going over plans reported at a meeting that it was impossible to remodel the old building, and that they had looked at various sites for a new one. The one that impressed them most was the one on North Fifth street, opposite the Fifth street Baptist church.

Their report was accepted and the site was purchased from Mr. Fulton for the consideration named. The old building has been placed in the hands of I. M. Phillips the real estate dealer and will be sold by him. This does not include the church furniture or the church organ. The purchaser of the property will have to agree to the congregation occupying the building until the new church is completed.

Just when this will be is not known for nothing definite has been night. Six bodies are supposed to be still in the ruins.

MARY HAS A LITTLE MAN. Mary found a little man, he married her one day; he was gentle, true and kind, so the neighbors say. He followed her to town one day, which made the people stare, but Mary didn't care a rap, she wished to paint a chair. Some Spartan Stain she ordered, for she'd heard that was the best, the dealer, he assured her, that she could do the rest. Mary now is happy and her husband is the same. They have a little lamb at home, just recently it came. "A UN-AMERICAN ACT."

View of Mrs. Donald McLean on Gift of Chesapeake Flag to England. The news that William Waldorf Astor had given the Chesapeake's flag to England created great excitement in the ranks of the Daughters of the American Revolution while in convention in Washington.

From the president general, Mrs. Donald McLean, to the last alternate all expressed regret that an American should so far forget all ideas of propriety as to give away his country's battleflag. Mrs. McLean left a dinner party when she heard the news and issued the following statement:

"It is incredible, if it is true, which I am inclined to doubt, for it is the most un-American thing I ever heard of. Next to the Revolutionary struggle the war of 1812 certainly awakens the pride of every American. Its relics should be preserved, especially from the English, for any American who has ever heard those immortal words, 'Don't give up the ship,' could certainly never think of giving up the flag. It passes belief, and I am inclined to doubt the correctness of the statement."

The Mayor Says It's a Failure. The city electric plant of Marengo, Ill., has just been leased for twenty years. The service is said to have been both inadequate and unprofitable. The mayor writes:

"Our reason for doing this is that we consider municipal management a complete failure, and the less there is of it the better for all parties concerned"

THE NAUGHTY GNOMES AWAKEN LITTLE BOY BLUE

DETECTIVES WORKING ON THE ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY ROBBERY AT SEA.

Cannot Find Any Clues—Reports of Money Stolen Are Very Conflicting.

Pittsburg, May 2.—Despite the fact that four organizations of detectives are working on the hold up of the Adams express messenger, Roshen, by two men who robbed the safe on the St. Louis express at Walker's Mills Thursday night, sleuths confess today that they are completely baffled. Reports continue to conflict as to the amount of money secured by the robbers.

All games postponed, rain.

Games Today.
Newark at Mansfield.
Springfield at Lancaster.
Marion at Lima.

All the games scheduled for the Ohio State league the last days of this week were sad fizzes, for the rain man butted in good and strong and combined with the snow dealer, and as a result Lima and Springfield were the only ones to mix, and they pulled off two out of three games booked.

The Newark-Lancaster games in the latter city never came close to being played and the Mansfield-Marion series booked for the "City of Churches" never saw the light. The Clarksburg and the Orphans did work through two contests and played to good attendance even though the weather was chilling.

They missed the rain that deluged the more southern towns and mixed in with the cold weather. The result was that the openers at Lankville and Convictown have been postponed, and now Springfield will play the opener in the Fairfield county town, and the Newark team will face the Tigers in their real opener.

While the hottest rivalry has always been between Lancaster and Newark, yet the Mansfield team and the Molders have always been sworn enemies on the field of battle and the games between these two towns have always been hard fought and a delight to the fan.

President Quinn is more than satisfied with the league and the games so far this season, and is very emphatic in his assertion that the infant circuit of Ohio baseball circles is the best ever. President Bob is reported to have worn a grin that took up his entire face when he read the opener at Newark when the longest contest in organized baseball so far this season was played.

His reply to the Marion episode when Empire Sheldon was struck by Manager O'Day of the Diggers, was that such a thing must not be repeated. The circuit known under the name of the Ohio State is to furnish amusement for ladies and gentlemen and that rowdism in any form would not be tolerated.

While Manager O'Day's action was hasty and to be regretted, yet it is past now and has proved a lesson to all managers and players in the league. They have found that work of that sort will be condemned by the public and the press and that clean ball must be the slogan.

Springfield had rowdy ball last year and as a result she landed in the new league, for the people refused to go to games to see fights instead of the cleanest of all sport. O'Day and Sheldon have shaken hands and made up, the incident will be forgotten, but the lesson remains.

POSTPONED.
(Special to The Advocate.)
Mansfield, Ohio, May 2.—(3 p. m.)—The game between the Newark and Mansfield ball teams, scheduled for this afternoon, was called off on account of snow.

WILL BUILD BIG NEW PAINT FACTORY

Marietta, Ohio, May 2.—There has just been closed here a business deal of considerable importance between two manufacturing companies of this city which has opened the eyes of local people to the magnitude of one of the industries concerned. The Marietta Paint and Color Co. has sold its present large plant at the corner of Fort and Wood streets, and will immediately commence work on a much larger and more modern plant in Norwood, an Eastern suburb of this city.

For several years the Marietta Paint and Color Co. has found its present plant inadequate. This company is today the largest manufacturer of Wood Finishing Materials in the world. It is also a large manufacturer of high grade paints and paint specialties.

The new plant will be thoroughly modern and will be equipped with every facility for the handling of the business of the company.

Some people are so fond of riding hobbies that they even have nightmares.

THE QUEEN OF MAY

For I'm to be Queen of the May, mother, I'm to be Queen of the May, mother, But if the ball team cannot play, mother, Please let me stay in the hay.

No need to call me at all, mother, If the weather is cold, or there's rain, For then there'll be no baseball, mother, Don't this brand of slush give you a pain?

I wanted to sit in the stands, mother, And applaud Humph and Justus and Brown.

I am sick of this curtain of rain, mother, The weatherman ought to "ring down."

No chance for the Newark game, now, mother, The thought gives me a pain in my head.

Gyck, Abbott, the Lockes, all have left, mother, And the opening plans are all dead.

So let me sleep all through today, mother, No baseball—I'll stay in the hay.

I want to forget shattered hopes, mother, For I'm sore on this first day of May.

SHORT NEWS FROM OVER THE CIRCUIT

The Lancaster Gazette says that First Baseman Gygil predicts that "Red" White of the Lancaster pitching staff is booked for faster company. Gowdy needs a little more seasoning and he will be good picking for some major league, according to "Gyg."

The Lima fans who have been deprived of organized baseball for 20 years are taking to the game like a moth to a candle. Even the cold weather couldn't keep them away from the game last week.

Phelan and Yarnall are booked for the opener against Newark today. Phelan hasn't worked against Newark this season. Moore may do slab duty for the Molders.

Manager Ransick of the Springfield club will not get Pitcher Quinn of Toledo. Quinn blocked the deal by saying he wanted to go east. He has been released by Manager Armour.

Newark at Mansfield, Marion to Lima and Springfield to Lancaster—such is the way the teams are booked for the next three games. After the Mansfield series the Molders return home and Marion opens here. Then comes Lima and Springfield for three games each. That is a nice series at home and as good weather is predicted the crowds will probably be large.

The dance given at Lancaster Wednesday night for the benefit of the Lancaster team was a big success. About 125 couples danced and prominent "among those present" were the Newark players.

MAY MEETING

to the glorious history of this country, under the sixty years of Democratic administration that preceded the present Republican mal-administration; to the fact that every square foot of territory, out of which every state of the union was carved, was acquired under Democratic administration and, that under Democratic administration the flag of our merchant marine floated in every water of the world and our people prospered as they never have since.

Resolved, That we view with alarm the constant encroachment of the Republican administration upon constitutional safeguards and the liberties of the people; the concentration of wealth and power in the hands of a few; the creation of privileged classes and the subjugation of the masses; the trampling under foot of the Declaration of Independence in the Philippine Islands and the constant enlargement of the powers of the national government, at the expense of the states; the uncalled for existence of a panic and hard times in this country of unparalleled advantages, where, under our boasted system of protection, tariff barons revel in wealth and hundreds of thousands of idle workmen walk the streets and their wives and children cry for bread.

Resolved, That the trusts that are eating out the heart of the nation should be abolished or made to conform to just and equitable laws; that the tariff should be immediately and thoroughly revised, so as not only to safeguard the interests of the manufacturer and of capital, but, also, so as to protect labor and the best interests of the people.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse that true Democrat, brave soldier and able statesman, James E. Campbell, for United States Senator, knowing him to be a man of the people who will be a strong advocate of the people's rights and interests in the United States Senate, which is now too truly known as the plutocrat club.

Resolved, That we commend, in the highest terms, the faithful and very successful service of our distinguished young Congressman, Hon. W. A. Ashbrook, in Congress; that we enthusiastically endorse him for a second term, and move that he be allowed to select his own delegates to the coming Congressional Convention.

Resolved, That we endorse that able jurist, Hon. John David Jones, for Circuit Judge, believing that he will be a popular candidate for the position, and an ideal judge on the bench.

Resolved, That as Robert W. Howard has proven himself a most industrious, faithful and painstaking representative in the Legislature and has given his best efforts in behalf of every local interest pertaining to Licking county, he is deserving of approval and endorsement for a second term.

Resolved, That we commend in the highest terms the efforts of the Democratic members of the Legislature to probe into the graft and corruption of State offices and State institutions, and the fact that these efforts at complete investigation have been prevented by the Republican members and State officials is ample reason for the people of Ohio to rise in their might and see that a Legislature, Democratic in both houses, is chosen at the coming election.

Resolved, That the Cox-Brown-Guillbert State ticket, slated and nominated by the boss-controlled Republican State Convention which has caused so

MAY VETO FEDERAL PLAN BILL.
A Columbus telegram this afternoon says Gov. Harris may veto the federal plan bill. Its enemies have been very active. Cox is making a last stand against the bill.

The state deficiency appropriation bill confers of the house and senate recessed at 12:30 p. m. They have agreed practically on every item of the bill and unless there is another hitch will bring in a report this afternoon. The Drake committee item is still in the bill and Cox is beaten on the appropriation.

His mother was indulging herself, though she hardly knew with what wisdom, in looking over a small box that held her treasures. There were a few letters, of the kind one says must be burned, without ever bringing one's self to the sacrifice; there were a baby's lace-trimmed skirt and a curl of silken hair, light as dandelion, and there was a dead rose.

As she handled them, one by one, this last day of the year, she was living earlier years over again, the touch and sight of them filling her with indescribable tenderness. She looked up longingly into the shining blue of the wintry sky, where the storm had blown itself out, as if she felt there the warmth of the far-away country of her youth. Presently, with a little start, her thoughts returned, and she took up and kissed a tiny half worn shoe. "He always stubbed his toe," she said.

"Who, mamma?" asked Dora, just established for the day on her sofa.

"Why, your brother."

"Oh, John stubs his toe now," with a slightly unpleasant laugh. "His head is so in the clouds."

"He was always different from other children," said the mother. "He seemed to have finer senses. He might be miles away, but I always knew if he was in trouble."

"I should think that it was you that had the finer senses, then."

"Oh, no. I was just his mother. I don't know what it is now, but I have felt for more than an hour as if something disturbed him, the way I did when he was a child and used to say if he smelled roses he knew I was helping him—fanciful fellow!"

"Mamma, you are so romantic! The idea of our John and romance!"

"I do hope he isn't ill. I wonder if he wore his overcoat," looking absently out again at the weather.

"Yes, I heard him stamping them on."

"I don't know. Perhaps our solicitude weighs upon him. Our watching the quiver of an eyelash—as if he couldn't stand alone. And he so trusted! Trusted too much, maybe," she added, with a sigh, as she rose to put away her treasures.

"Mamma!" cried the fractious invalid, dropping her crochet needle. "And a moment ago you were thinking he was morbidly conscientious!"

"That's just it, dear," picking up the needle. "If anything should go wrong he would go mad."

"Oh, well, when the sky falls!"

"If I only knew he had been tried, had been tempted—and had resisted!"

"Tempted! Our John! There isn't a soul in the world that doesn't know such a thing is impossible!" exclaimed Dora, again dropping her needle.

And what his sister said of John Lindsay, all the wider world said, too, or thought without saying. But, nevertheless, there had been so many breaking banks and defaulting cashiers that the jesters sometimes wondered if John Lindsay, the cashier of the County Queens National Bank, might not feel as if he were in danger himself, while others said if John Lindsay went wrong they would know the universe was wrong, too. But John Lindsay himself, the treasurer of a half-dozen small charities, never felt the slightest doubt of his own integrity or the slightest fear he should betray it. And he went his way in a superb confidence in the impossibility of dishonor.

He should not then have listened—even if it would have been difficult not to do so, while standing at the safe near the directors' room—when two of the bank directors were speaking of the Q. and D. Railway's affairs. Or, since he could not help hearing, he should not have allowed his thoughts to follow the lead.

The speakers were in the management of the Q. and D., and one of them, having just come from a meeting, was telling the other, who had not attended, what had occurred there. They were alluding evidently to a dividend which had been paid in the years of the road's existence—but of which nothing was to be said publicly till the morning of the day after to-morrow. "It will make a very good New Year for the stockholders, even if they don't know it till January 2," said Mr. Olmors.

"And if the street doesn't know of it, either," said Mr. Berkley, "why, we are not running the Q. and D. for the benefit of the street."

"And in the meantime—"

"In the meantime we can do a little business for ourselves," said Mr. Berkley. "The meeting they were so alert about has come off, and nothing was given out as to a dividend. So you see it's taken for granted there is none. It does me good to fool those fellows! Of course the stock will go off. The street will go short on it. At the lowest point we will buy. The shorts have to cover; and they must buy of us. I think we shall scoop a million or so."

"Good enough! Great head, Berkley!"

Mr. John Lindsay could not but be thankful that what was good enough for Mr. Olmors and Mr. Berkley and their accomplices was equally good for others—for perhaps Mr. Lindsay. Alas, Mr. Olmors and the rest had capital, and Mr. Lindsay had none. He would go home that night with a perturbed spirit. That was nothing new, however; he had been conscious of much dissatisfaction of late. A little of the money these magnates were about to make, which would be only like spare pocket money to them, would be unbounded wealth to him! With that he would give his sisters, dear girls, the year in Europe they were always dreaming about. His mother could have all his father's debts paid at once—that long wish of his heart. He had been clearing them off, one by one, absorbing every dollar he had to spare. Otherwise he had been able to do little more than carry on the family and provide nurses and doctors and drugs for the invalid. He had always stood in the gap, and had been glad to do it, but he had been able to lay by nothing.

And then with the fancy of this supposition wealth rose the glorified vision of a home by the sea the next summer, at Winthrop, or Hull, or Hingham, not too far from business, with fresh color in his mother's sweet face, with Dora breathing new life, and the girls getting vigor for their schools. Schools! There would be no more of that drudgery! He saw the garden, too, that he would have, glowing with blossoms; it was in a garden that he first saw Mary Lovelands. He had felt before this the interest there must be in creating new roses and carnations. His mother would be doing that—some wonderful new rose she would bring to flower. And through all in his thought moved the one shape that was dearer than life, and that was forbidden him. As he rested his head on his hand a minute, making idle figures with his pen, he could see the library that might be his, like a visible thing before him; he wanted it so much, and had always secretly hoped that some day he should own the books he valued, with a leaning toward fine bindings. And then he saw himself done with daily labor of this sort, no longer a machine, having become a man; and his heart beat in his temples, and again he thought of Mary Lovelands.

These were dangerous dreams for a young man in Mr. Lindsay's situation—a situation he had been most fortunate in attaining. And what was the use of encouraging them? He had not $500 ahead in the world. He could not buy even half a dozen shares of Q. and D. to sell at any point. He had not a share of stock to put up as collateral if he wished to give any broker an order. And there was this stock now, at the instant, falling, falling, falling, out of the hands of those who had been holding for a dividend, and had received none, and into the hands of those who lay in wait for it, and who were selling it to-morrow to those who were obliged to buy and pocket their losses in order to save themselves from worse.

What an easy way our ancestors had of accounting for evil when they called a great power for sin in person to lead a man to wrong! A half hour afterward Mr. Lindsay was looking for something in the safe, the residuum of these thoughts still lurid in his head. There were securities enough in that safe to float a multi-millionaire if handled skillfully, for it was a rich bank. One package in particular caught his eye. Their Mr. Applegarth had suddenly been called to Scotland by his wife's illness there, being only able to get over to New York and catch the Lucania, not having the time even to carry the parcel of papers to his safety deposit box. He had left them with Mr. Lindsay. "U. P. bonds," he had said. "I suppose they'll be as secure in our safe as I return as in my deposit box. They're not registered. Look out for them for me, won't you, Lindsay?"

And Lindsay had said, "Certainly, sir," as a matter of course; and there the bonds were. And Mr. Applegarth could not, except by shipwreck or miracle, be back again for three weeks to come. Three days would answer.

There the bonds were—U. P. bonds; splendid collateral! If one used them to-day, or early the day after to-morrow—there was Q. and D. falling like a stone over a precipice, and it would reach its low level by the first hour of the day after to-morrow's market. If any one borrowed those bonds—simply borrowed, you know—and left them as collateral in a broker's hands for, say, a day and a night, it would be a quick turn, and then bought in—well, ten thousand shares of Q. and D. (the U. P. bonds would be more than enough margin)—and the forenoon of the day after to-morrow's market, when it was known there was a dividend, should see those shares go up, as they were bound to do—five, eight, say ten points—that person would come out of the transaction with seventy odd thousand dollars to the good, and the U. P. bonds back in the safe again! How simple, how easy, how tempting! Mr. Lindsay put on his coat and hat and went out for a moment or two to get the air, to cool this rush of blood to his head, to change his poles. But he went into a broker's office.

Yes, Q. and D., whose holders had been expecting a dividend, and waiting for it at 80, and had to-day been disappointed in it, had turned on the run and had gone down to 75, and was still running. It had plenty of time to run. It would be a long yet for to-morrow was New Year's Day and no market, and there were twenty-four hours for discouragement. Yes, that was the broker's view. But Mr. Lindsay knew that before noon of the day after New Year's Day it would be everywhere understood and proclaimed that the six per cent dividend had been voted and declared, and the shorts would flee to cover. Under their demand for it the stock would mount, since the shorts, who had promised to deliver it at a fixed price, must have it at all costs, while, moreover, it had a new and sure interest-bearing value. And who knew how high it would go? Eighty-five, 90, par—ah, it was a great possibility!

And then, he reasoned, as he hurriedly returned to the bank, the man who did it would really be taking nothing—be doing nothing wrong. There could be no least question of theft about it for the bonds were infallibly sure to be put back where they were. It was a simple change from the bank's safe to the broker's. Mr. Applegarth had left them in his hands; it was his own affair then; he had told him to look out for them—well, he would be looking out for them!

It was no more than a friendly matter, like that of swapping checks for a few hours. But although the transaction was so innocent, as he reasoned, yet he was incessantly annoyed by a perpetual recurrence of the thought of his mother as she had been clearing keep her out of his mind than Mr. Dick could keep King Charles out of his manuscript. He laughed at himself, but the laugh was satiric. Somehow in the hour before closing everything he touched seemed to scorn John Lindsay's fingers, and the air was too hot and dry to breathe.

When Mr. Lindsay finally left the bank, rather later than usual, Mr. Applegarth's bonds were in his inner breast pocket. He might use them, he might not. Anyway, they would be back in the safe of the County Queens Bank day after to-morrow noon. The thing was a dead certainty. Two and two did not make four more surely. Yet all the time, as if one's entity could be projected into space, he blindly felt, outside the sphere of thought, the concern of his mother's, as if her disapproval itself were a personality. But now he went on automatically.

Mr. Lindsay was under too much excitement at dinner to know what was on the table, or that it was brilliant with the flow and its geraniums and the shades that Dora had made, or to take in any of the sense of comfort and firelight and candlelight and home.

"How pale you are!" said his mother. "And you're not eating your New Year's curry," said Kate.

"I suppose you had that dairy lunch," said Fanny. "Milk is the food for babies, you know."

"You are worn out, my poor boy," said his mother. "You had better go straight to bed after dinner and get all rested."

"Oh, no," he said. "I have to go out. There is nothing the matter, mother. Yes, the curry is fine." But what could ever taste good again!

"And now I've some great news for you," said Kate, as she shook her spray of citronella out of the finger bowl and shed its fragrance about. "What do you think! I will give you two guesses. Well, I have my promotion. Twelve hundred dollars a year. What do you say to that?"

"Ah, what a sting! Honest money. But he could not stop to think, and he gathered himself together. "Fine! Fine!" he said. "And fairly earned. Congratulations!"

Mother, couldn't we have some of that sherry, far once in a way, to celebrate this event?" He had never felt the need of a stimulant before, but here and now it seemed as if he might fall out of his chair if he had nothing to hold him up. He could not imagine what had become of his vital forces.

"Now," said Kate, "I can help you out in the family expenses. I always meant to. It isn't fair that you should do everything and I be laying by money."

"Lay by all you can, Kate. I shall not let you spend a copper here. We are doing very well. We may do better by and by. Hence to your health and back in the new room. You're a good girl. You've worked for your promotion. It's its honest money." Praise from John was like wine to all of them.

When they went back to the parlor they found Mary Lovelands, who, coming in, had gone there unannounced to call on them. As he looked at her, the lights and darks of her clear pallor and black hair, the soft brilliance of her great gray eyes and the tender sweetness of her smile gave her a beauty that was almost spiritual, and that it thrilled him through and through to see. Kate ran to the piano and began playing the Serenade. "It is New Year's Eve," she said, as she played. "And the New Year begins with great good fortune."

"With great blessing," said her mother. "And then Fanny caught her brother and went whirling round the room with him. "I shall have my promotion next New Year," she said. "Say 'good girl' to me!"

"Good girl and sweet girl," he answered her. And she stopped suddenly before Mary Lovelands and drew her up by the hands and left her to finish the dance.

The first time he had ever seen Mary Lovelands stood out suddenly before his eyes like a picture lit by lightning. She was walking in a garden by the sea, the green of the branches about her, a pendulous white rose spray catching her gown, the blue sea lifted behind her. And as she looked up and met him her smile kindled the electric thrill that leaped through him and seemed to make him part of her.

"HE ALWAYS STUBBED HIS TOE," SHE SAID.

his action was only taking hold of a friendly hand to help himself up; that it was perfectly legitimate; that Mr. Applegarth himself would lend him the brief use of the securities, knowing the facts as he knew them. And like an immense oppression over and about him hung the remembrance that it had been something beyond bearing in the room with those women who had never come in contact with any great sin in all their sheltered lives, who had never been tempted, who would

Unconscious of any of it, round and round the paths of the Common and of the Public Garden had he gone through the wide streets and through the narrow, across the Harvard Bridge, with its blazing chain of lamps, and back again, up the noisier avenues, still thronged with people and flashing with lights and sliding cars, into the quieter ones.

But at length the overtaxed muscles asserted themselves, and all at once he knew that he was tired. "This won't do," he said. "I must keep fresh for day after to-morrow. I shall need all my nerve. I will go home. This tramp ought to make a brass image sleep." And then, looking up, he saw the light pouring out of the door and through the painted windows of Trinity.

It did not mean anything at all to that moment to John Lindsay. His first impulse was merely to step just inside the porch and sit down for a minute to rest his breath and rest his tired feet. His next one was to shrink as evil spirits were once said to shrink from the sign of the cross. And upon that this new, blustering recede of his took him by the throat. Why should he go in? He, the trusted churchgoing cashier of the County Queens National Bank! How many a Sunday morning he had gone there with Mary Lovelands to hear great preaching! And he went in, and went beyond the porch and walked boldly to a seat in the south transept. Perhaps it was the evil of his self-will that led him. Perhaps it was something else. Devils hardly frequent such places now more than of old.

The dusky church was still lined with green-rosettes of the ground, the boughs, the balsam of which shed sweet woody fragrances, and great trees above the altar—all the dark beauty of which was but half guessed by the dim rays of the chancel lights. It was like some sacred wood, haunted by heavenly spirits. The congregation, gathered in the front pews, was small, but intensely earnest and reverent as the white-robed priest led them in the devotions.

John Lindsay did not even vaguely note what was said or read. His thoughts were too unstable and uncontrollable. He was not aware of thinking of anything. He was simply surrendered to old habit and the traditions of instinct. It was not till the golden roll of the organ startled and thrilled him and a hymn was being sung by the people that he quite realized where he was.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shield from every foe,
Our strength, our life, our soul,
Our eternal home.

Far back in some innermost consciousness he dimly recalled himself in his boyhood singing that hymn with his mother and the girls on every New Year's morning. His mother seemed to be singing it now beside him in an inspired way he had never heard before. He fluttered the leaves of the book he had taken up, and it was like the touch of the finger of fate that to the one light nearest him he should read

In these I put my steadfast trust;
Defend me, Lord, from shame,
And although he turned the leaf quickly there was no help in the words

Almighty God, I call to thee,
By some temptation shaken,
Should start out as if in letters of fire,
While the last line seemed to blind his eyes.

Oh, leave us not forsaken!
The music of the clear soprano voices swelled and filled the air with its sweetly sweet. He had a good tenor of his own, but what influence was this upon him! If he had lifted it it would have been to scream outright. Why had he come into this place? Why had he subjected himself in such a critical time to its force? His heart was pounding with suffocating beats; he felt that all the church might hear it. Those evil spirits, exorcised by bell, book and candle, might have suffered as he did in fighting for their place.

There was a brief address of some sort, but it made no impression on his consciousness. And then loud and sonorous, with the clangor of great music, the church clock struck the hour of midnight. It was the new year; and while yet the singing stroke lingered vibrating upon the air, a figure stood in the pulpit like a white spirit suddenly appearing there—that great master of men, who held in the compass of his being as much of the heavenly grace and power as is given to any soul—as it was said him next year when he was called to the next progression. It was but a few sentences that he uttered—swift, breathless, eager words, filled with the strength of the Holy Ghost. And then on his knees he was praying in a voice like a vast whisper that struck John Lindsay's ear as a blow might strike the tenderest feeling. A power, a heat, a flame like that of Pentecost filled the prayer; the soul soared and lifted with it all those other souls who were praying. The Spirit of the Lord had been invoked to fill all hearts and had descended upon them.

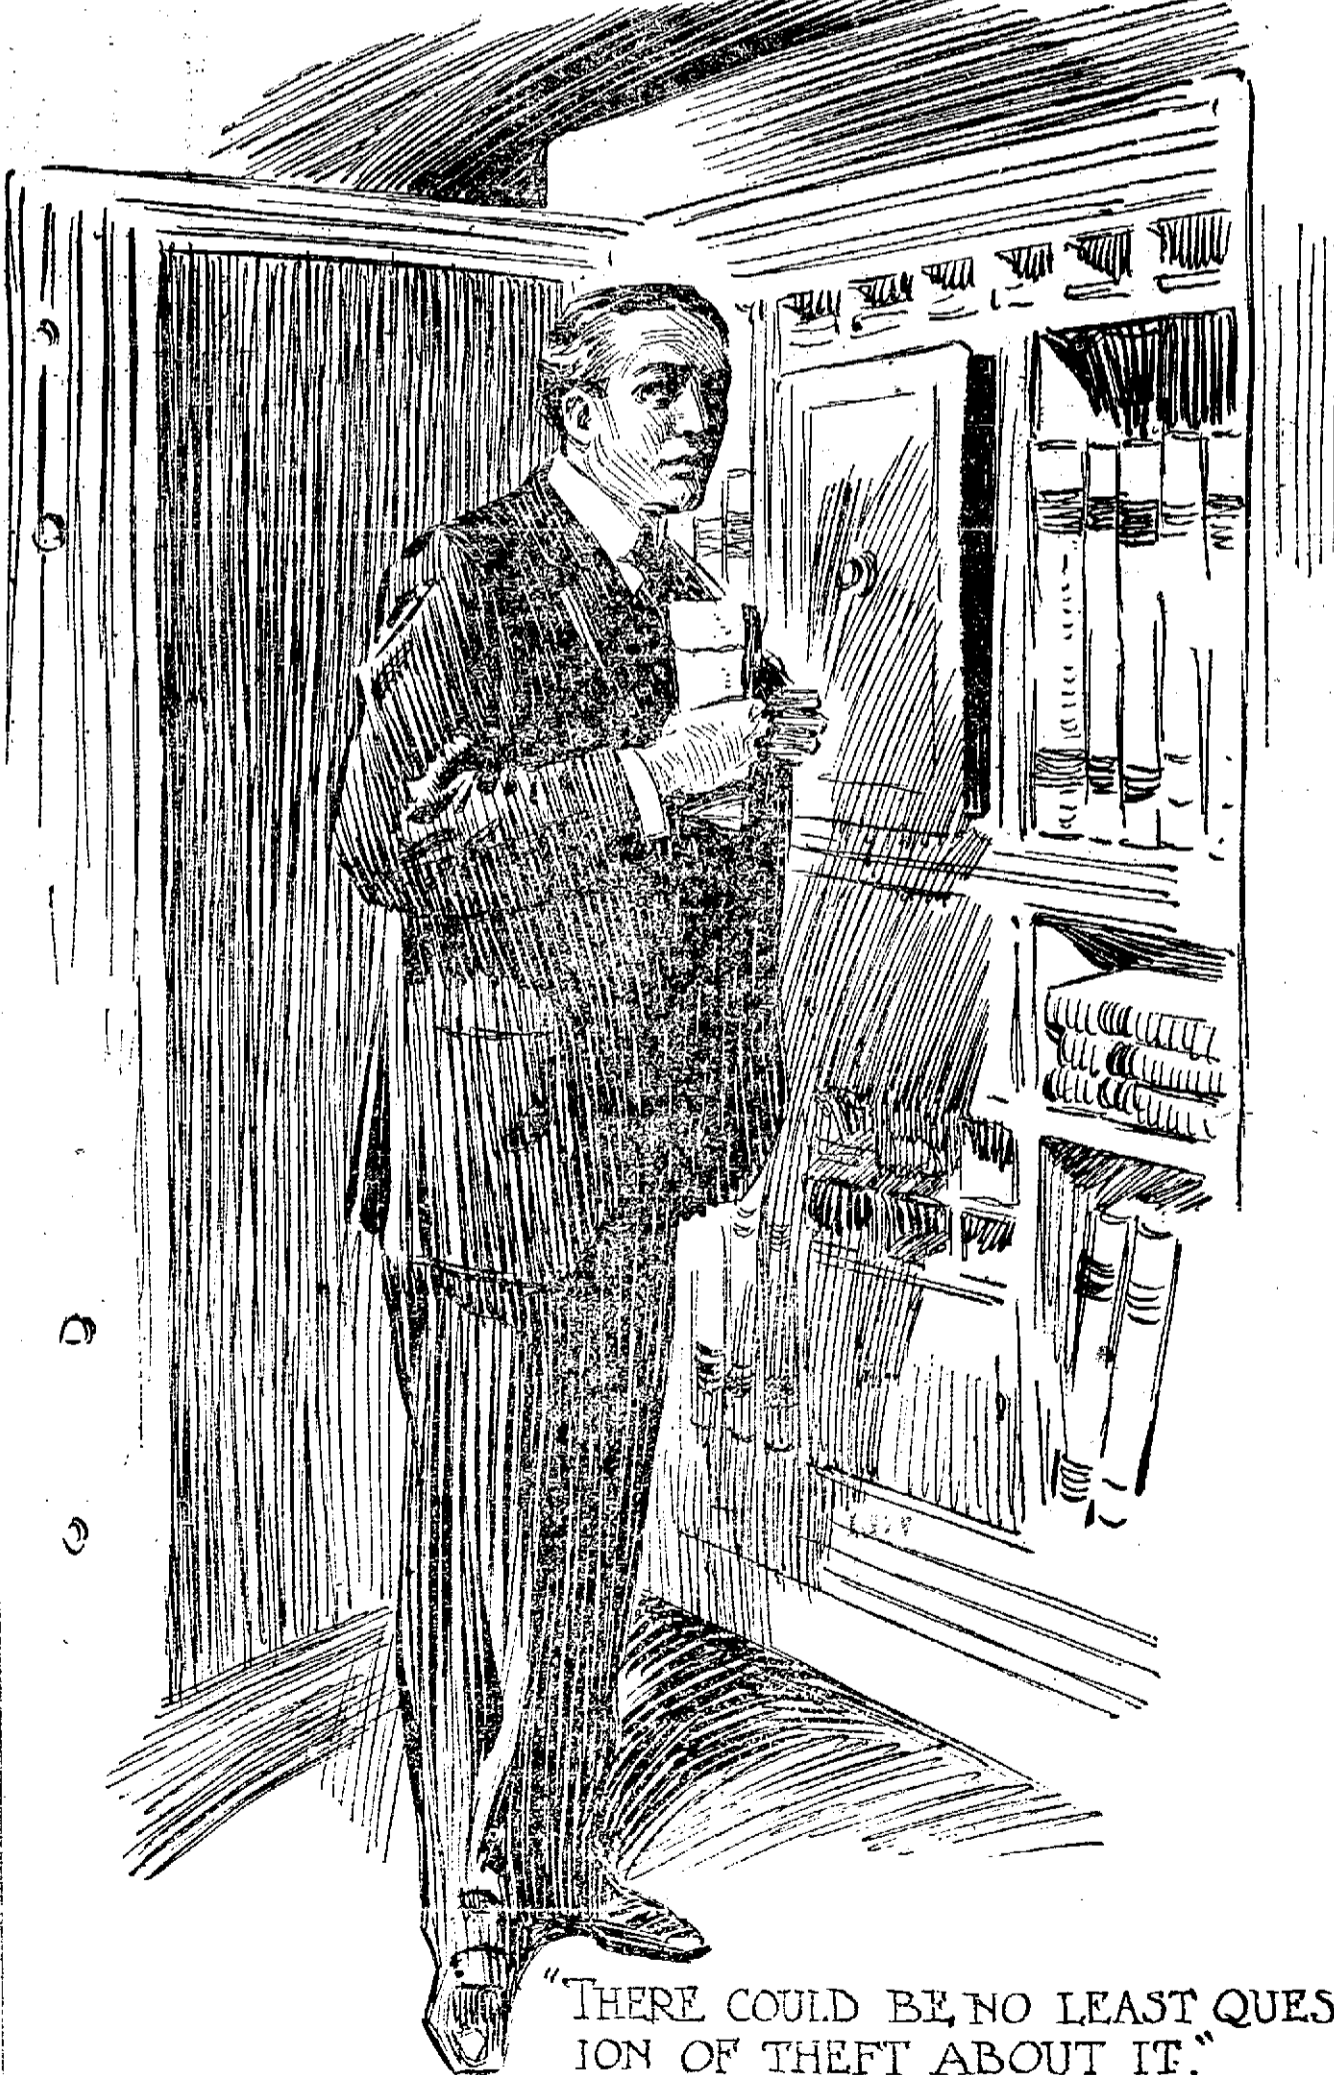

John Lindsay hardly knew what directed his steps at last out into Copley square and along Boylston street. A cloud of witnesses seemed to surround him till lost in the agon of the wintry wind and the dead starlight of the new year. And then the parcel of papers in his inner pocket felt to him like live coals burning his flesh. But he said to himself that he must endure it; for he could not let the thing out of his thoughts, away from his touch, for hours and hours to come. He was carrying a crime about; hardly could restitution assuage him of it. And again he had a sensation that the breath of roses blew about him, and his mother was laying a cool hand upon his heart.

He went home then, and to bed. But sleep had been scared away; none visited his eyes that night. Scarcely any food passed his lips next day. He might have heard a voice say, "Kind, goeth not out but by bread and fasting."

It snowed lightly again at dawn, as if kind nature would wrap the earth in a mantle of cleansing forgiveness; but the sky was blue as sapphire shot with sunshine when John Lindsay reached the bank. He went almost at a trot, for assistant to the safe and got out the books. Presently he went back alone and Mr. Applegarth's bonds lay in their old place.

The business of the world surged on. The market went wild over the rise of nearly twenty points in Q. and D. But Mr. John Lindsay did not leave the bank that morning. And that night when he went home and saw his mother's face shining calmly, sweeter and softer than the petals of a flower of a pale fading rose, he was no richer in money than he had been at the same time last year. But he had something he understood to be of more worth than all the wealth of the world. And every now and again the morning light he had bowed his head over his books and had murmured silently:

"I have been tried through fire; let me never be tempted again!"

"THERE COULD BE NO LEAST QUESTION OF THEFT ABOUT IT."

where are its defenders? Miserable travesties upon noble manhood, post-graduates in all arts of slander, or feral career if it comport with your dazed press; the people know your designs and spurn your pretense, whether under show of argument or more servient hypocrites. Go! damnable imps of pelf and greed. I defy your taunts! Fear to fragments my political career if it comport with your execrable will. Stifle and distort my every utterance. Not satisfied, if such be your brutal frenzy, lash my poor form into insensibility. Then, if it be your further pleasure, gnaw from my stiffening bones every vestige of quivering flesh. Howl in wretched bestiality through my innocent blood as it drips from your fiendish visages.

PENSION BILL

WHICH INCREASES PAY OF SOLDIERS' WIDOWS AND MINOR CHILDREN.

Congressman W. A. Ashbrook One of the Leading Supporters of the Measure.

Following is the bill in full recently passed by the Senate and House of Representatives at Washington, providing for the increase of pensions of widows, minor children, etc., of deceased soldiers and sailors of the Civil war, the war with Mexico, and other wars, and to grant pensions to certain widows of deceased soldiers. The bill, which is now a law, had no more earnest supporter than our own energetic congressman, the Hon. Wm. A. Ashbrook, who was one of the leading promoters of the measure, and who worked indefatigably in its interest from the moment the bill was first introduced until it became a law.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the passage of this Act the rate of pension for widows, minor children under the age of sixteen years, and helpless minors as defined in existing laws, now on the roll or hereafter to be placed on the pension roll and entitled to receive a less rate than hereinafter provided, shall be twelve dollars per month; and nothing herein shall be construed to affect the existing allowance of two dollars per month for each child under the age of sixteen years and for each helpless child; and all Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed; Provided, however, That this Act shall not be so construed as to reduce any pension under any Act, public or private.

Sec. 2. That if any officer or enlisted man who served ninety days or more in the Army or Navy of the United States, during the late Civil War, and who has been honorably discharged therefrom, has died or shall hereafter die, leaving a widow, such widow shall, upon due proof of her husband's death, without proving her husband's death to be the result of his Army or Navy service, be placed on the pension roll from the date of the filing of her application therefor under this Act at the rate of twelve dollars per month during her widowhood, provided, that said widow shall have married said soldier or sailor prior to June 27th, 1890; and the benefits of this section shall include those widows whose husbands if living would have a pensionable status under the Joint Resolutions of February 15, 1895, July 1, 1902, and June 28, 1906.

Sec. 3. That no claim agent or attorney shall be recognized in the adjudication of claims under the first section of this Act, and that no agent, attorney, or other person engaged in preparing, presenting, or prosecuting any claim under the provisions of the second section of this Act shall, directly or indirectly, contract for, demand, receive, or retain for such services in preparing, presenting, or prosecuting such claim a sum greater than ten dollars, which sum shall be payable only upon the order of the Commissioner of Pensions by the pension agent making payment of the pension allowed; and any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section or who shall wrongfully withhold from the pensioner or claimant the whole or any part of a pension or claim allowed or due such pensioner or claimant under this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall, for each and every such offense, be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars or be imprisoned at hard labor not exceeding two years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

WITHOUT WARNING

EXPLOSION OCCURRED AND ENGINE OF BURLINGTON EXPRESS WAS DITCHED.

Several Trainmen Injured and Passengers Escape Unhurt Engineer Believed to be in Debris.

Butte, Mont., May 2.—All passengers and trainmen on the eastbound Burlington flyer on the Northern Pacific road which was blown up near this city late last night, have been accounted for except Engineer Bussey. It is thought his body is buried in the debris. The explosion is believed to have been the work of train robbers, but there is no clue. The flyer was under the usual speed when, without warning, an explosion under the forward engine truck threw the great mass to one side. This pulled the second engine off the tracks, but none of the passenger coaches left the rails.

Carle Mange, who was riding the blind baggage, was seriously hurt. George Enle, fireman of the second engine, was badly scalded. Express Messenger Valentine had a remarkable escape. The mail car was hurled on its side and a cold storage fish car was demolished. The baggage car was also derailed.

At Hands of Licking Democracy at Greatest May Meeting Ever Held in the County

Ashbrook and Howard Also Endorsed As Was Judge John David Jones for Circuit Judge ---Noted Speakers Address Gathering.

The Annual May Meeting of the Licking County Democracy was held in Newark Saturday, at the Music Hall, and was by all odds the greatest, most enthusiastic and best in every respect that has ever been held in the county. While the weather was very inclement it did not prevent the farmers from attending the convention and the gathering of Democrats from the furthestmost parts of the county was brimful of Democratic enthusiasm, and savored of the old time Democratic times, and which brought from the city of Newark and the various townships of the county an old time host of enthusiastic Democrats. An old time Democrat expressed himself thusly: "I have plenty of work to do at home in the way of fixing up fences and other repairs, if I couldn't plow, but I just couldn't stay away from the meeting." This was the sentiment of many of the rock ribbed Democrats who were in attendance at the meeting. The secret of this unprecedented enthusiasm is that the Democrats of Ohio are thoroughly inspired with the hope of victory—county, state and national, this fall. In addition to this the fact that Hon. James E. Campbell, who is one of Licking county's prime favorites, was advertised to address the meeting, conspired to give interest to the meeting and increased attendance. The meeting throughout was not only large and enthusiastic but orderly and well conducted. The unusually large attendance of Democrats at the meeting, the good order and great enthusiasm they manifested, is indicative of the victory that is certain to perch on Democracy's banner this fall. The delegates began arriving early and by 10 o'clock the hall was packed. The various delegations from the county and the wards of the city were seated together in the parts of the hall assigned to them by the printed placards, according to the usual custom. Promptly at 10:30 o'clock Hon. Robert C. Howard, chairman of the County Central Committee, and ex-officio temporary chairman of the committee, called the meeting to order. Mr. O. C. Larason acted as secretary.

Mr. Howard, upon calling the meeting to order said that he was proud of the honor of once again calling the time honored May meeting of the Licking county Democracy to order. Under the call no provision having been made for Precinct E of the Fourth ward, which that ward was entitled to. Col. Cliff Rosebrough offered a resolution that the new born babe be christened, which was done, and the representatives of that precinct were given a vote in the convention.

Judge Brister moved that Hon. W. A. Ashbrook, congressman from this district, be empowered to select his own delegates to the Congressional convention. Mr. J. A. Flory moved to amend the motion by empowering Judge John David Jones, Democrat candidate for Circuit Judge from Licking county, to select his own delegates, which was done. Upon motion the committee on plate delegates was authorized to se-

FATALLY

Afflicted With Cancer Ex-President Said to be

PRONOUNCED HOPELESS

Physicians and Nurses in Constant Attendance At All Times

There Will be No Operation, the Specialists Advising Against it.

Lakewood, N. J., May 2.—When a card was sent to Mrs. Grover Cleveland this morning asking her the condition of the former President it was returned bearing this message: "Nothing to say." Every inquirer who called at Lakewood hotel today was met with a rebuff, and no one would discuss the illness of the former President. Because of this fact there is great apprehension as to the exact nature of the ailment. Dr. Joseph Bryant spent all night at the hotel and is still there. He will not discuss his patient's condition.

New York, May 2.—A report was circulated in Wall street Friday purporting to have emanated from the offices of the Equitable Life Assurance society, that former President Grover Cleveland is a sufferer from cancer of the stomach and that his case has been pronounced hopeless by specialists, called into consultation by Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of this city, the family physician.

Dr. Bryant was seen yesterday in his home, and asked point blank if Mr. Cleveland is suffering from cancer of the stomach. The physician made this significant statement:

"That is not for me to say. I can not give an affirmative or negative answer to the question. As his physician it would not be proper for me to state whether or not there is anything at all the matter with him. Any statement as to the nature of his illness should come from his family."

"When did you see Mr. Cleveland last?" Dr. Bryant was asked.

"On Monday," he replied. "I am going to Lakewood to see him again this evening. The reports I have received of his condition since Monday have been very favorable."

Mr. Cleveland remains in the Lakewood hotel, at Lakewood, N. J., although the house closed for the season 10 days ago.

His wife and children are the only other guests. A physician and nurses are in constant attendance, and a small staff of servants has been retained to look after the Cleveland family.

Mr. Cleveland is one of the trustees of the stock of the Equitable Life Association society purchased from Jas. Hazen Hyde by Thomas F. Ryan. The other trustees are former Justice Morgan J. O'Brien and George Westinghouse. Previous to the October panic, Mr. Cleveland was quite diligent in the performance of the duties connected with his trusteeship.

Since the beginning of the year Mr. Cleveland has not been in the Equitable offices. Up to a few weeks ago he looked after special correspondence and attended to urgent work in his home in Princeton or in the Lakewood hotel. He has done no work whatever recently and messengers from the Equitable no longer visit him with documents requiring his personal signature.

Rumors concerning the precarious state of Mr. Cleveland's health have been in circulation in and about the Equitable offices for weeks. That cancer of the stomach is his ailment is now positively asserted.

An operation has been discussed, but the surgeon specialists have advised against it.

Mr. Cleveland was 71 years old on March 18 last. It is extremely doubtful if he could survive the terrific shock of such an operation as the removal of a cancer of the stomach involves.

There is no attempt on the part of the New York friends of Mr. Cleveland to disguise their anxiety over his condition. Daily bulletins are forwarded from Lakewood to them.

A reporter who visited the Lakewood hotel today was told that Mr. Cleveland had passed a restful night and was quite comfortable. The two

KISSING

Record Held by a Wealthy Kansas Osculatorist

SUED BY WORTHY HUBBY

Richards Claims Wife and Humes Are Original Kissing Bugs

Evidence Gets So Warm Attorneys Come to Blows in Open Court.

Kansas City, Mo., May 2.—There are more kisses in the testimony of Edward J. Richards than you can find at the dock when a ship comes in. Richards, who is president of the Ginger club, is suing J. C. Humes, president of a big crockery concern, for $100,000 on the charge of alienating his wife's affections. He filed the suit after his wife had sued him for divorce.

Richards had concluded his testimony yesterday telling how the couch was always reserved at parties for his wife and Hume, where they kissed and kissed and kissed, and then played Indian with rugs as tents, under which there was room for only two, his wife and Humes, and also played "odd man out," in which he was locked out while his wife and Humes were inside kissing. When asked if he had donned woman's clothing and danced the hootchie-coochie at their parties, he admitting donning woman's clothes, but didn't remember what he danced, as all the guests at the party were drunk. When asked where his wife was when he was drunk all this time, he said she was kissing Humes.

"A week ago Sunday I saw a copy of 'Three Weeks' in our home," Richards testified. "I asked our son where it came from, and he said Humes sent it over. I threw it in the fire and told my wife it had to end."

"I started out, taking my son, and my wife struck me. She broke my glasses. I pushed her backward, and, unfortunately, she fell over a chair."

"Isn't it a fact that you did 10 times more kissing than all the others combined?" asked Mrs. Richards' lawyer.

"No, sir," said Richards emphatically. "Humes and my wife hold all records for kissing. For more than a year they have been kissing each other in public."

"What happened at a picnic party in Clay county?"

"A lady was wading and got stuck in the mud. Hume's shipping clerk waded out, picked her up, brought her over his shoulder and carried her to land. Then another lady got stuck. I went in after her. That's all."

"Didn't Humes, et in on that, too?"

"No; he stood on the shore and watched it."

The evidence here got so warm and the opposing attorneys so hot over objections to it that the lawyers finally came to blows.

HAVING TROUBLE WITH FOREIGNERS

Bridgeport, O., May 2.—A serious clash is feared at Lansing, O., a mining town, between Americans and foreigners. Already an attempt has been made to dynamite a general store owned by an American, and two houses of Americans have been burned. Last night an American shot two foreigners who he says insulted his wife.

TIRADE

Of Arkansas Senator Listened to by Three Senators

JEFF WAXES ELOQUENT

Jumps Onto the Trusts and Tears Them to Pieces Easily

Newspapers May Now Suspend as He Has Chewed Them Into a Pulpy Mass.

Washington, May 2.—Jeff Davis went through his great vaudeville stunt in the Senate again Friday, and what he did to the trusts and the plutocrats and to the press of Arkansas, which has been telling the truth about him, was a plenty. He showed Bosco, the snake-eating man, to be a piker as compared with himself, for with the utmost dexterity he reached out for octopus after octopus and chewed them up alive, tentacles and all. The Standard Oil went down with only one swallow and several railroad combinations followed without apparently irritating in the slightest degree his sensitive esophagus. The sublime intrepidity he manifested in tackling these devilish of commercialism made some people wonder whether after all it was true that Jeff dropped a heavy walking stick and rushed into his office to get a blunderbuss to defend himself against a game prosecuting attorney who punched him in the jaw and applied epithets to him which would make a snail turn on and bite a bulldog. He was so entertaining that he had a constant audience of at least three senators, one of whom was his colleague, Mr. Clarke, who seemed to feel as though he had to sit throughout the performance as a matter of courtesy. But that did not seem to disturb the carnivorous statesman from the jungles of the Arkansas Valley for he had given out copies of his speech several days in advance and felt certain the public would read it anyway.

Senator Jeff Davis, Arkansas, moved to discharge the committee on the judiciary from the further consideration of his bill "for the repression of trusts, pools and combinations in trade." He spoke about two hours, reading most of the time from a type written statement, which he said he had prepared in advance "that no intemperate language might escape his lips on this occasion," a thing which he said he had never done before.

During his speech he roughly denounced the trusts, commended the President's recent message outlining measures for relief, spoke of the removal of the motto, "In God We Trust" from the coins and declared that John D. Rockefeller, the Standard Oil company and J. Pierpont Morgan should be indicted for treason. He also paid his respects to the press, his remarks in that connection being "Let scavengers of plutocracy howl; truth, God's living truth—"

FROM WOMAN'S VIEW.

The Republican State Convention of Tennessee engages in a free-flight pistols are drawn, and one delegate, a hatchet; the Boston Common Council, indulges in wild uproar, fierce vituperation, hisses and catcalls, and in Italy two members of Parliament pull each other's hair, yet no one draws the inference that merit is unfit to vote. But just suppose that any of these things had happened in the National Congress of Mothers?—Woman's Journal.

Middleboro Investigates.

At the annual town meeting of Middleboro, Mass., a committee was appointed to investigate the town gas and electric plants and report on the advisability of selling them. In an editorial on the subject the Middleboro News intimates that in the electric plant there is a present value of only $50,000 or $60,000 to offset an investment of three times that amount. There has been a great deal of complaint about the quality of the service, although considerable sums have been expended to put the plants in first class condition.

The Cart Before the Horse. According to the Milwaukee Sentinel, the municipal gas plant of Alloua, Wis., is not a success. The dispatch says:

"The city has been steadily losing on its mismanagement is charged, and it is said that many meters have not been read for over a year. The manager of the plant is said to control the council."

FEMININE TOPICS

There is nothing, seemingly, that a young woman of the present day will not do in order to keep pace with Dame Fashion who trips along with many a backward glance to see what's doing along the trail.

There is a particularly pretty girl in town who wears a pompadour most wonderfully and artistically arranged, and beneath it, in place of the fuzzy "rat," guess what she has to make her hair assume this attitude—you cut. Neither could any one else, nor did any of her friends, until one day it school she "nudid" her locks and removed the "rat."

It was a brown silk stocking filled with tissue paper?

Individuality is the dominant feature in fashionable footwear. Line-hans give it to you, with many other good features in their new spring line of Goodyear Welts. They fit, especially the low cuts which are so hard to get to fit around the ankle. Good-year Welts always fit. Let Linehans demonstrate this to you.

A red oily nose should be bathed with borax water, and afterward anointed with champhor water.

"Did you bake this bread, Mrs. Brown? It's fine." "No. It's 'Lofa.' The family like it—oven better than mine and it saves me lots of hard work."

Are you letting yourself sag a bit at the shoulders? Don't, if you want to keep either young or well. There's nothing so fatally easy as to grow round shouldered. Keep a sharp watch on yourself to prevent it.

Have you seen those hammocks at Norron's Book Store? The prettiest ones ever brought to Newark. You'll soon want one, so drop in and look at them. The prices run from $1.25 to $7.00. A special line of beauties at $4.00.

It is often wondered who makes the fashions those "new styles" which semi-annually burst into view in the shop windows, and from thence to the persons of amiable women, who accept them with meekness not to say triumph. The majority of spring hat worshippers will adopt and adapt the towering crowned headgear and call it "lovely" if it were a hundred times more excessive than it is; heretofore let us bow our heads to the inevitable. At all events no more feather dusters will be worn.

The general tendency in business in manufacturing and everywhere is to reduce expenses. This calls for a reduction in living expenses as well. It is during such a time that it is especially important to buy necessities from a dependable store where dependable qualities are sold. It is not always true that high priced goods only are good. The medium grades if bought from a reliable store often give as much wear as the higher priced kind. The buying advantages of The Powers-Miller store makes it possible to sell the dependable serviceable kind of merchandise at about what you pay for the inferior sort. Then, too, everything bought at this store bears the guarantee of the store, as well as the guarantee of the maker. If you are not already a customer of this store, then especially at this time it is to your advantage to become one.

If there is one feature that will dominate the spring frocks it is the broad front panel that runs from bust to footline or from belt to hem. It is put on nearly all the elaborate afternoon and evening gowns showing up on the latter in artistic embroideries of silk floss and sequins and colored glass beads.

The Newark ladies are surely appreciating the "Quality Goods at Low Prices" at Mrs. J. R. Robertson's Millinery store. If you haven't been there yet, don't delay going. Her millinery shop is at 70 East Main street, just west of the Licking Light and Power company. Her fine line of millinery includes Gage and Holland hats.

Of royal cooks perhaps the highest paid is the chef of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, who receives $10,000 a year. The cook of King Edward of England receives $9,000 and other kitchen potentates of royalty are handsomely paid, and many enjoy special privileges.

"I'd rather have 'Alabastine' than the best wall paper on earth." The woman who said this today voiced the sentiment of a great number of housewives. Alabastine is recognized not only as being the most beautiful wall decoration but is by far the most sanitary.

Dyed pongee, which only a few years ago was scorned by the fastidious shopper, has come to be the leader among all summer fabrics. It makes up not only plain tailormades for traveling and walking and coats for all occasions from automobiling to evening wear, but also appears in some of the handsomest semi-dress gowns for afternoon use.

Brillhart & Ellis' grocery is noted for the cleanliness and freshness of their goods. They do not display them outside the store to catch the filth from the street, dogs running at large, etc. Step inside and look over their array of good things.

Gloves for the spring are rather mannish in effect. The close fitting dainty appearing glove of fine kid, is not worn except for very dressy occasions. Chamol gloves will be in the lead for summer wear.

SURPRISING HOW PROMPTLY THEY RELIEVE INDIGESTION

Let a Case of Diapiesin and You'll Not Suffer from Indigestion or Stomach misery five Minutes Later.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or it's like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and Eructate, sour undigested food or have a feeling of Dizziness, Headburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and Stomach headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapiesin contains enough 25-grain Triangles to usually relieve the worst case of Dyspepsia, and leave sufficient about the Louse in case some one else in the family may suffer from Stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go and why they usually relieve a sour stomach or indigestion in five minutes. Get a case now and eat one Triangle after your next meal. They are harmless and taste like candy, though each contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood 3,000 grains of food, besides it makes you go to the table with a hearty appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your Stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapiesin cranks, as some people call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach prescription, too, if you ever have Indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery, and eat just one Triangle.

Neighborhood Favorites.

Mrs. E. D. Charles, of Harbor, Maine, speaking of Electric Bitters says: "It is a neighborhood favorite here with us." It deserves to be a favorite everywhere. It gives quick relief in dyspepsia, liver complaint, indigestion, derangement, malnutrition, nervousness, weakness and general debility. Its action on the blood as a thorough purifier makes it especially useful as a spring medicine. This grand alternative tonic is sold under guarantee at F. D. Hall's drug store 6c.

TEMPORARY QUARTERS

SECURED BY LIBRARY TRUSTEES ON SECOND FLOOR OF MEMORIAL BUILDING.

Matter of Securing Books and Funds Will Be Looked After at Next Meeting of Trustees.

The trustees of the Memorial building, Friday night voted that the large room on the north side of the second floor of the building, now occupied by Miss Wulfoop's dressmaking establishment, be given for library purposes. The room will be vacated by June 15, at which time the city library will take possession.

When the building was erected, the plans were originally prepared for the use of the north half of the second floor for library purposes.

The greater part of this section is now occupied by the Christian Scientists. For the past few years the Scientists have had under consideration the erection of an edifice. They state, however, that just at this time they are not prepared to announce their plans.

The present location for the library donated by the memorial trustees, is expected to serve temporary purposes nicely so that the nucleus of a library can be formed. Then, if more room is needed and the Christian Scientists vacate their present hall, the trustees will have sufficient room for the establishment of a large library.

The next matter to be taken up is the securing of books. Donations are earnestly desired by the trustees. Also, funds will have to be procured to pay a librarian and incidental expenses.

The location secured for the new library is a good one, being in the center of the city. The room is large and well lighted, and in a location where noise, dirt or smoke will not interfere.

THOUGHTS ON BUSINESS

BY
WALDO PONDRAY WARREN

THE MASTER'S EYE

THERE is an ancient proverb that "the master's eye does more work than both his hands." The modern version of the master's eye is a card catalogue system that keeps a record of the work of thousands of employees of a great industrial institution. In passing such a card file the other day I made inquiry about it, and the manager said:

"This is our system for keeping track of the mistakes made by employees. Nearly every mistake we discover in any part of the work is traced back to the employee who made it, and it is recorded here against his name."

"Do you point out each person's mistakes to him at the time?"

"Oh, yes. Especially when they amount to much. But we don't speak about every mistake. That would only confuse the employees and make them fearful and probably lead to making more errors."

"What do you find is the cause for most mistakes?"

"Carelessness—almost every time."

"How does your system affect that?"

"Well, he said, 'the mere fact that we keep such a record is a stimulus to employees to be careful. Even if we never looked up a card it would be worth while keeping up the system just for the general influence it has. But we refer to it often. And we know it works because the percentage of mistakes is lowered from year to year.'"

OPENING

Of Sparta Confectionary Store on West Park Place a Very Pleasing Event.

The opening today of the Sparta Confectionary store in its new home, just north of the City drug store, is an event of which the proprietors may well be proud.

The new quarters are exceedingly handsome and no detail is lacking to make this one of the finest stores of the kind in the state.

The large show window, with its array of candies most temptingly displayed, would delight the most exacting epicure. The interior is equally as inviting. The soda fountain is a splendid one of immense proportions, with all the late equipments, and as snowy white.

The most modern things in high show cases of all plate glass and marble, are filled with sweets of all kinds. One large case is devoted entirely to a display of Lowrey's famous candies in boxes of every style and size.

One of the most interesting places in the basement, which is fitted up for the manufacture of candies and ice cream. All the latest electric appliances, motors, etc., are here, the ice cream all being made by electricity.

KILL THE GERMS.

That's the Only Way to Cure Dandruff—and Parisian Sage is the Only Killer.

"Parisian Sage," said a New York barber, "will kill the destructive and persistent germs of dandruff and abolish the disease. There may be other remedies that will do the same, but I never heard of one."

And just read what one of the foremost barbers of Springfield, Mass., says of Parisian Sage:

"Dear Sirs: I used your Parisian Sage and found it better than any other. It is the best Hair Restorer I ever used and I have used them all. I find it a great Dandruff remover also. You should get it into all the Barber Shops and get the barbers to use it as it is great. I remain, Yours truly, Geo. A. Stiltz, 73 1-2 Main Street, Springfield, Mass."

Parisian Sage soaks into the scalp and when it reaches the roots of the hair it not only kills every dandruff germ, but it supplies the hair with just the right kind of nourishment to put vigor and strength into it and make it grow.

Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world; use it one week and you will never give it up.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed by T. J. Evans to stop falling hair; to cure dandruff; to darken gray and faded hair; to cure itching of the scalp, or money back. Price 50 cents a bottle at T. J. Evans', Warden Hotel Block, or by mail, charges prepaid, from Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

CARUSO CONCERT

Charm Immense Audience at Columbus—Great Demonstration Accompanied Singer—Newark People Present.

The Caruso concert in Memorial Hall, Columbus Friday evening, was perhaps the most perfectly successful concert in every respect ever given in that city. The name Caruso is like magic to the musical world, and his singing Friday evening was beyond criticism. When he first appeared he responded to the second encore the audience went mad—waving handkerchiefs and shouting. Every number on the program was rendered in a finished and masterly manner. The soloists, being worthy assistants to noted tenor, Master Kolarzky, the boy violinist, played with the power and finish of mature years.

The entire company consisted of Caruso, Mmes. Gullia Allen, soprano; Margaret Keyes, contralto, and Mr. Henri G. Scott, basso. Master Kolarzky, violinist; at piano, Sig. Tullio Vighera. Among those from Newark attending the Caruso concert were: Mrs. Robbins Hunter, Mrs. Dundee, Miss Lisle, Mrs. C. H. Stumson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stasel, Miss Anna Sheridan, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hamal, Mr. Norris, Misses Sara and Mary Buckingham, Will Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thomas, Miss Louise Hunter, Misses Messenger, Miss Josephine Roche and Miss Lillian Garber.

RAISING THE LIMIT.

City Officials Are Trying to Get More Money to Lavish at the Expense of the Taxpayers.

In several parts of the country movements are on foot to increase the debt limits of cities in order that they may go more deeply into municipal ownership. In the good old days, when in certain sections of the west there was no limit in poker games or to the debt of cities, there was at least one city from which all the inhabitants fled in despair, preferring to abandon their property rather than to pay the taxes. Even in the older sections of the country there have been cities which have been forced into bankruptcy by like causes and whose property holders have sustained losses which beggared many of them.

Where conservatism is not adhered to in such matters serious results almost inevitably follow, because a majority of the voters who are not directly taxed fail to realize that they may be indirect losers if the taxes become excessive and the business interests of the city are thereby hampered and curtailed. It is far easier for cities to spend money than to pay off bonds, and even conservative citizens are apt not to count the cost when it comes to city expenditures. The present laws in regard to debt limits are safeguards suggested by sad experience to protect cities against sudden attacks of spendthriftiness.

It isn't what a man wants, but what he has, that makes him contented.

When a fellow tells a girl he will love her always she is sometimes young enough to believe it.

Fourth ward—B. Geo. P. Elliot.
Fourth ward—C. Frank A. Bolton.
Fourth ward—D. J. P. Sullivan.
Fourth ward—E. R. L. Toneyhill.
At this point Hon. Edward Kibler obtained the recognition of the chair and stated that this was the first May meeting that had been held since the death of Judge Samuel M. Hunter, that the Judge as the delegates well knew, was a loyal Democrat and an ardent admirer of the Democracy of Licking county, and that he, perhaps more than any other, had presided election be held on the 23d day of May, 1908. That the said voting precincts or poles open at 5:30 a. m. and remain open until 5:30 p. m. standard time for the purpose of voting. Respectfully submitted, H. D. BAKER, Chairman.

WM. P. YOUNG, Secretary.
The report was adopted.

GOVERNOR CAMPBELL'S ADDRESS.

When Chairman Edward Kibler introduced the Hon. James E. Campbell, it was the signal for a most en-over more May meetings of the Democracy of this county, and that it was fitting that some expression of the affection in which he was held, be made. Mr. Kibler offered a resolution that the Democracy of the county, in May convention assembled, express its deep sense of loss in the death of Judge Hunter and that a copy of the resolution be transmitted to the widow of the deceased. The resolution was unanimously carried.

EX-GOV. JAMES E. CAMPBELL.

It was then announced that the various committees would meet at the following named places:
Permanent Organization, at mayor's office.
Time and Manner, in Council chamber.
State and District Delegates in Probate Judge's office.
Resolution, in Convention room.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Hon. R. W. Howard, temporary chairman of the convention, received a hurry call from Columbus, informing him that it was highly necessary for him to be there to vote on the appropriation bill. He was excused, as the temporary chairman of the convention, Hon. Edward Kibler, was, on motion, appointed to act pending the report of the committee on Permanent Organization.

Hon. Herbert Atherton, as chairman of the committee on Permanent Organization, reported that the temporary officer, R. W. Howard, be made permanent chairman and O. C. Larson permanent secretary. The report was adopted.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON TIME AND MANNER.

Your committee appointed on time and manner of holding the Democratic Primary Election beg leave to submit the following report.

That the primary election of the Democratic party of Licking county Ohio for the year 1908 be held under the provisions of the Legislature known as the Brown law, and due notice to that effect be certified by the chairman and secretary of the County Democratic Central committee (which is hereby declared to be the controlling committee) to the deputy state supervisors and inspectors of elections. That the said primary thrustastic demonstration and fairly swelled that tendered William Jennings Bryan.

Mr. Campbell said that if there was one spot more dear to his heart than his own native county (Butler) it is old Licking that stood so nobly by him when he ran for governor of Ohio. He spoke of the great enthusiasm among Democrats everywhere, notable Champaign county, heretofore a stalwart Republican county, where he recently spoke, that is falling into the Democratic column. He spoke tenderly of many old-line Democrats whom he formerly knew as being no more. The present Republican party was born when congress had a quarrel with Andrew Johnson 41 years ago.

The former Republican party ceased to exist 41 years ago and many able men of that party joined the Democratic party and the only anniversary of Abraham Lincoln held this year was held by the Hardin county Democratic club. He spoke of the prediction made by Jefferson 125 years ago as coming true. The Democratic party has rooted out aristocracy and the church-test qualification of voting many years ago.

Through the mistakes of Democrats dividing in 1861, the Republican party have virtually been in absolute control, then there were only two millionaires—Stephen Girard and John Jacob Astor—but now multimillionaires are numerous, who have laded the money out of our pockets through the iniquitous tariff which they call prosperity. A great fight is on in Ohio, as elsewhere. It is between the Peerless Bryan and Taft, the mouth-piece of Teddy, who tells us how many children we must have. Teddy said Andrew Jackson was ignorant but, he said, Jackson did not see on the wrong side of the hill when he was fighting as others have done. Teddy took off "In God We Trust" but to trust in him. It took a Licking county representative to restore that motto on our coin. Ohio and New York both will unite in a glorious victory this year.

ADDRESS OF HON. W. P. HUNTINGTON.

Hon. Webster P. Huntington then spoke briefly. He spoke of the death of Judge S. M. Hunter, whom he personally well knew. He also assured his audience that he people are with James E. Campbell for United States senator. He spoke of the tendency of the Republican party to rob the people of their rights.

In Columbus the people had to get a law enacted to permit the people to spunk the streets. He said he believed in happy rule. He spoke of a manufacturers' candidate, Taft, whose headquarters at Columbus, flow with money, the object of which is to eliminate home rule. On motion of Hon. Wm. E. Miller, a vote of thanks was tendered to Hon. James E. Campbell and Hon. Webster

P. Huntington for their presence and speeches.

On motion of Cliff Rosebrough, the Money-Making Ways of Using Want Ads

To Get a Room or Roomer

If you are hunting for a Room you want one as near as possible—like Home. There are many such in this city. But they don't have signs in the window and make a "bid" to all classes. The refined, cultured people who have Rooms to Rent, use little Want Ads on our Classified page under the heading "Rooms—For Rent." If you want a select, quiet Room, read over the places offered in this column for a few days. Or, to get quicker results, write a little ad telling the kind of Room you want, and insert it under the heading "Rooms Wanted." You will then get in touch with just what you want. And it pays to go to this little expense—but a few cents—for clean, wholesome surroundings count much. The examples will give you a suggestion.

EXAMPLES

ROOM WANTED—BY YOUNG WOMAN, A STRANGER in the city. Must be quiet, cheerful and near park, convenient and modern. Will pay well for good place. Address G 145, this office.

ROOMS—FOR RENT. WE HAVE TWO NEAT modern rooms with all the comforts of home, that we will rent to gentlemen of refinement. Price $3.00 each weekly. Address T 123, this office.

We Americans are an impatient people. When we WANT things we MUST have them. And we are willing to work for them. We are SELF-MADE. This principle is the vital one back of our Classified Want Ads. They SUPPLY what you WANT—and get it in the way that you ASK for it. Powerful LITTLE things—our Want Ads. But they do the BUSINESS—for YOU.

METHODISTS SECURE FINE CHURCH SITE

Purchase Portion of Fulton Property at Fifth and Locust Street, for Consideration of $13,000

A New Church With a Seating Capacity of 2,000 Will be Built Soon—Old Church Will be Sold But Reserved for Worship.

Through a deal that was closed yesterday afternoon, the First Methodist Episcopal church of Newark secured the site for a new church home, the consideration being $13,000. The site secured is at the northeast corner of Fifth and Locust streets, the property being owned by W. N. Fulton.

On Fifth street 145 feet were purchased, and on Locust the frontage will be 180 feet.

The decision that a new church was needed or that an enlargement of the old structure was necessary, was reached at a quarterly meeting about three months ago. A committee was appointed to consult with an architect and advise whether the present building could be remodeled and additional seating capacity secured, or whether a new building was advisable.

The committee met with an architect and after going over plans reported at a meeting that it was impossible to remodel the old building, and that they had looked at various sites for a new one. The one that impressed them most was the one on North Fifth street, opposite the Fifth street Baptist church.

Their report was accepted and the site was purchased from Mr. Fulton for the consideration named. The old building has been placed in the hands of I. M. Phillips the real estate dealer and will be sold by him. This does not include the church furniture or the church organ. The purchaser of the property will have to agree to the congregation occupying the building until the new church is completed.

Just when this will be is not known for nothing definite has been done in the matter with the exception of the purchasing of the site. The site secured is an almost ideal one for this purpose and the central location makes it most desirable.

One thing is certain, the auditorium will accommodate 2,000 people, for the rapidly growing congregation makes this necessary, for the old auditorium is much too small, and the theory of the committee is that it is better to have too much room than not enough.

The quarterly conference has adjourned to meet at the call of the presiding elder, and at this meeting the plans will probably be decided.

MARY HAS A LITTLE MAN.

Mary found a little man, he married her one day; he was gentle, true and kind, so the neighbors say. He followed her to town one day, which made the people stare, but Mary didn't care a rap, she wished to paint a chair. Some Spartan Stain she ordered, for she'd heard that was the best, the dealer, he assured her, that she could do the rest. Mary now is happy and her husband is the same. "A UN-AMERICAN ACT."

View of Mrs. Donald McLean on Gift of Chesapeake Flag to England.

The news that William Waldorf Astor had given the Chesapeake's flag to England created great excitement in the ranks of the Daughters of the American Revolution while in convention in Washington.

From the president general, Mrs. Donald McLean, to the last alternate all expressed regret that an American should so far forget all ideas of propriety as to give away his country's battleflag. Mrs. McLean left a dinner party when she heard the news and issued the following statement:

"It is incredible, if it is true, which I am inclined to doubt, for it is the most un-American thing I ever heard of. Next to the Revolutionary struggle the war of 1812 certainly awakens the pride of every American. Its relics should be preserved, especially from the English, for any American who has ever heard those immortal words, 'Don't give up the ship,' could certainly never think of giving up the flag. It passes belief, and I am inclined to doubt the correctness of the statement."

The Mayor Says It's a Failure.

The city electric plant of Marengo, Ill., has just been leased for twenty years. The service is said to have been both inadequate and unprofitable. The mayor writes:

THE NAUGHTY GNOME AWAKEN LITTLE BOY BLUE

1—Gogo and Lop-Ear were in the fields one day when they found Little Boy Blue fast asleep under a haystack. "Let's have some fun with him," said Lop-Ear, who was always ready for mischief. So—

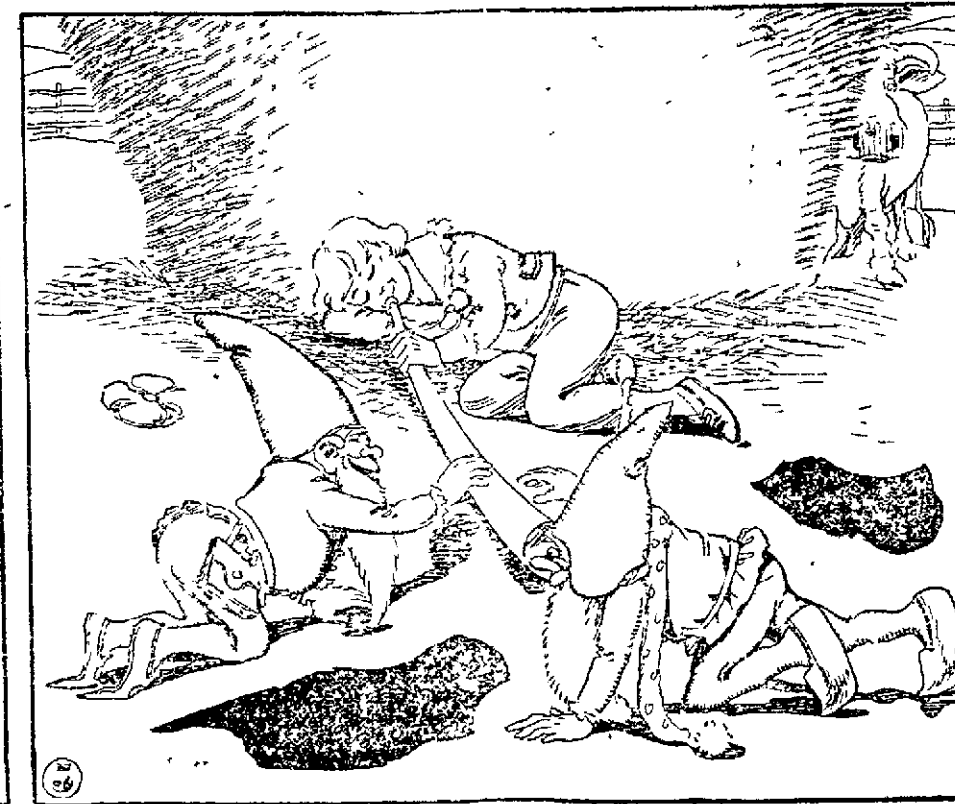

2.—They sneaked up to the haystack and began to tickle Little Boy Blue with straws, but when he showed signs of waking up—

3.—They quickly dodged behind the haystack and had a good laugh all to themselves. However—

4—Little Boy Blue seemed to fall asleep again and they thought it would be great fun to steal his horn. So they crept softly up, and—

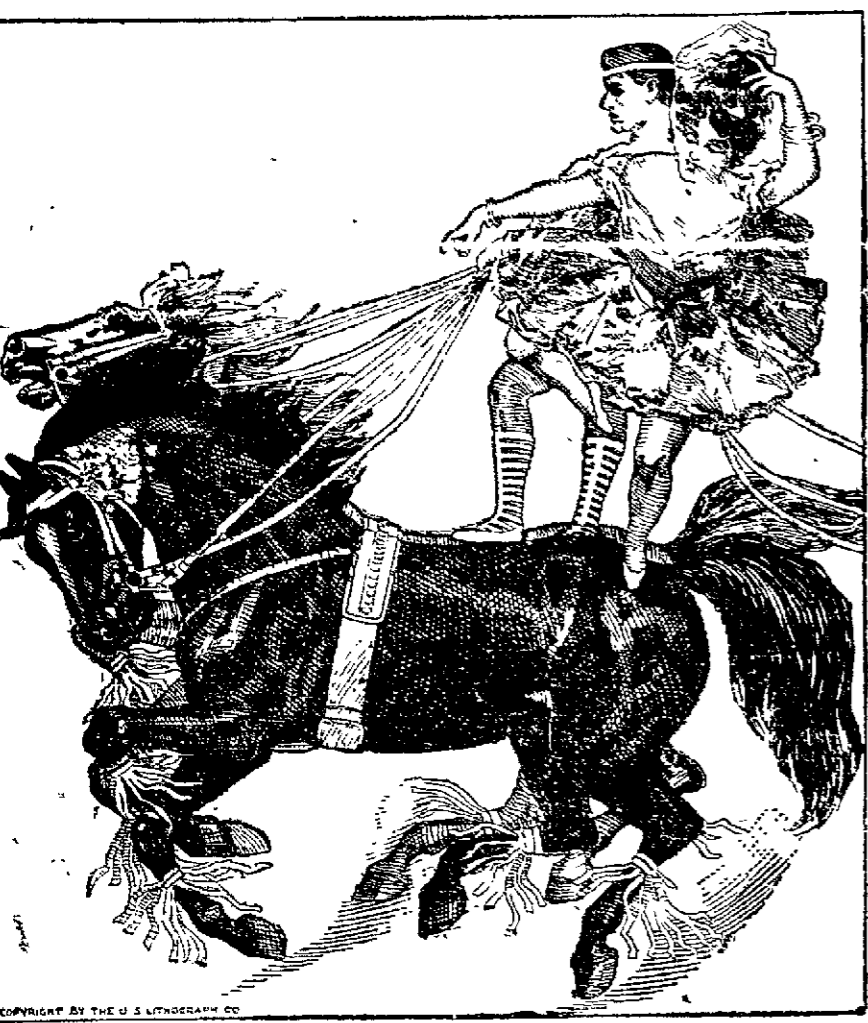

5—Just as they were about to seize it Little Boy Blue (who was only pretending to be asleep) took a deep breath and—

6—Blow such a blast that it frightened the naughty Gnomes out of their wits, and they ran home as fast as their legs would carry them, and did not come back for a whole week.

The Carl Hagenbeck & Great Wallace Shows contains a wondrous array of talent and real novelties this year. The Zoo has been augmented with many rare wonders also.

Like all good vaudeville performance the bill for the coming week is different from any but lately presented, in fact that is one reason why vaudeville is so popular.

Yesterday's Results. All games postponed, rain. Games Today.

Newark at Mansfield. Springfield at Lancaster. Marion at Lima.

All the games scheduled for the Ohio State league the last days of this week were sad fizzes, for the rain man butted in good and strong and combined with the snow dealer, and as a result, Lima and Springfield were the only ones to mix, and they pulled off two out of three games booked.

The Newark-Lancaster games in the latter city never came close to being played and the Mansfield-Marion series booked for the "City of Churches" never saw the light. The Cugarmakers and the Orphans did work through two contests and played to good attendance even though the weather was chilling.

They missed the rain that deluged the more southern towns and mixed in with the cold weather. The result was that the openers at Lankville and Convictown have been postponed, and now Springfield will play the opener in the Fairfield county town, and the Newark team will face the Tigers in their real opener.

While the hottest rivalry has always been between Lancaster and Newark, yet the Mansfield team and the Molders have always been sworn enemies on the field of battle and the games between these two towns have always been hard fought and a delight to the fan.

President Quinn is more than satisfied with the league and the games so far this season, and is very emphatic in his assertion that the infant circuit of Ohio baseball circles is the best ever. President Bob is reported to have worn a grin that took up his entire face when he read the opener at Newark when the longest contest in organized baseball so far this season was played.

His reply to the Marion episode when Empire Sheldon was struck by Manager O'Day of the Diggers, was that such a thing must not be repeated. The circuit known under the name of the Ohio State was to furnish amusement for ladies and gentlemen and that rowdism in any form would not be tolerated.

While Manager O'Day's action was hasty and to be regretted, yet it is past now and has proved a lesson to all managers and players in the league. They have found that work of that sort will be condemned by the public and the press and that clean ball must be the slogan.

Springfield had rowdy ball last year and as a result she landed in the new league, for the people refused to go to games to see fights instead of the cleanest of all sport. O'Day and Sheldon have shaken hands and made up, the incident will be forgotten, but the lesson remains.

POSTPONED. (Special to The Advocate.) Mansfield Ohio, May 2.—(3 p. m.)—The game between the Newark and Mansfield ball teams, scheduled for this afternoon, was called off on account of snow.

WILL BUILD BIG NEW PAINT FACTORY

Marietta, Ohio, May 2.—There has just been closed here a business deal of considerable importance between two manufacturing companies of this city which has opened the eyes of local people to the magnitude of one of the industries concerned. The Marietta Paint and Color Co. has sold its present large plant at the corner of Fort and Wood streets, and will immediately commence work on a much larger and more modern plant in Norwood, an Eastern suburb of this city.

For several years The Marietta Paint and Color Co. has found its present plant inadequate. This company is today the largest manufacturer of Wood Finishing Materials in the world. It is also a large manufacturer of high grade paints and paint specialties.

The new plant will be thoroughly modern and will be equipped with every facility for the handling of the business of the company.

THE QUEEN OF MAY

For I'm to be Queen of the May, mother, No baseball—I'll stay in the hay. For then there'll be no baseball, mother, Don't this brand of slush give you a pain?

No need to call me at all, mother, If the weather is cold, or there's rain. For then there'll be no baseball, mother, Don't this brand of slush give you a pain?

I wanted to sit in the stands, mother, And applaud Humph and Jusus and Brown. I am sick of this curtain of rain, mother. The weatherman ought to "ring down."

No chance for the Newark game, now, mother. The thought gives me a pain in my head. Gygil, Abbott, the Lockes, all have left. And the opening plans are all dead.

So let me sleep all through today, mother. No baseball—I'll stay in the hay. I want to forget shattered hopes, mother, For I'm sore on this first day of May. —Lancaster Gazette.

SHORT NEWS FROM OVER THE CIRCUIT

The Lancaster Gazette says that First Baseman Gygil predicts that "Red" White of the Lancaster pitching staff is booked for faster company. Gygil needs a little more seasoning and he will be good picking for some major league, according to "Gyg."

The Lima fans who have been deprived of organized baseball for 20 years are taking to the game like a moth to a candle. Even the cold weather couldn't keep them away from the game last week.

Phelan and Yarnall are booked for the opener against Newark today. Phelan hasn't worked against Newark this season. Moore may do slab duty for the Molders.

Manager Ransick of the Springfield club will not get Pitcher Quinn of Toledo. Quinn blocked the deal by saying he wanted to go east. He has been released by Manager Armour.

Newark at Mansfield, Marion to Lima and Springfield to Lancaster—such is the way the teams are booked for the next three games. After the Mansfield series the Molders return home and Marion opens here. Then comes Lima and Springfield for three games each. That is a nice series at home and as good weather is predicted the crowds will probably be large.

The dance given at Lancaster Wednesday night for the benefit of the Lancaster team was a big success. About 125 couples danced and prominent "among those present" were the Newark players.

MAY MEETING

(Continued from Page 4) to the glorious history of this country, under the sixty years of Democratic administration that preceded the present Republican mal-administration; to the fact that every square foot of territory, out of which every state of the union was carved, was acquired under Democratic administration and, that under Democratic administration the flag of our merchant marine floated in every water of the world and our people prospered as they never have since.

Resolved, That we view with alarm the constant encroachment of the Republican administration upon constitutional safeguards and the liberties of the people; the concentration of wealth and power in the hands of a few; the creation of privileged classes and the subjugation of the masses; the trampling under foot of the Declaration of Independence in the Philippine Islands and the constant enlargement of the powers of the national government, at the expense of the states; the uncalled for existence of a panic and hard times in this country of unparalleled advantages, where, under our boasted system of protection, tariff barons revel in wealth and hundreds of thousands of idle workmen walk the streets and their wives and children cry for bread.

Resolved, That the trusts that are eating out the heart of the nation should be abolished or made to conform to just and equitable laws; that the tariff should be immediately and thoroughly revised, so as not only to safeguard the interests of the manufacturer and of capital, but, also, so as to protect labor and the best interests of the people.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse that true Democrat, brave soldier and able statesman, James E. Campbell, for United States Senator, knowing him to be a man of the people who will be a strong advocate of the people's rights and interests in the United States Senate, which is now too truly known as the Plutocrat club.

Resolved, That we commend, in the highest terms, the faithful and very successful service of our distinguished young Congressman, Hon. W. A. Ashbrook, in Congress; that we enthusiastically endorse him for a second term, and move that he be allowed to select his own delegates to the coming Congressional Convention.

Resolved, That we endorse that able jurist, Hon. John David Jones, for Circuit Judge, believing that he will be a popular candidate for the position, and an ideal judge on the bench.

Resolved, That as Robert W. Howard has proven himself a most industrious, faithful and painstaking representative in the Legislature and has given his best efforts in behalf of every local interest pertaining to Lackington county, he is deserving of approval and endorsement for a second term.

Resolved, That we commend in the highest terms the efforts of the Democratic members of the Legislature to probe into the graft and corruption of State offices and State institutions, and the fact that these efforts at complete investigation have been prevented by the Republican members and State officials is ample reason for the people of Ohio to rise in their might and see that a Legislature, Democratic in both houses, is chosen at the coming election.

Resolved, That the Cox-Brown-Gilbert State ticket, slated and nominated by the boss-controlled Republican State Convention which has caused so much discontent among honest Republicans, deserves overwhelming defeat by the people at the polls, and we pledge our best efforts in the discharge of our duty to accomplish this result.

Resolved, That the Sherman anti-trust law as not applying to labor organizations be modified to except labor organizations and that the Congress of the United States pass suitable laws curbing the unscrupulous allowance of injunctions by courts.

Resolved, That we favor the principle of direct legislation and believe it will prove to be a great reform in the interest of the people.

Announcing these principles and asking for the perfect harmony of feeling and action without which success is impossible, we demand that the Democratic cohorts close and move forward to a glorious victory, next November.

COMMITTEE. The resolutions were read by Mr. J. H. Newton.

At the conclusion of the reading of the resolutions Attorney J. Howard Jones rushed to the front and moved to amend the resolution by endorsing the Hon. Wm. J. Bryan for president of the United States. The mere mention of the name of the illustrious statesman was the signal for a great demonstration on the part of the large audience. Men sprang to their feet and wildly cheered and waved their hats, and the resolution was endorsed with a whirl, after which all the resolutions were unanimously adopted.

PENSION BILL

WHICH INCREASES PAY OF SOLDIERS' WIDOWS AND MINOR CHILDREN.

Congressman W. A. Ashbrook One of the Leading Supporters of the Measure.

Following is the bill in full recently passed by the Senate and House of Representatives at Washington, providing for the increase of pensions of widows, minor children, etc., of deceased soldiers and sailors of the Civil war, the war with Mexico, and other wars, and to grant pensions to certain widows of deceased soldiers. The bill, which is now a law, had no more earnest supporter than our own energetic congressman, the Hon. Wm. A. Ashbrook, who was one of the leading promoters of the measure, and who worked indefatigably in its interest from the moment the bill was first introduced until it became a law.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the passage of this Act the rate of pension for widows, minor children under the age of sixteen years, and helpless minors as defined in existing laws, now on the roll or hereafter to be placed on the pension roll and entitled to receive a less rate than hereinafter provided, shall be twelve dollars per month; and nothing herein shall be construed to affect the existing allowance of two dollars per month for each child under the age of sixteen years and for each helpless child; and all Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed. Provided, however, That this Act shall not be so construed as to reduce any pension under any Act, public or private.

Sec. 2 That if any officer or enlisted man who served ninety days or more in the Army or Navy of the United States, during the late Civil War, and who has been honorably discharged therefrom, has died or shall hereafter die, leaving a widow, such widow shall, upon due proof of her husband's death, without proving her husband's death to be the result of his Army or Navy service, be placed on the pension roll from the date of the filing of her application therefor under this Act at the rate of twelve dollars per month during her widowhood, provided, that said widow shall have married said soldier or sailor prior to June 27th, 1890, and the benefits of this section shall include those widows whose husbands if living would have a pensionable status under the Joint Resolutions of February 15, 1895, July 1, 1902, and June 28, 1906.

Sec. 3 That no claim agent or attorney shall be recognized in the adjudication of claims under the first section of this Act, and that no agent, attorney, or other person engaged in preparing, presenting, or prosecuting any claim under the provisions of the second section of this Act shall, directly or indirectly, contract for, demand, receive, or retain for such services in preparing, presenting, or prosecuting such claim a sum greater than ten dollars, which sum shall be payable only upon the order of the Commissioner of Pensions by the pension agent making payment of the pension allowed; and any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section or who shall wrongfully withhold from the pensioner or claimant the whole or any part of a pension or claim allowed or due such pensioner or claimant under this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall, for each and every such offense, be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars or be imprisoned at hard labor not exceeding two years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

WITHOUT WARNING

EXPLOSION OCCURRED AND ENGINE OF BURLINGTON EXPRESS WAS DITCHED.

Several Trainmen Injured and Passengers Escape Unhurt. Engineer Believed to be in Debris.

Butte, Mont., May 2.—All passengers and trainmen on the eastbound Burlington flyer on the Northern Pacific road which was blown up near this city late last night, have been accounted for except Engineer Russett. It is thought his body is buried in the debris. The explosion is believed to have been the work of train robbers, but there is no clue. The flyer was under the usual speed when, without warning an explosion under the forward engine truck threw the great mass to one side. This pulled the second engine off the tracks, but none of the passenger coaches left the rails.

Carle Mange who was riding the blind baggage, was seriously hurt. George Ehle, fireman of the second engine, was badly scalded. Express Messenger Valentine had a remarkable escape. The mail car was hurled on its side and a cold storage fish car was demolished. The baggage car was also derailed.

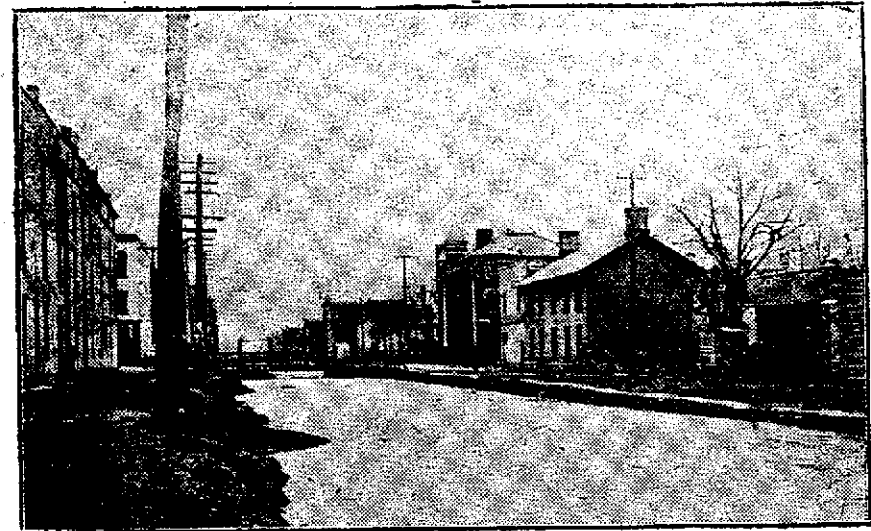

SENATE COMMITTEE HAS THE CANAL BILL

Abandonment of Portion of Ohio Canal Has Passed House and Now Awaits Action of the Senate

Unightly Old Ditch Passing Through City May Remain in Present Shape for Several Years.

The honored march of progress is about to destroy another time honored institution in this city in order to make way for something better in the future. This law has been the law of progress throughout the world for all time, as it will probably be to the end of time. One generation makes some great improvement that its consideration of lasting and permanent benefit, only to be destroyed by a succeeding generation on the pretext of erecting something better on its ruins.

The thing now that seems about to go at the inexorable demand of progress is the old-time water way that passes through Newark, commonly called the Ohio Canal, constructed in 1825. The Ohio Canal, for a period of 80 years, has been one of the greatest artificial water ways in the country. During that time it played a most important part in the commercial evolution of the country, as a great means of transportation between the east and west for the heavier articles of commerce, such as grain, lumber, coal, iron, etc.

GLIMPSE OF NEWARK CANAL.

Here is a view of the Ohio Canal at Newark, the picture showing that portion of the famous old waterway from Fourth street east. The buildings on the right are the Metz property and Licking county jail, the large building on the left being the Flock & Neal wholesale grocery. The bridge crosses the canal at Third street.

For over half a century at least, the Ohio Canal carried millions and millions of dollars worth of freight across Ohio and through Licking county, being the best and cheapest mode of transportation known, when it was constructed, and for many years afterwards, and being a very powerful factor in the pioneer development of Ohio and the great Northwest in the early days of the Ohio Canal. Volumes of history and volumes of romance might be written about the Ohio Canal and its earlier associations. The picturesque boats and more picturesque boatmen. What volumes of our great American history are more prolific or more fascinating than those which treat of the Ohio Canal and its service.

But the swift chariot of progress has long ago reached and passed the Ohio Canal in many sections of the state, at least where it seems to have outgrown its usefulness.

In this city, where the old canal traverses the best part of Newark from east to west, for a distance of probably nearly two miles, it has been practically abandoned as means of transportation for 25 years. For that length of time it has been an unsightly ditch passing through the midst of our beautiful city filled with mud, stagnant water, tin cans, dead cats and dogs and other refuse, so that it has finally become a blemish on beauty and order and a menace to the health of the city.

Accordingly a movement has been started and the matter has been agitated for some time past among the public spirited citizens of Newark to have that portion of the canal extending from First to Sixth streets, abandoned and given over to the Board of Trade of our city, in order that it might be filled up and converted from a pestilence breeder into a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Lately the Board of Trade has been very active in the matter and they have been zealously and efficiently represented in the Legislature by Hon. R. W. Howard, who first introduced a bill for the relief of Newark. Mr. Howard, however, was of the opinion that the bill could not possibly pass in that form, and he, together with the representatives from Fairfield and other counties, where it was desired that jections to this plan, which it is not necessary to state at this time.

One suggestion has been made that seems to meet with general approbation—that of converting the canal bed into a park. When this was suggested to Mr. Maylone he said that he was of the opinion that the converting of the site of the canal into a park would require a big expense and a great deal of work. He said that in his opinion the only way to old bed of the canal could be filled up would be for the city to buy a big hill in the vicinity of Newark, build a temporary railway track and transport the earth in cars to the canal. The Legislature has passed a bill allowing all cities desiring to do so to have park commissioners to serve without compensation. The bill authorizes the board to make a levy and also to issue bonds if the people so desire, for parks, playgrounds and boulevards.

Mr. Maylone suggested that it would be a good idea to construct a small park, say between Third and Fourth streets, on the canal, and if the scheme proves a success to enlarge the park.

It is said that several architects have been engaged at work for some time in making plans for a park, and that if the plans could be carried out Newark would boast of one of the handsomest and most attractive little parks in the great state of Ohio. It is safe to say, however, that in any event, there will something be doing with the site of the canal in Newark in the near future.

A large majority of the people of this generation know but little about the once great Ohio Canal, which passes through Newark. It was considered one of the greatest undertakings of the age and indeed, was the beginning of that grand series of internal improvements which has greatly assisted in placing Ohio among the foremost states of the Union. The following history of this great work is taken mostly from the writings of William Wing, Esq., deceased. Mr. Wing was also a contractor on the canal, and died in Columbus, O., February 12, 1878, in his 79th year. He was well versed in the pioneer history of Central Ohio, and has left behind him writings of much historical value.

Before the building of the canal Licking county had no outlet for produce, except by wagons to the lake, or by wagons to the Muskingum river, and thence by boat to New Orleans. The country was full of produce for which there was no market. Ham was worth three cents a pound; eggs, four cents per dozen; flour, one dollar per hundred pounds; whisky, 12 1-2 cents per gallon, and other things proportionately cheap.

The commissioners appointed by the Legislature to carry on the work appointed Judge D. S. Bates, an experienced engineer of the State of New York, and in their wisdom, made "Licking Summit," several miles west of Newark, the place of beginning. They then gave notice to all concerned throughout Ohio and the adjoining states, that a commencement of the excavation would be made on the Fourth of July, 1825.

Samuel Forrer, of Dayton, was appointed principal acting engineer; John Forrer, local engineer, on the Summit, and he immediately prepared a few rods of ground, where the line of the canal would pass through a field, for the public demonstration.

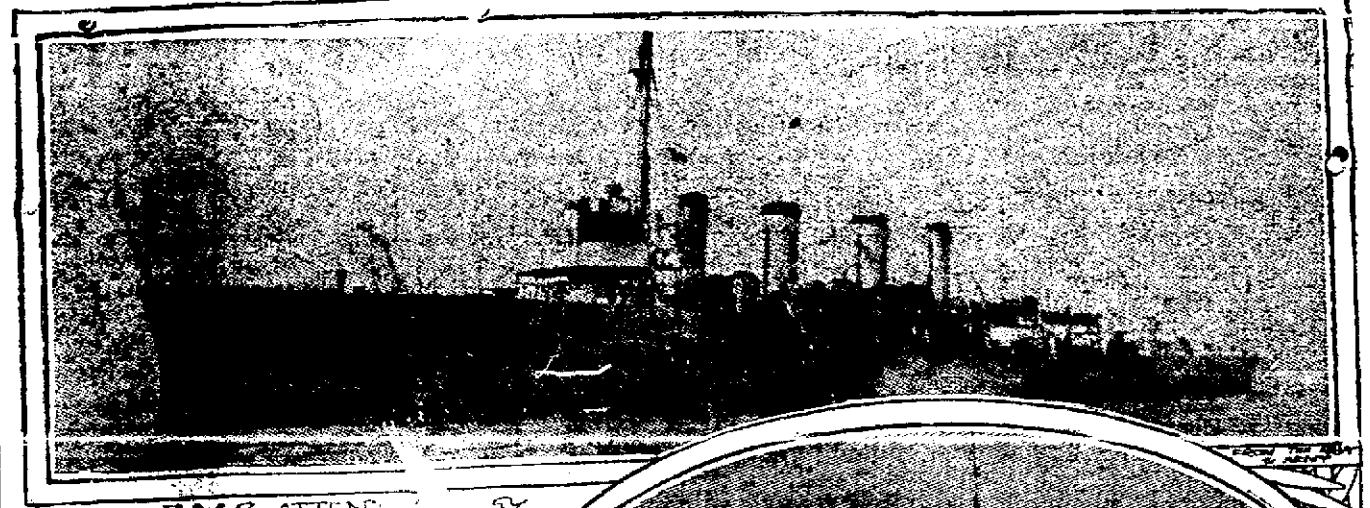

A MINNESOTA PRODIGY.

A hog which is all shoulders and hams is certainly a prodigy. The one shown in the illustration which was shipped to South Saint Paul from Minnesota in the usual way a few days ago. He is now in possession of Swift & Company who are going to send him to their place in Chicago, where he will be on exhibit so that the Illinois stock growers can see what can be done in Minnesota in the way of raising pigs which are all quality.

A curious feature about this animal is that he has to kneel down when eating in order to get his snout to the ground, having no neck. When he moves from one place to another he turns round and round at though waiting to the strains of the Merry Widow waltz. Several showmen have been after him, but the owners are not inclined to sell him. After his return from Chicago, he will be exhibited at the Minnesota state fair as a breeders' curiosity.

BRITISH BOATS IN RECENT COLLISION.

H.M.S. ATTENTION.

moter of the building of the Erie canal in his own state.

A correspondence between leading friends of the enterprise resulted in the appointment of a committee to carry out the wishes of the commissioners. The committee consisted of Judge Wilson and Alexander Holmes of Licking, and Judge Elvathian Schofield, one of the early surveyors in this section, and John Noble, of Fairfield county. This committee, at its first meeting, engaged Gottlieb Steinman, a hotel keeper of Lancaster, to furnish a dinner, upon the ground for the invited guests, and as many more as would pay for a dinner ticket, at $1.50 a ticket. This proved to be a losing business for Steinman. It happened to be wet two or three days before the Fourth, and as there were no houses near the site of entertainment, rough booths were constructed in the woods; tables and seats were made of plank, hauled from saw mills at a considerable distance from the place. All the fancy part of the dinner, including the pastry, etc., were prepared at Lancaster, 222 miles south. The entire preparation was made under the most unfavorable circumstances. The roasts and broils were prepared on the ground. The Fourth opened fine and clear; the dinner was good, and enjoyed by all who partook, but of the thousands who attended, many prepared for the emergency by bringing a hamper of provisions with them.

The ceremonies began according to program. Governor Clinton received the spade, thrust it into the soil, and raised the first spadeful of earth, amid the most enthusiastic cheers of the assembled thousands.

This earth was placed in what they called a canal wheelbarrow and the spade was passed to Governor Morrow, a statesman and a farmer. He sank it to its full depth and raised the second spadeful. Then commenced a strife as to who should raise the next. Captain Ned King, commanding the infantry company, present from Chillicothe raised the third; then some of the guests of Governor Clinton's company threw in some dirt and the wheelbarrow being full, Captain King wheeled it to the bank. It is impossible to describe the scene of excitement and confusion that accompanied the ceremony. The people shouted themselves hoarse. The feeling was so great that tears fell from many eyes.

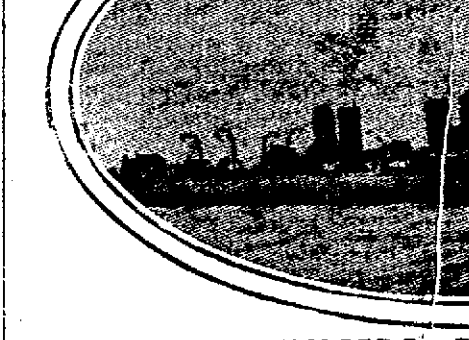

The stand for the speaking was in the woods. The crowd was so great that one company of cavalry was formed in a hollow square around the back and sides of the stand. The flies, after three days' rain, were so troublesome that the horses kept up a constant stamping, much to the annoyance of the crowd.

Governor Clinton and friends, Governor Morrow, Messrs. Rathburn and Lord, with many others, were invited to Lancaster where they were handsomely entertained by the citizens. Rathburn and Lord were the men who negotiated the loan of $400,000 for Ohio, and the Lancaster bank was the first to make terms with the fund commissioners to receive and disburse the money.

The wages for work on the canal were $8 for 26 working days, or 30 3-4 cents per day, from sunrise to sunset. The hands were well fed and lodged in shanties and received their regular "jiggers" of whisky the first four months.

Micajah T. Williams and Alfred Kelly were the acting commissioners, and proved themselves faithful public servants. They were often passing up and down the line and saw the evil effects of the "jigger" of whisky. They left notice at each contract station that they would not pay estimates monthly if the contractors furnished whisky on the work, an order that caused much grumbling among a certain class of men, but it was promptly obeyed by the contractors. A jigger was small, not a gill in measure, but 50 or 60 men taking four of these per day—at sunrise, at 10 o'clock, at noon, at 4 o'clock, and before supper—would exhaust a barrel of whisky in four or five days. Men from Fairfield, Hocking, Galia and Meigs counties, and all the country around, came to work on the canal. Farmers and their sons wanted to earn this amount of wages, as it was cash—a very scarce article—and they must have it to pay taxes and other cash expenses.

The contracts for building the canal were made soon after breaking the ground at Licking Summit. The first at Newark embraced all the section from the point of breaking ground, south, including the embankment of the Licking Summit reservoir to the deep cut, so-called, and there was one section at the south end of

H.M.S. TORPEDO-BOAT DESTROYER GALA.

Harwich, England, May 2.—The British torpedo boat destroyer Gala was cut in two and sunk off Kewish Knock, in the North Sea, by the scout Attentive. The torpedo boat destroyer Ribble was also involved in the collision and returned to Sheerness with two compartments full of water.

The flotilla was engaged in night manoeuvres when the accident occurred. Engineer Lieut. Frank A. Fletcher of the Gala, who was in his the cut let, about this time, to Colonel Noble, Ellders, from New York were present, and obtained some of the heaviest jobs—as the reservoir job and others.

The price of excavation and embankment was from 9 to 13 cents per cubic yard; grubbing and clearing, per chain, $2 to $10, according to circumstances.

The next letting at Newark included the deep cut, so called, and the South Fork feeder. The length of the cut was about three miles. The deepest place it was about 8 feet at either end, so that it would average about 24 feet the whole length. It was divided into two sections, and the whole was let at 15 cents per cubic yard; the north half to Scoville, Hathaway & Co., of New York and the south half to Osborn, Rathburn & Co., of Columbus.

The next work was let at Newark. It commenced at the north end of Licking Summit, thence northward to Nashport, including all the heavy work, and the dam at the lower end of the Licking Narrows. The letting embraced some 12 to 15 locks. Two aqueducts and culverts with the usual excavation and embankment. The masonry of the locks was bid in at from $2 to $2.50 per perch of 16 1-2 cubic feet, which included a lock finished, except the excavation of the pit and embankment around the lock. The other masonry was let at proporbunk at the point where the destroyer was struck, went down with the vessel. There was no other loss of life.

The accident resembles in many respects that which was met by the torpedo boat destroyer Tiger, which got into collision with and was sunk by the British cruiser Berwick, while engaged in night manoeuvres off the Isle of Wight on April 2. The number of lives lost on that occasion, however, was thirty-six.

tionate rates, and the other work went very low. There was great competition.

The next letting was at Irville, in Muskingum county, commencing at the north end of the described work, extending north to Roscoe, upon which there was considerable heavy work let at about the same rates as above, competition being no less.

The next work was let at Lancaster, commencing at the south end of Colonel Noble's job, thence southward to Circleville.

Some of the jobs on the canal were abandoned and afterward relet at better prices. The price of labor was very low. Wages did not rise above $10 per month for four or five years. There was no "eight hour system"—the men worked all day. Very few Irish or other foreigners had arrived at that time, and the work was mostly done by native Americans. It was a great undertaking for the state to build the canal; and although its working never paid the interest on its cost, yet it paid for itself many times over by the increased wealth brought to the state and the great increase in values of every marketable thing, covering a large amount of territory.

The Cynical Bachelor rises to remark that married life is frequently one grand, sweet song, but with the husband playing the accompaniment.

MAYOR IS AUTOCRAT

Paine Bill Makes Executive Conservator of City's Peace.

APPOINTS AND REMOVES AT WILL

New Plan of Municipal Government Goes Into Effect Aug. 1, 1909. But Civil Service Provisions Are Not Operative Until Jan. 1, 1910—Members of Present Police and Fire Departments Not to Be Disturbed in Positions.

Under the new city plan of government, as provided in the Paine bill enacted this session, the mayor will be chief conservator of the peace, with power to appoint and remove the director of public service, director of public safety and heads of sub-departments of public service and public safety. The directors and officers provided for in this act shall have the exclusive right, subject to limitations prescribed, to appoint all employees in their respective departments and likewise subject to limitations prescribed, have sole power to remove or suspend such employees.

The mayor and directors of service and safety shall attend council meetings when requested to do so and to answer any questions asked by any member of council.

Each city shall have a department of public service, the director of which shall supervise the improvement and repair of streets, avenues, alleys, lanes, squares, wharves, docks, landings, market houses, bridges, viaducts, aqueducts, sidewalks, playgrounds, sewers, drains, ditches, culverts, ship channels, streams and watercourses; lighting, sprinkling and cleaning of public places, construction of public improvements and public works, except as otherwise provided; shall manage all municipal water, lighting, heating, power, garbage and other undertakings of the city, parks, baths, playgrounds, market houses, cemeteries, crematories, sewage disposal plants and farms, and shall make and preserve surveys, maps, plans, drawings and estimates; shall supervise the construction and maintenance of public buildings and other property of the corporation not otherwise provided for, and shall have the management of all other matters provided by council in connection with the public service of the city.

All contracts made by the director of public service shall be executed by him in the name of the city, and no liability shall be created against the city as to any matters under the supervision of said director except by his express authority. No director of public service or officer or employee of said department shall be interested in any contract under his supervision. The director of public service shall keep a record of his proceedings, a copy of which, certified by the clerk of the department, shall be competent evidence in all courts.

The director of public service may establish such sub-departments as may be necessary and determine the number of superintendents, deputies, inspectors, engineers, harbor masters, clerks, laborers and other persons as may be necessary to perform the duties of this department.

Each city shall have a department of public safety, the director of which shall be the chief administrative authority of the fire, police, charity, correction and buildings departments and shall have all powers and duties connected with and incident to the appointment, regulation and government of these departments, except as otherwise provided by law. He shall make all contracts in the name of the city with reference to these departments, for erection or repair of buildings or improvements in connection with said departments and purchase of supplies for said departments, subject to the restrictions imposed by law.

He shall manage and make all contracts in reference to police stations, fire houses, cemeteries, reform schools, houses of correction, infirmaries, hospitals, work houses, farms, pest houses, and other charitable and reformatory institutions now or hereafter established and maintained.

The director of public safety shall classify the service in the police and fire departments according to ordinance of council determining the number of persons to be employed therein, and shall make all rules for regulation and discipline of such departments, except as otherwise provided.

The director of public safety shall make all contracts and expenditures of money for acquiring lands or station houses, police stations, fire department buildings, fire cisterns, and plugs that may be required, and for the purchase of engines, apparatus, and all other supplies for police and fire departments, and for all other undertakings and departments under his supervision; provided that no expenditure of more than $500 shall be created except authorized by ordinance of council.

He shall make no sale or disposition of any property belonging to the city without being authorized by resolution or ordinance of council.

question, motion or order. No contract in the department of public service or the department of public safety in excess of $500 shall be awarded except on approval of the board of control, which shall direct the director of the appropriate department to enter into the contract. The members of the board shall prepare estimates of the revenues and expenditures of their respective departments to be submitted to the council by the mayor, as provided by law. City auditor or his deputy shall attend opening of bids for contracts.

In all cities, president of the board of education, president of sinking fund commissioners and president of council shall constitute a commission to appoint three resident electors to be civil service commissioners for terms of three years; provided that the commissioners first appointed shall be one for one year, one for two years and one for three years, who shall hold no other positions in the public service, excepting in the schools and libraries.

The civil service shall be divided into classified and unclassified service. The unclassified service shall include officers elected by the people or appointed to fill vacancies in offices filled by popular election, or whose appointment is subject to confirmation by council, or who are appointed by any state officer or by any court; employees of council, persons who by law serve without remuneration; persons appointed to positions requiring professional or technical skill as determined by the civil service commission; persons appointed or employed to give instruction in any educational institution; persons appointed by any board or officers supervising elections; members of a board in charge of any principal department of the government of any city; head or chief of any division or principal department of any city, relating to engineering, waterworks, street cleaning, or health; chief of police department; chief of fire department; superintendent of work-house, house of refuge, infirmary, or hospital; librarian of any public library; private secretaries; deputies of the city auditor and city treasurer; all unskilled laborers, and appointees of the civil service commission. The classified service shall comprise offices and places not included in the unclassified service.

Applicants for admission into the classified service shall be subjected to examination which shall be competitive, public and open to all residents of the city, with such limitations as to age, residence, health, habits and moral character as said commission may prescribe. Such applicants shall take rank in the order of their relative standing without preference to priority of examination. The result of the examination shall be accessible to all persons.

Appointments shall be made as follows: The appointing board or officer shall notify the commission of any vacancy. The commission shall thereupon certify the three graded highest and such board or officer shall appoint one of the three certified. Grades and standings shall remain six months or longer if the commission so determine, and in succeeding notifications candidates not selected may be dropped by the commission after having been certified three times.

Nothing in this act shall prevent the dismissal or discharge of any appointee by the removing board or officer, except that chiefs and members of police and fire departments shall be dismissed only as provided in section 152 of the code and the appeal therein provided to the board of public safety shall be made to the civil service commission under such rules as the commission may adopt; provided, however, that no officer or employee within the classified service, who shall have been appointed under such rules, shall be removed, reduced in rank or discharged, except for some cause relating to moral character or suitability to perform the duties of his position, though he may be suspended from duty not exceeding 30 days pending investigation of charges against him. Such cause shall be determined by the removing authority and reported in writing, with a specific statement of reasons, to the commission, but shall not be made public without the consent of the person discharged. Before such removal, reduction or discharge, the removing authority shall give such person a reasonable opportunity to know the charges against him and to be heard in his own behalf.

To prevent the stoppage of public business or to meet extraordinary exigencies, the mayor may make temporary appointments.

No officer, secretary, clerk, sergeant, patrolman, fireman or other employee serving in the police or fire departments of any city of the state at the time this act goes into effect shall be removed or reduced in rank or pay except in accordance with the provision of section 152 of the municipal code.

Council shall by ordinance or resolution, except as otherwise provided, determine the number of officers, clerks and employees in any department of the city, fix by ordinance or resolution their compensation and the amount of bond to be given for each, and said bonds shall be made with surety subject to approval of the mayor.

The civil service portions of the act go into effect January 1, 1910. The other provisions go into effect August 1, 1909, merely that the next municipal election may be held accordingly, the present boards of public safety and public service to serve until the ensuing change of administration, Jan. 1, 1910.

FORMAL ADJOURNMENT MAY 9

Most Notable Feature of the Session Was the Amount of Investigation. Actually Accomplished or Authorized—House Played Politics to the Finish, But Could Not Succeed Cox Behind Mayor Johnson—State Fair Taken Away From Farmers.

BY ORWELL C. RIDDLE.

Columbus, O., May 2.—(Special).—Looking back over the second session of the present legislature, which practically ended its work when it recessed Friday to May 9, one will find a great deal of work accomplished, whether it be good, bad or indifferent. Some of it is admittedly good. The bad not already visible will keep coming to the surface as the products of the session are tried out in the courts. That which is indifferent will cause no great concern and accomplish little except to lumber up the statutes and help win a few lawsuits. The Republican house, which started in at the beginning of the session to play politics kept up its game to the end and lost no opportunity to jockey the senate into yielding to its arbitrary dictation, failing chiefly in two instances—on the emasculated initiative and referendum resolution and the attempt to switch the investigation of the treasury and auditor's office by the senate's probe committee into a "bi-partisan" committee to be selected by the governor, when participated in secret conferences with State Auditor Guilbert, Attorney General Ellis, the Republican speaker of the house and the Republican leader in the senate at which the scheme that failed was concocted.

The net product of the session has been investigation. It began with the revival of the purpose to probe Cox's misgovernment of Cincinnati to the bottom, which the two Republican candidates for re-election to the supreme court bench helped to knock out two years ago. This same Republican house which tried to shield Cox two years ago tried again this year, which proved the undoing of Speaker Eagleton's ambition to be the candidate for lieutenant governor on the boss-made ticket. The house played football with the Cincinnati probe all session and as a last resort sought to foil it with a counter resolution to probe Cleveland, expecting that the Democrats would rather drop further probing of Cox than have a probe committee sent to Cleveland. In this the political tricksters were so badly disappointed that they regret now the making of that move. It was laughable to see the caterer of little bosses on the Republican side try to kill off the Cleveland investigation when the resolution came back to the house for concurrence in some amendments made by the senate. In their hope that the Democrats would defeat the resolution, it was loaded with vituperation that was probably to be used for campaign thunder, especially if the resolution were voted down. But the Democratic side took the breath of the tricksters by moving that the resolution be adopted at once and as the Republicans could not back out after going so far, the resolution went through the house with a whirl.

In the senate amendments were offered completely answering the bitter attack on Mayor Johnson and showing that the resolution was prepared by F. W. Broadway, the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor who was snowed under as candidate for vice mayor along with Mr. Burton last fall, and by Attorney General Ellis, who owes all the political offices he has held to the favor of George B. Cox, and by the big Mr. Little who introduced it.

These matters appear in the printed journal of proceeding, along with the sordid diatribe of Broadway, Ellis and Little. No wonder the tricksters began to realize their blunder when the senate also adopted the resolution with some minor amendments.

This is why Mr. Fizzell (R.) of Dayton denounced the resolution as brutal and a document that is contemptible although intended to be crafty. Even Mr. Chamberlain, the Republican floor leader joined Woods, Mooney and others who tried to kill the resolution or stave off the investigation till after election and gave Cleveland members of the house opportunity to accuse the Republicans of cowardice and of having put their heads in a noose by introducing the Cleveland resolution to kill the Cincinnati probe only to choke themselves trying to get out.

The upshot of it all is that Cincinnati will be probed by one committee and another committee will try to discover why Tom L. Johnson has been elected four times to be mayor of the largest city in the state. An allowance of $2000 in expenses being made to each committee. But the house showed its partisan fangs by defeating the bill passed by the senate to pay the expenses of the Drake committee which probed Cincinnati so thoroughly that thousands of loaves were turned back into the county treasury before Cox could get the probe stopped by the supreme court.

It is expected that some scheme will be devised to head off the new investigation ordered. Cox would be only too willing to have the courts declare both the Cleveland and Cincinnati proposed probes illegal to save his own neck.

The Meek probe of the state school commissioner's office did not result in very much remedial legislation this session but it will bear fruit hereafter. This was a case of a Republican senator exposing conditions in a state department under vicious political control of Republican politicians, and the airing demonstrated that about 99 per cent of Senator Meek's charges were true. The only point not sustained in full or in part was a bit of scandal which was lugged into the investigation. The revelations of how the schools of the state are hoveled in machine politics should help bring about the smashing of that machine through the defeat of the machine candidate for school commissioner on the Cox-Brown-Guilbert ticket.

After prying into charges against the management of the state penitentiary the pen probe was converted into a commission to inquire into modes of prison discipline as well as management. It will complete its work after the session and report to the governor. This committee's work will have additional importance since the legislature passed the Howe bill to create a commission of five, appointed by the governor, to select a new site for the penitentiary. The site may be anywhere in the state. It is not likely that many cities will bid for it when they take into consideration the kind of citizens turned loose upon the community after terms of imprisonment expire.

One of the net results of the session is that the farmers of Ohio lose control of the state fair through the Rose bill that was flashed near the finish and jammed through in the final rush before the farmers had time to hear about it fully, and with no time at all to think it over or protest. On pretext of making the state board of agriculture "legal," control was taken away from the farmers and the governor will appoint the entire board this year—after the legislature adjourns—two members to be appointed by the governor each year hereafter for terms of five years each.

To show that the taking of the state fair board away from the farmers was a political scheme pure and simple, hatched somewhere about the first floor of the state house and introduced by a Republican senator, an amendment offered by Senator Huffman, a Democrat, that not more than five members of the board should be of the same political party was defeated by a party vote. A great yell went up in favor of a "bi-partisan investigation" when the senate's committee got on the trail of Meakinon and Guilbert, but there was no such anxiety to have a bi-partisan state board of agriculture to keep the state fair out of politics. The only pretext offered for this outrage upon Ohio farmers was that the board had to be "legalized" before its secretary could go ahead with the analysis of fertilizers required by law. But this was mere subterfuge. The attorney general gave an opinion not more than three weeks ago that the legislature can legally give aid to the state fair, as has been done for years. The fertilizer question could have been settled easily enough by authorizing the analysis to be made at the state experiment farm near Wooster, or by the state dairy and food commissioner. There was no real excuse for taking the control of the state board of agriculture away from the farmers to control the fertilizer companies, and the farmers will understand that fact after they have had time to think it over.

As "Happy Holligan" would say, the rush of Friday's proceedings was "sumpin fierce." It always is the last day for Friday was practically the last day of the session. Although there would be no technical impediment to taking up any matter when the legislature meets again May 9, it is tacitly understood that nothing will be done that day except to receive the final report of the enrollment committee, the signing of bills by the presiding officers and to act on veto messages, if any are received from the governor. Then will follow the "mutual administration" resolutions and oratory after which Fizzell will be written on the journal of the seventy-seventh general assembly.

The Ghost Spy.

"General, we bring you a spy. While at work on the breach the enemy made yesterday we discovered this man or boy, whichever he may be, at times working with us, at times looking about him at the approaches, the moats, the walls, as if searching for a weak point. He did not remove his armor, as we did, for freedom to work and kept his visor closed. Suspecting him, we seized him."

"Ah, ha!" exclaimed the general. "Take him to the parapet and hang him in view of the prince who sent him."

A gibbet was erected, a ladder placed in position and the prisoner taken up to the parapet for hanging. He begged that he might offer his last adoration to his God in his own way, and when permission was given him, facing the west, where the sun was sinking, he bowed low three times.

"He's worse than a heathen," cried the captain of the execution party. "He worships fire. Send him to hell, where he belongs."

The youth was forced to climb the ladder, the noose was put about his neck, and the ladder was kicked away. There were a few jerks and all was quiet.

The night was dark. The sentry who guarded that part of the parapet where the spy hung was obliged to pass and re-pass the gruesome object on his beat. At first he would not look at it. Then in passing he turned his eyes toward it, as though compelled by a dread fascination. There was nothing of the body to be seen within the armor except a lock of hair that hung below the helmet.

"It doth amaze me," muttered the sentry, "how long these cavaliers wear their locks. Mayhap it serves for a spe whereby Satan lowers them into the burning lake."

Encouraged by the thought, he gave the corpse a poke with his pike. As it swung back toward him he thought he heard a low moan. Daring to the end of his beat, he hid behind a stone projection and could not induce himself to again walk past the body. While he stood shivering in his corner a wind sprang up, swaying the dreaded object and occasionally knocking the steel armor against the gibbet. To stent out the sound he put his fingers in his ears.

When he heard the relief coming he took up his pike and resumed his beat. There was the ghostly thing still swaying in the wind. The sentry was relieved, and his successor, a braver man, marched to and fro on his beat without fear. Once when passing it occurred to him to strike it with his pike. What was his surprise to hear it emit a hollow sound. He struck it again, with the same result. Then he put a hand under one foot and lifted it without any more exertion than would be required to lift an empty suit of armor.

"Captain of the guard," he cried, "the devil has flown away with the spy's body!"

The captain came, examined the armor and stood aghast. Then he reported the fact to the general. The general came, saw and was conquered. They were superstitious in those days, and he believed that the spy was a supernatural being who had come to find out how best the stronghold could be taken. The ghost had seen that but a handful of men defended it. Besides, it had seen a circuitous path that led to the rear, over which a force might come and fire into the works from a greater height. The general went trembling back to his quarters.

The next morning he saw the forces of the enemy drawn up prepared to climb the heights and a detachment moving toward the path leading to his rear. He ordered a white flag displayed on the battlements.

Later a party carrying a litter came up the declivity. In the litter was a girl, pale and languid. A young knight who accompanied her stated that she had been sent to receive the surrender. "The general gave it, saying:—

"I can fight men, but not spirits. Yesterday a mysterious stranger was observed spying on our works. He had neither the face of man nor woman, but a creature betwixt the two. We bawled him on the parapet that the prince might be deterred from sending others. In the night that which seemed to be a body vanished."

A smile came upon the girl's wan face. "General," she said, "I was this supernatural creature. I volunteered to come and get the information required for your defeat. Before the execution I bowed thrice to the west, which, by a code agreed upon, told the prince your weakness and the best route of procedure. When I was hanged my hair was loose under my helmet and protected my throat from the noose, which, too, caught in a projection of my armor. I remained unconscious till"—She looked at her companion. He said:

"Seeing the body of my affianced bride hanging on the parapet, I resolved to secure it or die. A party brought ladders, by which I crossed the moat and by another climbed the battlement. As I was about to cut the body down I heard a moan. I loosened the noose, took the burden to the other side of the moat and sent a man back with the armor to hang it up, thinking to conceal the theft till we could take counsel. Our brave girl was brought back to consciousness, and the prince gave her the right to receive your surrender."

The girl who had achieved this great work and nerved herself to complete it as soon as the story was told fainted. It is one thing to do the work of a spy, another to be hanged.

SILK FROM GRASS.

W. S. Devery to Utilize Product of the Rockaway Marshes.

William S. Devery, New York's former chief of police, is about to produce from the vegetation of the Rockaway marshes a fabric fine as silk, so he says.

He says this fabric can be used for anything for which the textiles made from the cocoon are employed. Just what the fabric is and how it is treated he declines to say, and little "apprehension" to and (touching) thereof" can be learned beyond the fact that a company is to be formed and the looms of France will be brought into competition with a marsh silk which will be only half as expensive as that which owes its origin to the silkworm.

"Call it!" remarked Mr. Devery when asked for details. "Well, I haven't dealt with that phase of the question. How would Azelina do? When those Frenchmen get in the race with it they will find it a 100 to 1 shot walking into homes of refinement to a brilliant finish. Azelina will certainly be going some if that is what we nominate it. I don't know but what we might organize the Daffy Down Dilly Silk company, and when everything is in good shape we certainly will give the public a run for its money."

"What is it? Not on your life. There are too many of those bright chemist boys around, and if I went into the details they would be making it, for it is absolutely impossible to get the electric needle, which faithfully records every shade of tone. For books and newspapers the idea is to have a conventional imitation of zigzags of the various vowels and consonants in the form of type, which will be set in lines like ordinary printed matter. Telephone conversations would be as blinding as a written contract today."

When Books Will Be No More.

Dr. Marago of Paris is photographing the human voice, and with a powerful magnifying glass he is able to read the records of a person talking. It is the belief of certain scientists that these voice photographs eventually will take the place of writing and alphabets altogether. Stenography, too, would be abolished. Instead of writing a letter the sender would talk into the microphone, pull out the strip of zigzags when through and question it. Forgery would be out of the past, for it is absolutely impossible to deceive the electric needle, which faithfully records every shade of tone. For books and newspapers the idea is to have a conventional imitation of zigzags of the various vowels and consonants in the form of type, which will be set in lines like ordinary printed matter. Telephone conversations would be as blinding as a written contract today.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS

Bronson Bill Designates How They Shall Be Held.

REGULAR BOARDS IN CONTROL

Severe Penalties Provided For Those Who Vote Without Proper Qualifications, Or Who Make Unlawful Use of Money at Polls.—Selection of Candidates by Nomination Papers Is Not Prohibited.—Basis of Representation Is Specifically Set Forth in New Law.

In what will be known as the new Bronson primary election law, which goes into effect Jan. 1, 1909, provision is made for holding simultaneous primaries of the major parties under the auspices of the local board of elections. The entire act has 45 sections, the most important provisions of which follow:

Candidates for congress, and other elective offices, delegates provided for herein, members of controlling committees of all voluntary political parties which polled in the state or any district, county or subdivision thereof, or municipality at least 10 per cent of the entire vote cast shall be nominated or selected in such state, district, subdivision or municipality.

Candidates for congress, and other elective offices, delegates provided for herein, members of controlling committees of all voluntary political parties which polled in the state or any district, county or subdivision thereof, or municipality at least 10 per cent of the entire vote cast shall be nominated or selected in such state, district, subdivision or municipality. In accordance with the provisions of this act, persons not so nominated shall not be considered candidates and their names shall not be printed on official ballots. Delegates, and party controlling committees whose members have not been so selected, shall not be recognized by any board or officer. But nothing in this act shall be construed to repeal any act relating to nomination of candidates for office by nomination papers, and no elector shall be disqualified from signing a petition for nomination of candidates for office by nomination papers because such elector voted at a primary provided to nominate candidates to be voted for at the election or because such elector signed nomination papers for such primary.

This act shall not extend to delegates selected in pursuance of the call of the national committee of any political party.

Candidates for state offices and district offices, where the district contains more than one county, shall be nominated by delegate conventions, the delegates to be chosen at primary elections or at county conventions composed of delegates chosen at primaries as may be determined by the state or district committee respectively of the party, and certified to the proper county central committee at least 40 days prior to such primaries.

State and district committees shall, by resolution, determine the representation to all conventions held to nominate candidates for office, and apportion delegates in proportion to the party vote for governor at the last preceding general election. Delegates to a state convention shall be apportioned on the basis of one delegate for each 500 votes and fraction of 250 or more. Not less than 40 days before the day for the primary, such state or district committee shall transmit a copy of its resolution of apportionment to the central committee of the proper party and to the board of elections of each county in the state or district.

When delegates are selected by county convention, the county central committee shall at least 30 days before the primary, by resolution fix and apportion the representation throughout the county. The county committee shall provide that delegates to county conventions shall be apportioned to and elected by election districts in such county; and in case delegates are chosen by direct vote, they shall be apportioned to such election districts and elected in the same manner. All such election districts shall consist of a precinct, township or ward having a sufficient number of votes to entitle it to one or more delegates, otherwise such committee shall annex such precinct, township or ward to adjacent precincts, townships or wards and apportionment made accordingly. If the full number to which a county is entitled is not provided for, the remaining number shall be elected at large by the electors of the county. Delegates to county conventions shall meet in convention at such time and place not later than 20 days after the primary as the county committee shall designate.

When a state or district committee does not require that all delegates to a state or district convention shall be elected by direct vote, it shall be lawful to provide that the county central committee shall determine the method of choosing delegates from such county, either by direct vote at the primary or at county conventions composed of delegates elected at the primary, by resolution adopted not less than 20 days before the next primary.

All members of county controlling committees shall be elected, and all candidates for offices to be elected in a county or subdivision thereof, or a municipal corporation, shall be nominated by direct vote, except as otherwise provided herein for judicial and legislative offices. The candidate or candidates receiving the greatest number of votes shall be the nominee, and the person receiving the highest number of votes for committee-man shall be the member of such controlling committee.

The controlling committees of political parties shall be a state central committee, consisting of one member from each congressional district, chosen by delegates to the state convention from each ward and township, or of one member from each precinct in the county, as the outgoing committee may determine, to be chosen by direct vote at the primary held in even numbered years, and the members chosen from a city shall constitute a city committee; provided that existing state, district, county and city committees shall continue to act and be recognized as such, until their successors are chosen hereunder. And where a judicial subdivision or district or congressional district is included within a county, the members of the county central committee who are residents of such district shall also act as the judicial or congressional committee. Within 15 days after their selection all such committees shall meet and organize and may select an executive committee.

Party controlling committees shall serve two years and until their successors are selected in case of vacancies the committee shall fill the vacancy by majority vote.

For counties to nominate candidates for county officers or delegates to nominate candidates for state or district offices, shall be held in each county at the usual polling places the third Tuesday of May of even numbered years, and primaries to nominate candidates for township and municipal offices and members of school board shall be held in each county at the usual polling places the first Tuesday after the first Monday in September or odd numbered years.

In counties wherein four or more members of the general assembly are to be elected, and in counties comprising a judicial subdivision or district wherein a common pleas judge or judges are to be elected, candidates for such offices shall be nominated by direct vote, unless the county controlling committee shall direct that candidates for such offices shall be nominated by delegate convention.

Candidates for congress, where a single county or part of a county composes the congressional district, shall be nominated by direct vote.

At all such elections polls shall be open from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Election boards shall, with respect to primary elections, have all the powers granted and perform all the duties imposed by the laws governing general elections, including furnishing materials and supplies, printing and distributing ballots, providing voting places, protecting electors, guarding the secrecy of the ballot, and making rules and regulations not inconsistent with law, for the guidance of election officers; and all statutory provisions relating to general elections, including the requirement that part of such election day shall be a legal holiday, shall, so far as applicable, apply to and govern primary elections.

At primary elections, where candidates may be chosen to a general assembly which shall elect a United States senator, the names of candidates for such office may be placed upon the official ballots, through petitions signed by one-half of 1 per cent of the electors in the state of the party of which said candidate for senator is a member, as shown by the last general election. Such petition shall be filed at least 40 days before such primary with the secretary of state, who shall thereupon certify such names to the board of elections of the several counties. Such board of election shall canvass the votes and certify the result to the secretary of state, who shall certify said result to the general assembly.

Nominations for places on the primary ballot shall be by nomination papers filed with the board of elections 20 days before the primary election. Such nomination papers shall be signed by 2 per cent of the party voters in the county, municipality, precinct, ward, or other political subdivision for which such nomination is made. The basis of percentage in each case shall be the vote of the party for the head of the ticket at the last preceding November election in such territory.

All nomination papers shall have substantially the prescribed form written or printed at the top thereof. No signature shall be counted unless it be upon sheets having such forms. The names shall be signed in ink, each signer for himself.

Each signer of a nomination paper may sign as many such papers as there are candidates for the office, but no more, and shall declare that he intends to support the candidate named therein; he shall add his residence, street and number, if any, and the date of signing, and if in cities his ward and precinct. The names of signers of nomination papers who have signed more papers than authorized shall be counted by the board of elections only upon the paper or papers first signed. Signers of nomination papers shall be bona fide residents of the territory within which the person desires to become a candidate.

The affidavit of qualified elector shall be appended to each such nomination paper, stating that he believes the persons who have signed the same to be electors of the political subdivision described in such nomination papers. Each candidate shall file with his nomination papers a declaration that he will qualify as such officer if nominated and elected.

Nomination papers when filed, shall be preserved and be open under regulations to public inspection; such paper, if in apparent conformity with the provisions of this act, shall be deemed to be valid, unless objection thereto is duly made in writing not less than 15 days before the day for holding the primary election. A recognized member of a political party, or the controlling committee of a political party may file with the board of elections a protest in writing against the candidacy of any person who has filed nomination papers therewith seeking to become a candidate of the party represented by such person or committee; and if the board of elections finds that such candidate is not an elector of the district in which he seeks to become a candidate, or that his nomination papers do not contain the requisite number of names signed by electors of such party, the board shall withdraw his name and it shall not be printed upon the ballot.

The board of elections in cities having registration of electors, shall prior to any primary election, make provision for transfer on the registration books and the registrations of all persons, not previously registered, who may qualify to vote at the ensuing November election, but no person shall be admitted to vote at any primary election, in such municipalities, unless registered as an elector therein.

Separate tickets shall be provided for each political party entitled to participate in such primary; such tickets shall contain the names of all persons whose names have been duly presented and not withdrawn, arranged under the designation of the office in alphabetical order according to the surnames, and bear the official signatures of the members of the board of elections; no device or circle shall be used at the head of said tickets.

Each day designated for holding primary elections, a full board of election officers shall be assigned to duty at each polling place, and such election officers shall jointly conduct the election as to all parties. The regular judges and clerks of election shall be the judges and clerks of primary elections, charged with the same powers and duties, and subject to the same penalties as provided by law for the conduct of general elections. There shall be separate poll books, tally sheets and ballot boxes at each voting place provided for each party participating in the election and the ballot of each voter shall be placed in the ballot box of the party with which he affiliates. Each ballot box shall be plainly marked with the name of the political party whose ballots are to be placed therein.

The judge of election shall, upon application in writing of the respective controlling committees, admit to the polling room one challenger and one witness for each candidate whose name appears on the ballot for the office at the head of the ticket, said challenger and witness shall be appointed in writing by the candidate in whose behalf he serves.

Such challengers and witnesses shall have the same privileges and be subject to the same regulations as are prescribed by law for the challengers and witnesses at general elections.

At such election only legally qualified electors shall be legally qualified electors at the next ensuing general election may vote in the election precinct where they reside. It shall be the duty of challengers and judges, and the right of any elector whenever there is reason to doubt the validity of any vote offered, to challenge. The cause of a challenge shall be that the person challenged has been or been promised some valuable reward or consideration for his vote, or that he has not previously affiliated with the party whose ticket he now desires to vote, and affiliation shall be determined by the vote of the elector at the last general election held in even numbered years.

Before any challenged person shall be allowed to vote, he shall make and subscribe an affidavit duly sworn to, before one of the judges. If a person challenged refuses to be sworn, or being sworn, refuses to answer any questions, or if his answers show that he lacks any of the qualifications required to make him a legal voter at such primary election, his vote shall be rejected.

At the close of the polls the judges and clerks shall proceed without delay to canvass the vote, sign and seal the same, and make return forthwith thereof to the board of elections. If there are any tickets cast and counted or left uncounted of concerning the legality of which there is any doubt or difference of opinion in the minds of the judges of elections, they shall be sealed up and marked "disputed ballots," and returned to the board of elections, with the statement as to whether they have or have not been counted, and if counted what part and for whom; such ballots shall be preserved by the board for such judicial or other investigation as may be ordered by the controlling committee of the party for whom they were voted.

The Thursday after the primary, the board of elections shall canvass the vote and declare the result. The proper controlling committee of any party participating in the primary may have at least one representative present during the canvass of the vote.

When the primary nominates candidates to be voted for at the ensuing November election, the board of election shall place the names of persons nominated, upon the official ballot as candidates of the respective political parties nominating them.

If the primary was held to choose delegates to a convention, the board of elections shall declare the result, and without fee, deliver to the persons chosen certificates of election; and no other delegates shall be entitled to sit, or participate, in said convention. A list of the chosen delegates of each party shall be kept in the office of the board of elections one year.

In like manner, if members of a controlling committee have been chosen, the board of elections shall declare the result and deliver certificates of election. A list of committee men of each party shall be kept in the office of the board of elections two years.

In case of a tie vote the candidates having the highest and equal votes shall, in the presence of the board of elections, determine the result by lot. If they fail to do so the board shall decide the matter in the same manner.

In case of a vacancy in the list of nominations such vacancy shall be filled by the proper controlling committee of the party.

For their services in conducting primary elections, members of boards of elections shall each receive $2 for each election precinct in his respective county, and judges and clerks of election shall receive the same compensation as is provided by law for such officers at general elections. All expenses of primary elections shall be paid in the manner now provided for payment of expenses for general elections.

Whoever votes or attempts to vote, or tenders a ticket at any primary election knowing he is not a qualified elector, or votes under an assumed or false name, shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one year nor more than three years.

Whoever personates another for the purpose of voting or attempts to vote by claiming or assuming the name or place of any elector shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one year nor more than five years.

Whoever votes or attempts to vote at the primary election of any other than the political party with which he has affiliated shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $100, or be imprisoned in the county jail not less than three months nor more than six months, or both.

Whoever votes more than once at the same primary election, shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one year nor more than five years.

Any person wilfully refusing or neglecting to perform any of the duties prescribed in this act shall be fined not less than $5 nor more than $50, or imprisoned in the county jail not less than five days nor more than thirty days, or both.

It shall be unlawful for any delegate or committeeman to give or issue a proxy to another person to act or vote in his stead. It shall be unlawful for any person to act or vote in place of any delegate or committeeman chosen as herein directed. Any person so offending may be fined not less than $20 nor more than $100, and be imprisoned not less than five nor more than thirty days.

It shall be unlawful while the polls are open for any person within 100 feet of the polling place to give, tender or exhibit any ballot or ticket to any person other than to a judge of the election, or to exhibit any ticket which he intends to cast, or within such distance solicit or in any way attempt to influence any elector in casting his vote.

Any person who shall solicit, request, demand or receive, directly or indirectly, any money, intoxicating liquors, reward or other thing of value or the promise thereof, either to influence his vote, or to be used, or under pretense of being used to procure the vote of any other person or persons or to be used at any poll or other place prior to or on the day of a primary election for or against any candidate, shall, upon conviction, pay a fine not less than $100 nor more than $500, or be imprisoned in the penitentiary one year, or both.

All provisions of law to preserve and protect the purity of elections, and all the penalties for violation of such laws shall apply and shall be enforced as to all primary elections held under this act.

LOCATION MAKES VALUE

The most important item in the construction or purchase of your home is its location. It costs no more to build on one lot than on another, and thoughtful observation will convince you that the dearest thing you can buy is a cheap lot.

Real values are found in property like my addition at the corner of Church and Eighth streets. Central and in good residence district. We are now ready to sell lots with or without houses. Lot prices range from $500 up to $2,300. This includes cement walks, gas and water to property lines, lots graded, Mound street and Mound Court will be paved.

A few reasons why you should get a lot or house and lot in this addition:

1. Convenience of location.
2. Proximity to public square and factories.
3. Street car service.
4. Close to church and school.
5. Good neighborhood.
6. Real value is gilt edge.
7. Will grow more valuable every year.
8. Paved streets.
9. Good modern houses.
10. There is no place in Newark where you can get as much for your money.

ART OF PIPE SMOKING.

How It May Be Made a Source of Great Pleasure.

As important as the condition of the tobacco smoked is the state of the pipe itself. A straight pipe, with a wide bore to the stem, is the best, says the London Globe, because it is easy to clean with a few twists of a feather. No doubt feathers are the finest pipe cleaners.

Next, no doubt, to a good seasoned tobacco the great secret of enjoyable pipe smoking is to have a battery of pipes, so that a frequent change is possible. The ideal plan is never to smoke a particular pipe more than once a day. When done with it should be cleaned and stood in the rack, bowl downward, and all pipes should be used in rotation.

There is a great art, too, in filling a pipe. If the tobacco is crammed in haphazard it will not burn evenly, and a tightly packed pipe is the cause of more tongue blisters than even an ill conditioned, half-drowned tobacco pipe filling is perhaps the most difficult thing a smoker has to deal with. Old hands cannot be sure of always exactly hitting the right degree of even density throughout the bowl, and beginners invariably make a botch of it.

Some people will never master the thing in a lifetime, try as they may, and they are perforce limited to the minor delights of cigar and cigarette smoking or at least have to put up with mixtures which by reason of their short, clumpy nature are fairly fool proof from this point of view.

A perfectly filled pipe should light at once in an evenly glowing disk and should burn through almost to the bottom uninterrupted, preserving a slightly coned shape the whole time. A curious, not to say unaccountable, thing about pipe smoking is the way in which the formation of the cake—the hard black substance which collects on the inside of the bowl—varies with different smokers.

It does not appear to depend on the nature of the tobacco used, but almost entirely on some mysterious attribute of the user. With some smokers this cake grows rapidly and must be constantly pared away, while with others its collection is just as slow. In either case the interior of the bowl must be kept as smooth as possible by frequent scrapings. This insures the rim fire necessary for the cone shaped burning. A rough bowl means center fire and waste of tobacco.

To many people the first smoke from a new pipe is always a terror, but the breaking in of a new brier should never be attempted by smoking in the ordinary way. It must be done by some sort of bellows arrangement. A bicycle pump is not a bad thing. The pipe should first be packed hard with the strongest and juiciest tobacco obtainable. It is then lighted and drawn

IF IT FITS YOU WEAR THIS CAP

(By Herbert Kaufman.)

Advertising isn't a crucible with which lazy, bigoted and incapable merchants can turn incompetency into success—but one into which brains and tenacity and courage CAN be poured and changed into dollars. It is only a short cut across the fields—NOT a moving platform. You can't "get there" without "going some."

It's a game in which the WORKER—not the SHIRKER—gets rich. By its measurement every man stands for what he IS and for what he DOES, NOT for what he WAS and what he DID.

Every day in the advertising world is ANOTHER day and has to be taken care of with the same energy as its YESTERDAY.

The quitter CANT SURVIVE where the PLUGGER has the ghost of a chance.

Advertising doesn't take the place of business talent or business management. It simply tells what the business IS and HOW it is managed. The snob whose father CREATED and who is content to live on what was HANDED to him can't stand up again at the man who knows he MUST BUILD FOR HIMSELF.

What makes YOU think that YOU are entitled to prosper as well as a competitor who WORKS TWICE AS HARD for his prosperity?

Why should as many people come to YOUR store as patronize a shop that makes an endeavor to GET their trade and shows them that it is WORTH WHILE to come to its doors?

Why should a newspaper send as many customers to YOU in HALF the time it took to fill an establishment which advertised TWICE as long and PAID TWICE AS MUCH for its publicity?

This is the day when the BEST man wins—after he PROVES that he IS the best man—when the BEST store wins, when it has shown that it IS the best store—when the best GOODS win, after they've been DEMONSTRATED TO BE the best goods.

If you want the PLUM you can't get it by lying under the TREE with your mouth open waiting for it to drop—too many other men are willing to climb out on the limb and risk their necks in their eagerness to get it away from you.

It is a MAN'S game—this advertising—just hanging on and tugging and straining all the time to GET and KEEP ahead. It is the finite expression of the law of competition which sits in blind-folded justice over the markets of the world.

up to a glow with the mouth. A few puffs will suffice for this, when it is laid on the table and blown at steadily until the charge is all consumed. A pipe treated in this way is ready at once to go in the rack and take its turn with the rest.

How to Clean a Pen.

A raw potato makes the best sort of pen cleaner, though one that must be changed every little while for obvious reasons. In some mysterious way it cleans the most scratchy, soiled pen and makes it as near like new as the wearing down of the nib allows—far more than one would dream possible.

How to Keep Cake Fresh.

Cut a slice of new bread about an inch thick and place in the tin with the cake. This will help to keep the cake fresh for some time. The bread must be renewed when stale. An apple placed in the cake tin will answer the same purpose as the bread and should also be renewed from time to time.

The city council of Camden, N. J., set on foot about a year ago one of the most thorough investigations that has yet been made by an American city in regard to the establishment of a municipal electric light plant. The committee in charge secured reports and figures from all over the country and after a thorough study of the case recommended that a new contract be entered into with the local lighting company. This has now been done in spite of the fact that at an election held over a year ago the voters authorized the council to establish a municipal plant.

ASQUITH'S PREDICTION.

Striking One Made by England's New Premier That Has Come True.

Herbert Henry Asquith, who succeeded the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman as prime minister of England, has been in turn a member of parliament, a privy counselor, secretary of the state home department, ecclesiastical commissioner, chancellor of the exchequer and, lastly, premier. He is one of the most cultured men in the cabinet, for from his earliest days he has been an enthusiastic student. In his school days his one dream was to rise to political power. He cared for no sport. His chief recreation was reading verbatim parliamentary reports in the newspapers. Apropos of this it is told how he used to borrow a copy of the London Times every morning from a friendly news agent and go out and read it, sitting under the hedge of the cricket field, while his schoolfellows were enjoying games. As a barrister he has won success which attends only a very small proportion of those who go in for the law, but it has been the outcome of much striving, for at first he met with reverses on every hand. He has said that it was the greatest day of his life when he got into parliament. His enthusiasm on that occasion was so marked that when parliament opened he told a fellow member that one day he would be prime minister and was laughed at for his pains.

As a strong man Mr. Asquith is in a class by himself. He combines with the fearlessness and pugnacity of Roosevelt the tactfulness and cynicism of Choate, the wide intellectuality of the late John Hay and the debating ability of Bryan. No man in British public life can stand against him in a forensic battle. He is a lawyer by training, the greatest lawyer in England, and he is as merciless in the house of commons as if he were conducting a cross examination.

Wakefield, Mass., Wakes Up.

The question of abandoning the municipal lighting plant and purchasing electricity and gas for the town from some private corporation or the expenditure of $72,000 to put the plant in first class condition is being seriously considered by the town. It is claimed that the plant has been run at a loss for the last few years. A committee of nine has been appointed to investigate the matter and was also authorized to secure the services of an expert at a cost not to exceed $800 and to report not later than the November town meeting. The estimated cost of putting the electrical branch of the plant in up to date condition is $52,000, and an expenditure of $20,000 will be required for the gas plant.—Electrical World.

HELPING THINGS OUT.

they finally had it analyzed. "Did, eh?" "Yes, and they found sorghum in it." "Do tell!" "And Now Orleans molasses." "Upon my word!" "And molasses brown sugar." "Did I ever?" "And you want to understand that no such game can be played on us again. If it is attempted you will lose our custom." "Game? Game? Why, I don't understand. I'll call Bill and ask him to explain." His son Bill was working about a hundred feet away, and he called him up and told him what the agent had said, and then added: "Bill, you made most of the syrup. Did you put any sorghum in it?" "No, pop." "Any common 'lasses or brown sugar?" "Not a speck." "But this man says sorghum ailed it. What d'ye think it could be?" "Well, I don't know of but one thing. Last year was a bad year for sugar-making, and when I saw that we was going to run short I tapped a few beech, elm and ash trees to help out the maples. Maybe it wasn't a success." JOE KERR.

ALL MADE UP.

Natica (casting eye)—Now, when girls fish for a husband they never use artificial bait. Gladys—Oh, yes they do. Natica—When? Gladys—Why, when some of them try to attract the unwary men by their looks.

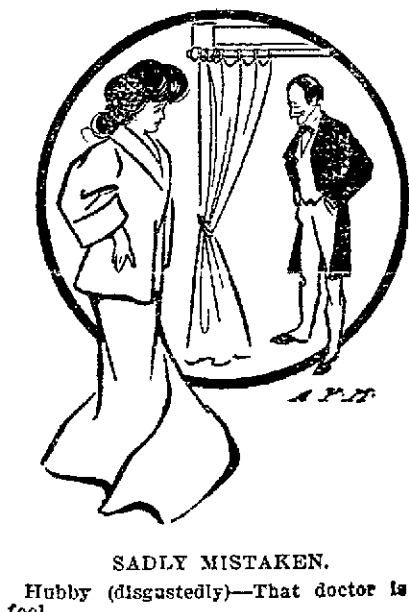

HER PENANCE.

Lorraine—I hate the very sight of Clarence Weakling, and yet I must allow him to call on me until Lent is over. Virginia—But why, dear? Lorraine—Well, you see, it would be a pleasure to give him up and I have promised to deny myself all pleasures during Lent.

RUBBING IT IN.

Bronson—Easy seems rather vexed because Mrs. Easy bought a spring bonnet. That isn't a pretty way for a bridegroom of a few months to act. Woodson—Yes. But she insisted on having the hat trimmed with mistletoe. Bronson—What about that? Woodson—Nothing; only Easy says if he hadn't kissed her under the mistletoe last December he wouldn't be paying for that hat now.

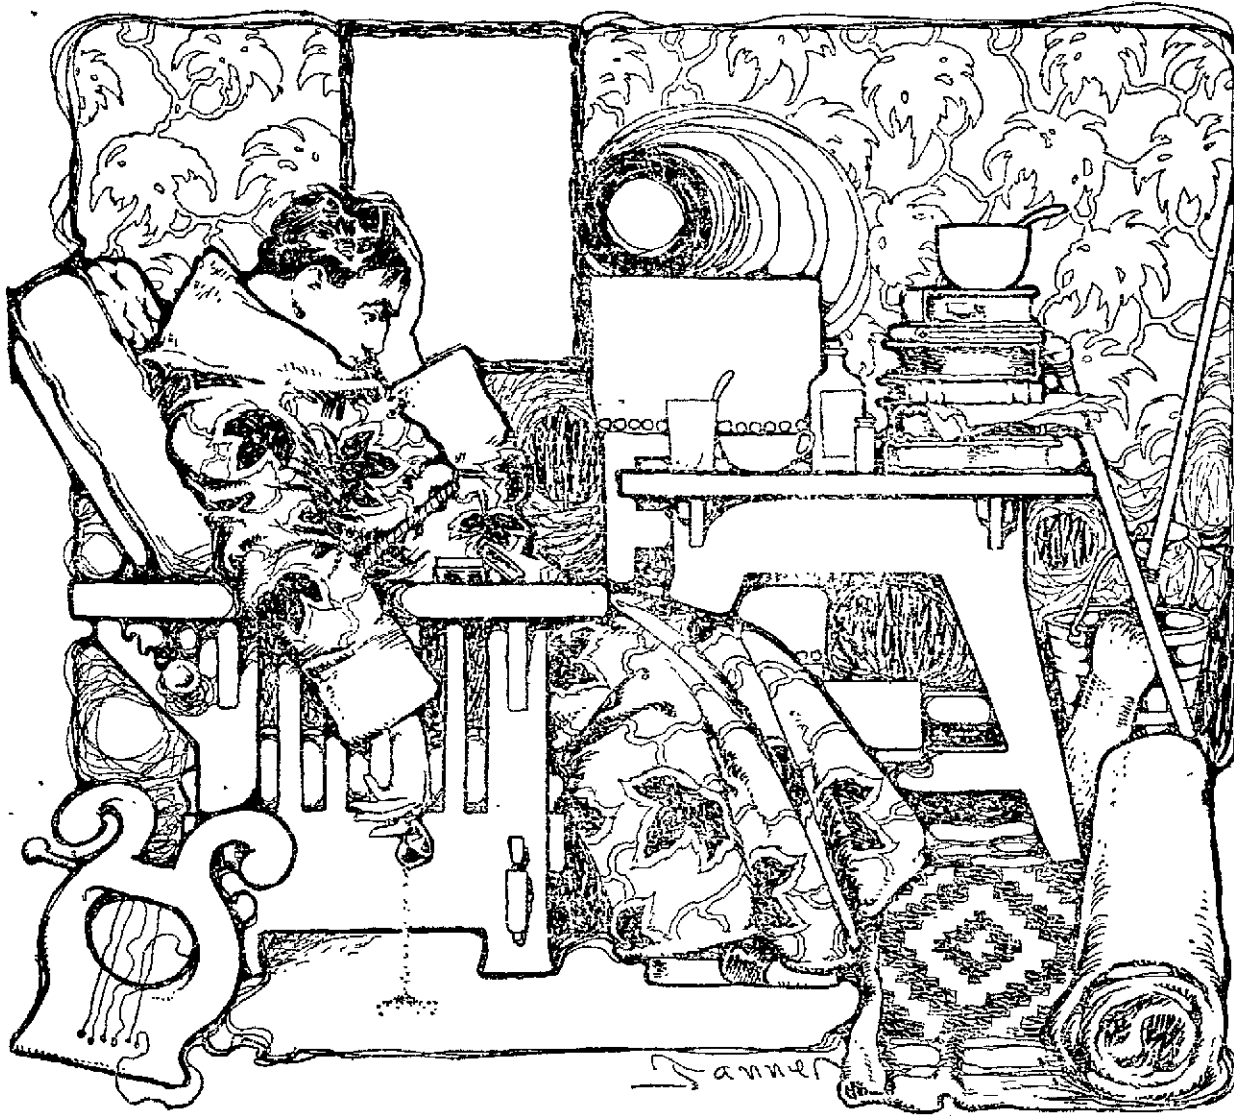

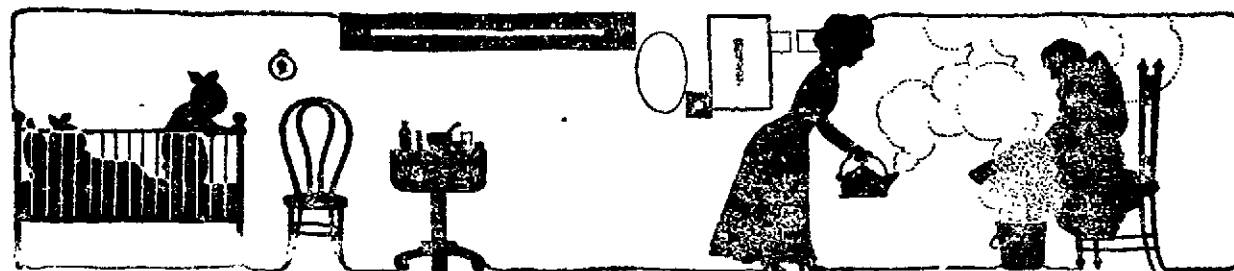

SADLY MISTAKEN.

Hubby (disgustedly)—That doctor is a fool. Wifey—What's the matter, dear? Hubby—He said I need exercise. Think of it! Exercise! Exercise for a man who has looked after his own furnace all winter and is now contemplating the opening of the lawn mower season!

SUBSTITUTES.

Lest pretty and I should clash, For me my friends repent. My books, umbrella and my cash, I find, are keeping Lent.

TOO MUCH TO EXPECT.

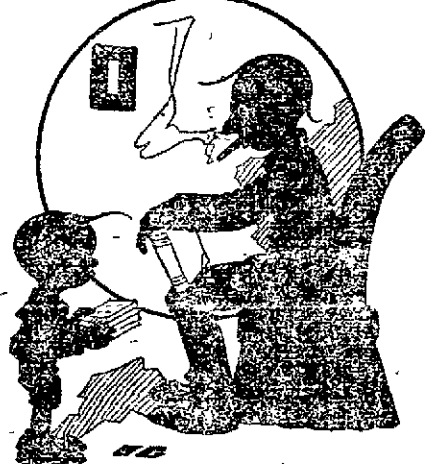

How can I warble in measures light hearted; How can I chant of spring's opening buds. When the carpets are up and the cook has departed, And all things are steeped in the odor of mud?

How can I slug of the freshening breezes? Or prattle of green on the hedge rose's clumps. When the air is pervaded with coughs and with sneezes, And two of the children are down with the mumps?

How can I joy in the beauty that's vernal? How can I dream of green meadows outspread? When I've got to go round with this wretched, infernal, Extremely, blankly cold in my head?

Going to Apologize.

I wanted some information regarding a certain man in a Long Island village, and on my way down by train I fell in with a man that I thought might post me and questioned him. "Skinner? Skinner?" he replied. "I believe there is a Skinner there, but I'm not certain. I'm going to Bayport, too, and I'll help you make inquiries." "I rather took it that you lived there." "Oh, no. Never saw the town in my life. I'm going there today to see Deacon Haskins and do the square thing." "Did you and the Deacon have a falling out?" I asked. "Yes, something of one. I met him in

TOO OFTEN FITS.

"Pa, why do they call this a strawberry shortcake?" "Because it is short of strawberries, I reckon."

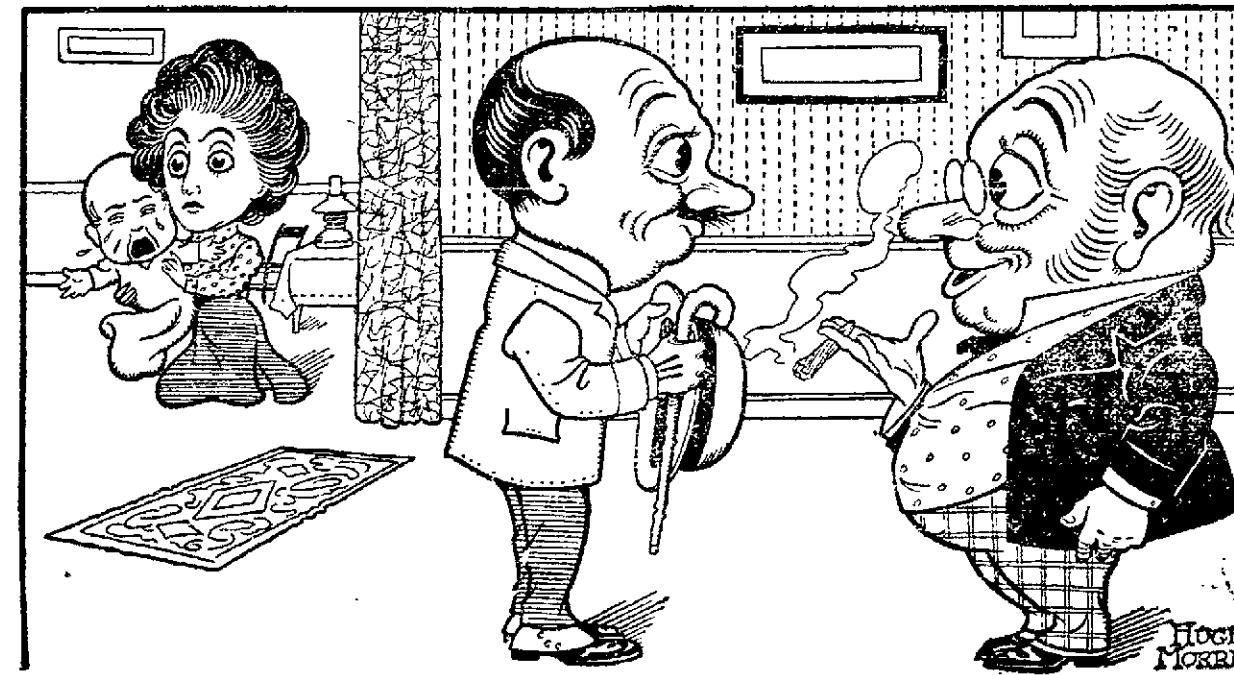

Taking No Chances.

At the village postoffice I met a young farmer about 23 years old and had a few words with him about the weather and spring wheat, and we left in company and walked along the highway for half a mile. I wanted to know how the presidential candidates stood in the country, and so I asked who he favored. "Nobody," was his reply. "You must have read more or less concerning the three or four of them?" "Yes." "Then what do you think of Taft?" "Dunno." "Of Bryan?" "Dunno." "Of Hughes?" "Dunno."

Walked along the highway for half a mile.

"Dunno." "Of Foraker?" "Dunno." "Dunno." was the same monotonous reply. "But can't you say whether you believe one of the four to be honest and upright and the man for the place?" "No—can't say." For the next 20 rods we walked along in silence. Then we came to a road where he had to turn off, and he looked at me and said: "Stranger, I don't want you to think I'm a blushing fool, because I know I ain't." "No?" "It's just because I'm courting a widder woman who has one of the best farms in this county. She's what they call a strong-minded woman. She hasn't made up her mind yet which is the best man, and so I haint, and I haint going to take no chances by coming out and shooting off my bazoo. I want that widder and I want that farm, even if nobody is elected president for the next 10 years." JOE KERR.

CAME NATURAL.

Visitor—What's the matter with the baby? Grandpop—Crying because it was born in March. Visitor—What's that got to do with it? Grandpop—You have heard of being as mad as a March hare.

COME GENTLE SPRING.

Oh, it's coming, merry spring, And the robins on the wing. And the snow is getting slushy under foot; And the lambskins soon will frisk, In a playful way and brisk, And the hog he will begin to grunt and root.

Getting slushy under foot.

Oh, the frog who's been a chump, He will soon be on the jump. And the dandelion will show its yellow head; And the crocus he will croak, And will call it all a joke. And the blizzards of Dakota will be dead. And the man that sells us coal Soon will find himself asked, As again the house fly cometh softly near; And the 'skeeter soon will buzz, And his victims they will sneeze. And the crow be loudly cawing he is here. Oh, the milk will freeze no more, And the days of frost are over. And the overcoat may go to "Uncle's" shop.

And that battered winter hat Will soon be on the mat. And the hunching of our undershirts will stop. Oh, the spring will all revive, As the bee doth in its hive. And the panic it will linger here no more. There'll be money by the ton For every father's son. And we'll be playing of the races as of yore. JOE KERR.

The Only One.

Mr. Blank had advertised for a chauffeur, and he passed over a dozen applicants until he came to one whose general appearance seemed to fill the bill, and then said to him: "Sir, I want a man different from the ordinary chauffeur." "Yes, sir, I thought from the reading of the advertisement that you did. I am different." "In what respects?" "If you have a wife, I shall not stir with her." "If you have a daughter, I shall not cajole her into eloping with me." "If your wife tries to find out through me where you go certain nights I shall be mum." "If any duces ask me how much money you are going to give your daughter when she marries I shall tell him to go to." "I shall not come to your house to court the pector mnd." "Should I be out in the auto alone, and a son of a gun should want to race me, I shall decline." "I am a first-class liar regarding speed when arrested by the police." "I never give things away to the newspapers." "If divorce proceedings are instituted I go on the stand for you." "He was told to remove his coat and vest and undergo inspection, and when it was found that his angel wings were fully developed he was hired on the spot for $100 per month." JOE KERR.

THE COQUETTISH HABIT.

Mr. Acker—I don't like your new spring hat, my dear. Mrs. Acker—I'm not surprised. Madam De Swell said it was the sort of hat that husbands wouldn't like.

VERNAL PROGRESS.

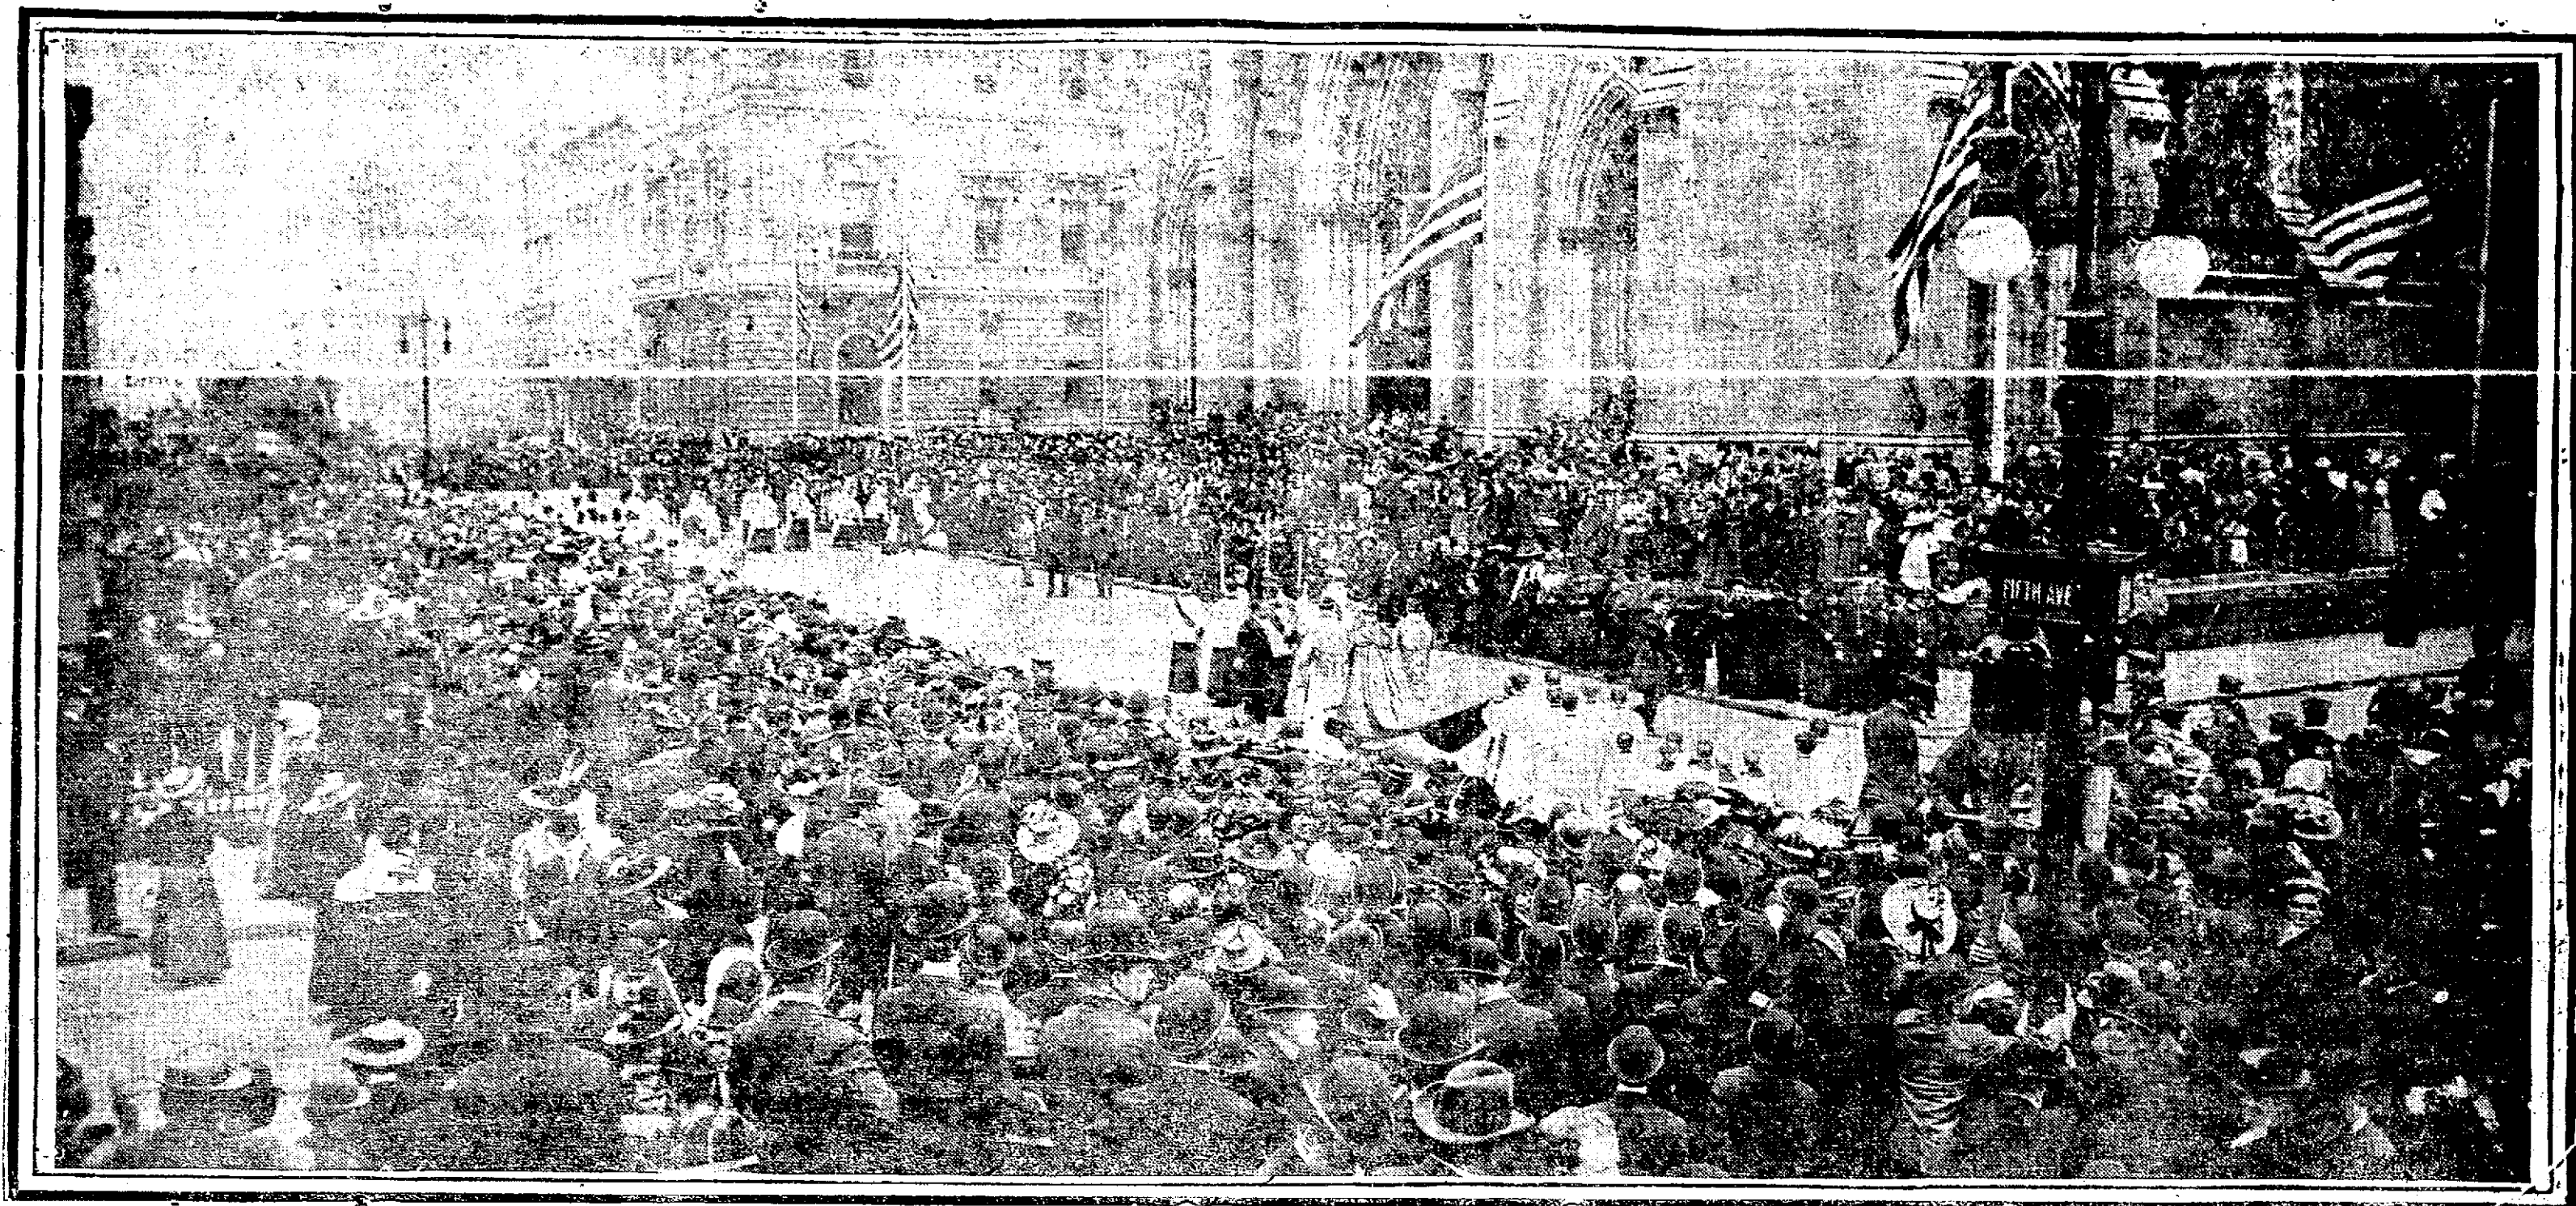

Any signs of spring out you want? Yes, we've all got over the winter and have nothing new but neuralgia.

CHURCH DIGNITARIES ASSISTING IN CENTENARY CELEBRATION.

Snapshot of church dignitaries in solemn procession about to enter St. Patrick's to celebrate pontifical high mass as the chief event of the centenary week. The central group shows the Primate of Ireland in full canonicals, a $6,000 set of vestments, ordered two years ago by Archbishop Farley in Rome and made by the White Sisters of St. Francis. The train is fully 20 feet long, and was borne by acolytes in white surplices. It is estimated that 6000 persons were admitted into the cathedral, while an equal number were unable to obtain entrance.

DRUNKENNESS A CURABLE DISEASE

Eminent Physicians and Scientific Men Agree That it Should be Treated as Such.

Drunkenness is a progressive disease; the moderate drinker is not satisfied with two or three drinks a day, the craving for more and more becomes irresistible as the disease advances; the result is Chronic Alcoholism.

The treatment used successfully by thousands right in their own homes is Orrine. It is a scientific cure for Drunkenness and has given such universal satisfaction that it is sold under a positive guarantee to effect a cure or your money will be refunded. This guarantee is given in good faith and is carried out to the letter. Orrine is not a new remedy; it has been sold by the leading druggists in every city for years. It has lifted tens of thousands from the depths to worthy manhood and has the hearty endorsement of grateful men and women in every state in the Union.

Orrine No. 1 is the secret remedy; Orrine No. 2, is for those willing to take the treatment. Either form costs $1.00. The guarantee is the same in either case. Write to The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C., for free treatise on Drunkenness, mailed in plain sealed envelope. Orrine will be mailed sealed on receipt of price. Sold by the leading druggists in every town and city, and in this city by Frank D. Hall.

Not Sauce For the Gander.

The water department of Salt Lake City, Utah, has been running behind for some time. As a result the rates have been raised from 25 to nearly 200 per cent for various classes of consumers. Of course it's good business, but if a corporation did anything like that the yellow press would have a spasm and invent several new epithets to apply to it.

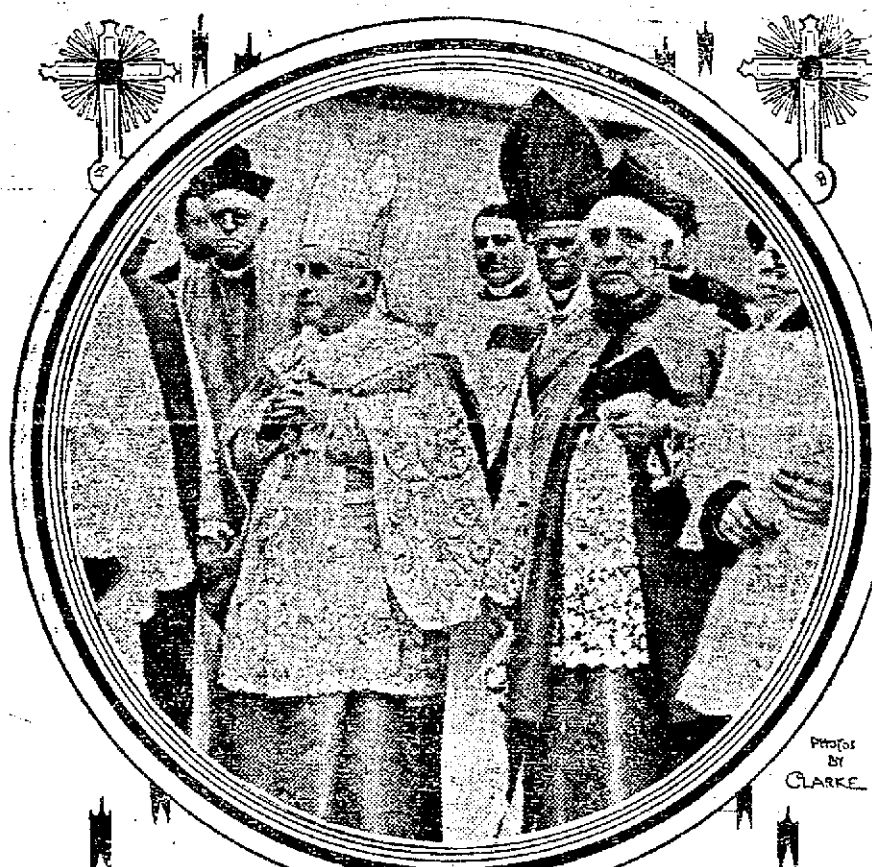

Costly Economy.

Linnes, Mo., has had a little experience with false economy. When the municipal lighting plant burned down, recently it was found that the insurance covered only about 50 per cent of the loss. Bonds will have to be issued to rebuild.

CELEBRATION OF CENTENARY OF THE GREAT DIOCESE OF NEW YORK

ARCHBISHOP FARLEY ARCHBISHOP FALCONIO FATHER JAVELLE CARDINAL LOGUE LEAVING THE PALACE.

CARDINAL LOGUE LEAVING THE PALACE.

New York, May 2.—Pope and President joined in messages of congratulation to the Roman Catholics who, in the most splendid ecclesiastical spectacle ever seen in this city, reached the climax of their celebration of the centenary of the great diocese of New York.

Two princes of the church, two archbishops, forty bishops, hundreds of priests, in fact nearly the entire American hierarchy, took part in the high pontifical mass at St. Patrick's cathedral in the presence of 10,000 spectators.

Although it was entirely a church celebration the occasion was enlivened throughout with a national spirit which found its expression in the presence of Cardinal Gibbons, and was later manifested in a glowing eulogy of President Roosevelt.

It was international, too, for the celebrant was the Primate of all Ireland, and within the chancel were dignitaries from Canada, the Southern republics and from the islands of the sea.

Ideal weather prevailed throughout the day, as if nature smiled upon the festivities, although at dawn there was a cloud of dark clouds. The approach to the cathedral was unimpeded by the o'clock, and the afternoon, even at that early hour, was obliged to form lines.

On the pavements men and women waited for the opening of the great doors of the lately cathedral, and when the voices announced that all was ready the pews were rapidly filled.

Five thousand tickets had been issued and it seemed as if all these were present at once, for the masses had never then they could not be seated in the larger church and were forced to sit on the floor.

Every part of available space was occupied, and the floor was filled with benches and chairs and platforms.

And after the procession had passed into the edifice and those without tickets were permitted to enter there was no place not absolutely needed for passageways which was not occupied.

Ten thousand persons were in the streets, on the chance that they might be permitted to enter, and most of these got no nearer than the outer steps. They contented themselves with glimpses of the pageant, and thousands were waiting outside for the recessional.

Here and there in the great congregation could be seen prominent Protestant clergymen, who, although not officially invited, had received cards of admission either from Catholic laymen or from Catholic priests, for this was an occasion which, more than any other of its kind, has emphasized the breaking down of the barriers of religious prejudice.

An Indestructible Mouse.

It was a very indignant woman who sent for a gas inspector and informed him that she had solved the mystery of her big gas bills. Triumphant she conducted the inspector to the basement and instructed him to follow her example as she placed one ear close to the meter. It squeaked. "There," she remarked. "Do you hear that? Well, I've wondered and wondered what made my last gas bill so high, and then I decided to investigate for myself. There's a mouse inside that meter. He can't get out, and he just runs and runs and spins that contraption round and round, and I have to pay for it. Listen! Hear him squeak!" In vain did the poor gas meter man try to explain. She postulated the idea of a mouse not being able to live in a gas meter. Hadn't she tried to kill mice off, and didn't she know that they had cats beaten to a standstill for vitality? She got a new gas meter, paid the same bills, but was satisfied and told all her neighbors how she made the gas company come to time.—Progressive Age.

POPE EXTENDED BLESSING.

MRS. RENAUD LAGE

Philadelphia, May 2.—Miss Mercedes Mayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Randolph Mayer, of No. 3223 Chestnut street, was married to Mr. Renaud Lage, son of a wealthy Brazilian ship builder in the cathedral.

The ceremony was performed by Mr. Turner, Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia. The Pope extended his blessing upon the marriage.

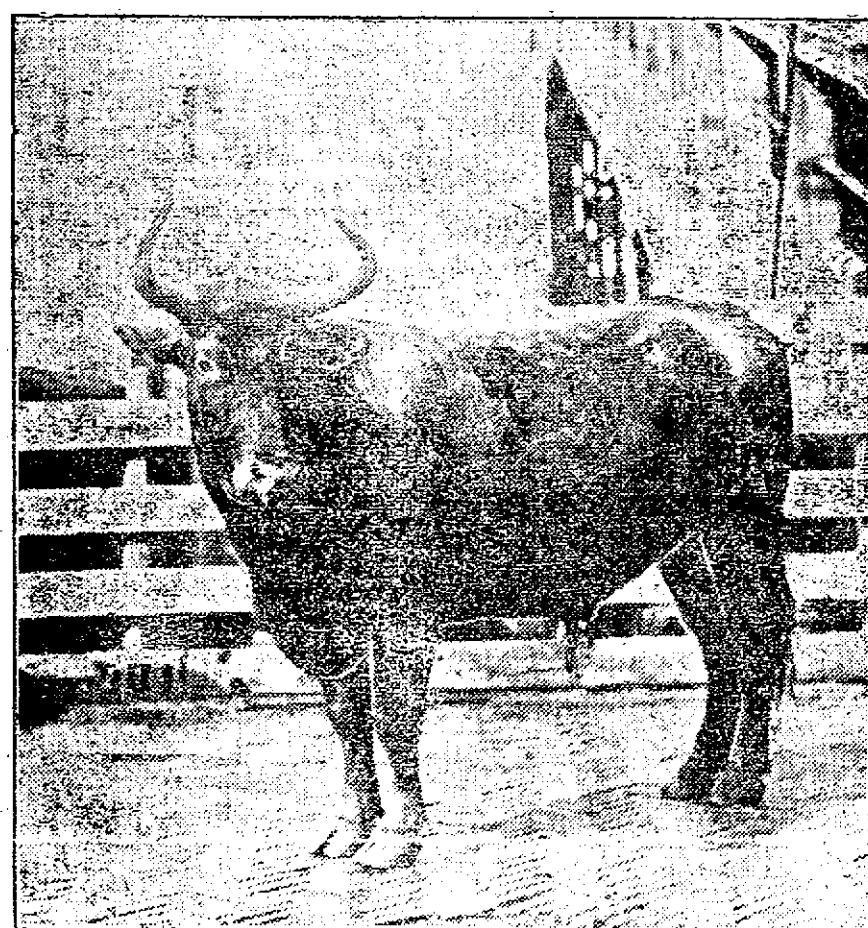

The bride's presents represented a large fortune. From the bridegroom's father she received a $50,000 pearl necklace, and from her grandmother a check for $100,000. Probably the gifts represent a quarter of a million dollars.

The cathedral was beautifully decorated with Easter flowers, the long aisle of the nave was lined on each side with palms and banks of lilies and azaleas seven feet high.

The bride was married in the wedding gown of her grandmother, a beautiful white satin, trimmed with old point lace. She carried white orchids. She had no bridesmaids.

A STEER THAT DOES THE WORK OF SIX MEN.

Visitors to the stockards of South St. Paul are told that this is the most intelligent steer which has ever been shipped from the west. He arrived in a shipment from Montana, and was at once taken in hand and educated to assist in the killing of beef stock. It is a remarkable fact that in one week he succeeded in making good and thoroughly adapted himself to the work of walking down the main row of cattle pens, rounding up about a hundred head of stock, and leading them along a defile which leads to the place in the beer-house where they are slaughtered. As soon as the steer, familiarly known as "Billy," arrives there, he makes his escape through a sliding door, which is opened for the purpose. "Billy" works without assistance from morning till night. As soon as he has secured one small herd he marches off in search of another, responding to the call of his name like a trained sheep dog. Through his assistance over a thousand head of stock are killed daily. His value to the packing house is equal to half a dozen men and he requires no foreman to look after him.

MISS LOUISE ORMSEY OF NEW YORK WILL APPEAR ON THE PROGRAM.

Afternoon and Evening Programs of High Excellence—Attendance Should be Large.

Prof. Walter W. Flora, director of Newark's May Festival of May 6 (next Wednesday) no. only has ability as a director but has had splendid results as a teacher of voice.

Mr. Flora feels that there is a work to be done in Newark in his line and declares that greater interest is now being taken in good music here than ever before. He asks that those who are interested help to arouse further interest in music and a large attendance at the festival this year will go a long way toward the desired end.

In regard to the afternoon program the society wishes to say it will be possibly the best miscellaneous program given this year. The famous sextet from Lucia, which was sung this week at the Auditorium in the home talent opera will be sung as a closing number in the afternoon. Parties taking place in the evening are the Misses Place, Henthorne, Beckman, Messrs. Wm. Reynolds, W. W. Flora, B. B. Hoover and E. H. Reynolds. Stop in and get a program at the City

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

No other medicine for Women's ills in the world has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

No other medicine has such a record of success for women's diseases, or such hosts of grateful friends as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for feminine ills, inflammation, ulceration, and consequent Spinal Weakness.

It has relieved more cases of Backache and Local Weakness than any other one remedy. It dissolves and expels tumors in an early stage of development.

Irregularities and periodic pains, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility, quickly yield to it; also deranged organs, causing pain, dragging sensations and backache. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the female system.

It removes that wearing feeling, extreme lassitude, "don't care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, dizziness, faintness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy or the "blues." These are indications of Feminine disorders, which this medicine overcomes as well as slight derangement of the Kidneys of either sex.

Women who are sick and want to get well should resolve to accept any substitute for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MRS. MARY EDDY WRITES ON WAR

Mrs. Mary Eddy, author of "The Current of Life," has written a new book, "The Current of Life," which is now being published by the same publisher.

For many years I have played a part in the life of the world, and I have seen many things which have not been seen by many other people.

My life has been a long and interesting one, and I have seen many things which have not been seen by many other people. I have seen the world from a different point of view, and I have seen the world from a different point of view.

LAND SEEKERS EXCURSION TO NEW MEX. MAY 5

Large numbers of Central Ohio people are becoming interested in the agricultural possibilities of the great Southwest, and a number of them are planning to visit New Mexico, where they have purchased large tracts of land which are yielding good returns.

In many instances people are given gorgeous descriptions of Southern and Western lands by irresponsible agents who, by all sorts of means, unload worthless property upon investors, but I ask nobody to buy "land in the West" I ask those who have a little money to invest to get on the train with my party on Tuesday, May 5, and go to Las Vegas, N. M., and look at a splendid realty proposition.

The land is highly productive, the country is rapidly filling up with Eastern people, town lot sites are soaring in value and farm property is showing rapid gains.

The railway facilities are good. We go to Chicago and there board a train, which lets us off at Las Vegas forty hours later. The trip is easy and delightful. The fare is $41.25 and the expense of the trip will be refunded to all purchasers of land.

This proposition has been approved by many hard-headed Licking county people who know a good thing when they see it. Please remember all I say is that you go and see and decide for yourself. Tickets are good returning 15 days later.

It is expected in the next few days that many of our party will be in the city of Las Vegas on Tuesday morning May 5, call upon or address.

DENISON WINS STATE CONTEST

FRED MCARTOR WILL REPRESENT OHIO AT THE INTER-STATE DEBATE.

College Glee Club Leaves for Cleveland Where They Will Give a Concert Saturday.

Granville, May 2.—Under the auspices of the International Peace Association, held here Friday night it was decided, the State Oratorical contest originally intended to have four colleges take part in the contest, but at the last minute Miami flunked and only three were represented, Wooster University, Denison University and the University of Cincinnati.

There was a large attendance and Dr. E. W. Hunt, president of Denison University, pronounced the benediction, after which Dr. Simon B. Weston, dean of Antioch college, who was chairman of the meeting gave a brief history of the Peace movement.

Frederick Eastman of Wooster University, was the first speaker and spoke on "America's Place in Peace." Denison's representative, Fred McArtor spoke on "Military Selection and its Effect on National Life." The University of Cincinnati's representative, E. S. Anthony, speaking on "The Voice of the People." The judges were Prof. A. Cleveland Hall of Kenyon college, Prof. J. G. Haisman of Heidelberg, and Prof. Charles Shively of Oberlin. Prizes of $50 and $20 were offered and the winner will represent Ohio in the interstate contest to be held at DePaul University, June 18.

The judges awarded first place to Fred McArtor of Denison.

The Denison Glee club left in full force Saturday morning for Cleveland, O., where they will give a concert Saturday evening in the East End Baptist church, one of the largest and finest in the city. This year's club has been a large success and expects to make a good impression on its first appearance in the northern metropolis.

Many words of praise have been given the work done by the members of the club, the Dayton people saying that it surpassed all work of previous years. The members of the club have all worked hard, and they richly deserve the credit they are receiving. In Cleveland they will not only give a concert but will sing twice on Sunday at the East End church. This church has the second finest organ in the city, given them by John D. Rockefeller and its pastor, Dr. Wallace, many Granville people will remember from his visit to the Ministerial conference the first of April. The members of the club carry with them the best wishes of all.

TO BUILD HISTORIC HOME.
So Infected With Bats It Isn't Fit For People to Live In.
Monticello, the colonial home of Patrick Henry, near Richmond, one of the historic places of Virginia, is to be burned to the ground by its owners, the great-grandchildren of the famous Virginian, because the place has become overrun with bats.

Since warm weather began there is no living in or near the place. Bats by thousands hang about the grand parlors and spacious bedrooms of the mansion.

Attempts to exterminate them by poison and with clubs have failed. They are in every room. They hang in strings from the furniture, from the ceiling, from the walls, and they are in such numbers that they form curtains before windows, darkening the house. The house has become uninhabitable.

There is quite a difference between delivering the goods and being caught with them.

DR. KNAUSS HEARS FROM STATE BOARD

Dr. C. O. Probst of the State Board of Health, in a recent communication to Dr. W. H. Knauss, chief of the Newark health department, states that it appears that a number of cases of typhoid fever have not been reported to the local department, and ordered that all such cases should be reported immediately. Dr. Probst quoted Sec. 2125 Revised Statutes, which requires that all cases of typhoid be reported to the health department at the time of diagnosis. If the instructions of the department are obeyed a serious epidemic of this dread disease may be avoided.

THE TRUE TEST.
Tried in Newark, It Has Stood the Test.

The hardest test is the test of time, and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Newark. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

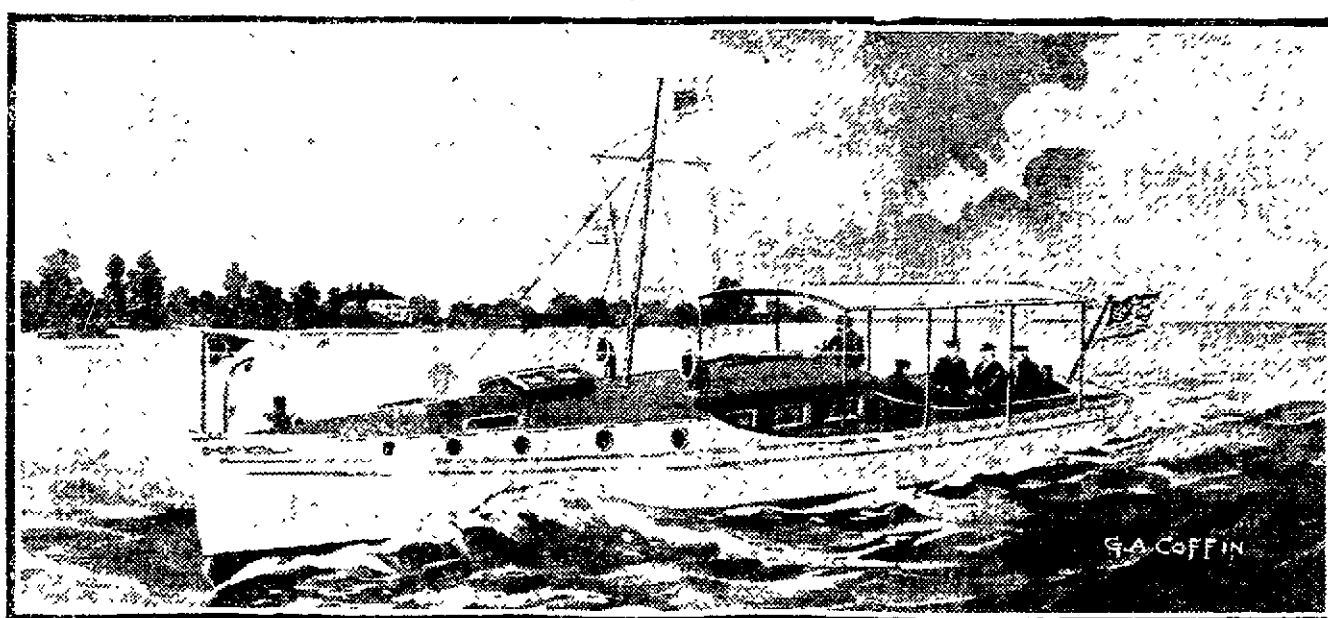

C. L. Starr, 89 Hancock street, Newark, Ohio, says: "I have had no occasion to retract anything from the statement I made in 1901, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, as the cure they performed at that time has remained permanent. Prior to using this remedy I suffered for years from kidney complaint and backache and although I used numerous remedies, I was unable to obtain relief. I had a constant pain across my loins and if I attempted to stoop my suffering was greatly increased and if I sat in one position for any length of time, it was almost impossible for me to rise. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at Crayton's drug store and was agreeably surprised at the quick way in which they disposed of my backache and improved my condition in every way. My wife seeing the benefit that I had obtained from the use of this remedy, began its use and obtained satisfactory results. I am always glad to say a few words in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills."
